HOUSE FRAMES ECONOMY BOARD AND NEW TAXES

Outlines 600 Million Sales Impost.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—While the house was creating the new economy committee to survey the possibilities of a radical reorganization of the government and a drastic reduction of federal expenditures, the ways and means committee today began drafting the revenue bill increasing taxes to meet the deficit.

HENRY T. RAINEY.

In expectation that the committee will vote tomorrow for the inclusion of a manufactures sales tax designed to raise 600 millions of dollars, the subcommittee of which Rep. Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.], majority leader of the house, is chairman, started drafting this portion of the measure this afternoon.

Treasury Will Frame Tax.

Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, after a conference with the President, appeared before the full committee this morning and pledged the coöperation of the administration with the Democratic leadership in framing the bill for additional tax revenue sufficient to meet the prospective deficit of $1,240,000,000 in the fiscal year of 1933. While expressing preference for the administration schedule of new taxes, which does not include a manufactures tax, Mr. Mills said the treasury would submit a workable plan for assessment and collection of such an impost.

The Rainey subcommittee is proceeding on the basis of exempting from the manufactures tax farm products, fertilizers, food and clothing, except "luxury foods" and "luxury clothing." Also exempt will be manufacturers whose total annual output is valued at not more than $15,000 or $20,000. With these exemptions and with duplications eliminated, it is calculated that manufactured articles valued at about 30 billions of dollars would be taxable. At a 2 per cent rate, the yield would be 600 millions.

Imports Taxed Also.

It is proposed to apply the tax at the point of final processing before the article goes to the wholesaler. The same tax is to be levied on imported articles in addition to the tariff.

The Democrats also contemplate imposing excise taxes on numerous articles and services, including telegraph and telephone messages, gasoline, electricity, gas, theater tickets and possibly candy and chewing gum.

Representative James T. Igoe [Dem., Ill.] has written the committee proposing a tax of two cents a bottle on ginger ale, white rock, coca cola, spring waters, near beer and "all sparkling beverages."

Democratic members of the committee said that it would be necessary to obtain more revenue from income taxes than Mr. Mills had proposed because his calculation was based on boosting the taxes on 1931 incomes, whereas the committee will not apply the increases retroactively.

Increase in Surtaxes.

The present plan is to start the surtaxes at the level of $6,000 income, as Mr. Mills proposed, but boost the rate considerably more in the higher brackets so as to impose a maximum of 40 per cent on incomes of $100,000 or over instead of Mr. Mills' 42 per cent on incomes of $500,000 or over.

The Democrats furthermore are disposed to reduce the maximum allowance for earned income considerably below the present $30,00[illegible] some of them favoring complete repeal of this provision. There is general agreement on termination of all the tax increases on June 30, 1934.

To the economy committee, following its creation by the house this afternoon Speaker Garner appointed Representatives Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], William R. Wood [Rep., Ind.], John J. Cochran [Dem., Mo.], William Williamson [Rep., S. D.], Lewis W. Douglas [Dem., Ariz.], C. William Ramseyer [Rep., Ia.], and John McDuffie [Dem., Ala.]. The committee which is to report its findings by April 15 will begin work by asking President Hoover for his detailed views on reorganization and economy.

PLANES HURL EXPLOSIVES ON CHINESE POSTS

22,000 More Troops to Join Drive.

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 24 (Wednesday).—(AP)—Rumors whirled about today that Japanese troop reinforcements expected to come here had arrived at Woosung, outpost of the Shanghai front, 16 miles from the city. There was no sign of any additional Japanese soldiers at Woosung, however, at noon.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 24 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Japanese airmen bombed the Chinese stronghold at Kiangwan in a furious attack that shook the countryside today, but again failed to blast out the Chinese, who still swept the enemy with an ever constant rifle and machine gun fire.

Two Chinese airplanes in turn bombed the Japanese headquarters near Kiangwan. They missed their target by only 100 feet.

The air attack was followed up by frenzied fighting. The Japanese had launched a desperate attempt to take Kiangwan in the darkness before dawn. Their batteries on the Kiangwan golf course opened fire on the Chinese positions, but the artillery attack brought them nothing.

Change Fighting Style.

Then they shifted the style of their attack in which for five days they had sought to capture Kiangwan, focal point midway of the Shanghai battle line from Chapei to Woosung, and took to the air in a spectacular offensive.

Headquarters of Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, Japanese commander, behind the Kiangwan lines, said more Japanese soldiers were expected to come to the aid of his forces.

Japanese officials said two additional army divisions—about 22,000 men—would sail from Japan in the near future and that with their arrival Lieut. Gen. Uyeda would be superseded by a full general.

A fleet of eight giant bombing planes darkened the skies over Kiangwan's northwest sector and set loose the rain of blows that made the ground fairly tremble. They used 250 pound missiles in their attempt to obliterate the Chinese defenses and open a way for the Japanese to enter into the beleaguered village.

Fail to Obliterate Chinese.

The raid lasted less than a half hour, causing tremendous damage to the Chinese positions, although immediately afterward little happened in the way of a Japanese advance.

When the smoke and débris laden air partially cleared the Chinese were still there, continuing to pour rifle and machine gun bullets at the Japanese positions.

After the planes had flown up and down the Chinese lines, systematically bombing them the Japanese batteries again opened fire and a general advance of armored cars, tanks, and infantry was ordered.

The bombing planes came out of the Japanese air field on the northeast border of the international settlement of Shanghai. They flew low over the Chinese lines, disregarding the machine guns which spat a steady stream of bullets at the huge war birds, apparently without effect.

Carry Two Bombs Each.

Maneuvering into position, a Japanese pilot would look over the side of his plane. Then he would signal to other members of the crew controlling the bombs, of which each ship carried two. A huge missile would shoot to the earth. Within a few moments it would shake the ground and a column of dirt and debris would shoot skyward a hundred yards.

The huge planes repeated the dash over the Chinese lines until their two bombs each had been hurled against the entrenched Chinese. When the attack was completed the entire area was darkened by the dirt and dust hurled skyward.

The bombers departed and several smaller planes appeared high above the line. They began dropping smaller missiles, which, in comparison with the enormous explosives of the first onslaught, seemed like toys.

Troops Take a Rest.

Then the area for a while settled back into comparative inactivity. The boom of the artillery punctured the atmosphere, but for the moment the troops appeared to be resting for the renewed storm to come.

Japan's Reply to Peace Plea Shocks League

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Feb. 23.—Japan's answer to the league's appeal to be good and stop the war in Shanghai was received here tonight and caused great dismay in the secretariat of the league of nations because of the stiffness of its verbiage.

It starts off significantly, "The Japanese government cannot understand why the appeal of the twelve powers is addressed to Japan as though she is able by some unspecified act of forbearance to immediately bring about a cessation of the alarming situation at Shanghai.

"It is to the Chinese as attacking parties to whom the appeal ought to be made."

"Why Condone Chinese?"

It goes on: "There is no possible reason why the aggressive measures of China should be condoned because of her pacific declarations while the defensive measures of Japan are being branded as hostile. While Japan is daily sustaining losses of life and treasure through the Chinese military attacks, it is distinctly surprising to be told that China is willing to settle all disputes by peaceful means."

Japan's regret that she cannot "unreservedly put herself in the hands of her colleagues" rang like the death knell to some league officials. Legally Japan is under no promise to do otherwise, says her note, and morally she believes she is in better position to appreciate the facts than any "distant power."

Tokio remarks that the league pact was not invoked when American and British forces bombarded Nanking several years ago. The pact does not exclude self-defense nor does it leave China free to attack everybody in sight.

Called Rebuff to League.

Although Japan throughout the note repeats assurances of her gratitude for the council's humanitarian acts, neutral observers say it is clear she had handed the league its worst rebuff in its history.

Coolly the note states, "if the note had any positive suggestions to offer such as a safety zone adjoining Shanghai," the appeal would be "intelligible."

Denies Territorial Ambitions.

Moreover, Tokio tells the league for certain that its observations are "superfluous" and "notably obscure," for Japan, it said, entertains no territorial or political ambitions in China.

Again she tells the council that it had no right to cite the nine power pact. Japan it appears cannot enter a discussion of that treaty with powers other than those who are parties to the engagement.

The reply declares the Japanese government cannot consider China as an "organized people" in the sense used by the league covenant.

It is impossible any longer to treat the chaos in China as if it were order, Japan continues. The authorities in the various parts of China derive their titles only from the fact that they exercise control within limited areas, the league is informed, and they have no title to extend their control beyond these areas.

Opera Lovers Mostly Posers, Says Laforge

New York, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The man who doesn't like grand opera because it's "all a lot of Greek" found a hearty sympathizer today in a man who has spent a lifetime developing grand opera stars.

"If opera is to survive in America it must be made intelligible to all of us," said Frank Laforge, who has been called a great teacher by such singers as the late Enrico Caruso, Lawrence Tibbett and Madame Schumann-Heink.

And then he told why he thinks a large percentage of so-called opera-lovers are nothing but hypocritical posers.

Raps "Opera Fans."

"How can you expect a man to appreciate the songs of Brahms if he doesn't know whether they're about nightingales or a fire in the next town?

"In Europe—and they've produced a few musicians over there—they're much more interested in a singer with excellent diction than in one with a far superior voice whose words they can't understand. And the singing must be done in their own language. But here—"

Mr. Laforge sighed and continued.

"Here the wealthy linger too long over their dinner. They arrive late at the opera. They don't understand a word that's being sung. The plot probably is very complex, so that no one who missed the opening scene could possibly make out what the opera is all about.

"But these posers sit back with a rapt expression on their faces and pretend to be going simply crazy over the opera.

"I insist the mind must be kept active if one is going to appreciate music, and that's why it's essential to understand what the singing is about."

Has Priceless Treasures.

As he talked Mr. Laforge sat in his uptown studio surrounded by priceless treasures. On a table nearby was the original manuscript of the "Pirates of Penzance," in Gilbert's careful handwriting.

Behind him on a wall was a framed diploma from the Paris conservatory dated 1845. It bears the signatures of Chopin, Auber, Thalberg, Kalfbrenner, Chopin's teacher, and many other musicians whose names now loom on the horizon of musical history.

Police Gazette Gives Way to Modern Age

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The barber shop now has definitely become the bobber shoppe; the Police Gazette has joined the pot-bellied stove and the box filled with sawdust in the limbo of the things that were. There they shall sleep with the racks of individual shaving mugs bearing on their porcelain sides the names of the town's leading citizens.

The pink sheet which reached its climax in the mauve decades today was petitioned into involuntary bankruptcy. It suspended publication on Feb. 13, when its weekly issue failed for the first time since 1845.

The granddaughter of the girl who averted her eyes as she walked past the barber shop lest she see a man's Adam's apple above his collarless shirt band, now walks in, lights a cigaret, and waits her turn in the chair. That and other changes spelled the doom of the 87 year old paper.

Sold 400,000 Copies Weekly.

In its heyday, the Police Gazette sold 400,000 copies weekly. Its readers were uncounted for each copy served many persons.

In the days when no gentleman said leg the Police Gazette contrived to be verbally and pictorially specific by cloaking its discourses on crime and sex in the seven veils of pious moralizing.

The periodical could not well lie exposed beside mother's Godey Book and daughter's "Elsies" on the parlor table, but worthy pater familias could give it a diligent conning on Saturday night while being slicked up for Sunday church.

Burlesque Queens in Tights.

It was father's authority on things dramatic and on things athletic. Men with bulging biceps were pictured in the poses they assumed when ready to face the foe for 40 or 50 rounds. They fought, instead of boxing; their struggles were gigantic and their rewards were small.

Their names were Irish, and John L. Sullivan led them all.

Or pater familias might scan and discuss the bulgings of the latest burlesque queen. Their hour glass figures and the revelations of the tights were things he dare not speak of at home.

Nodding sagely over the warning that high jinks led down to hell, father turned another page, reading further of the shocking lives of those for whom the Greeks and the Old Testament had names aplenty. Each week the choicest bit of society scandal appeared under this heading:

THIS WICKED WORLD

Strange Case of Man's Duplicity and Woman's Worse Than Weakness.

As a crusader against vice, a mysterious Paul Prowler of the Gazette staff sacrificed himself to explore the underworld and tell what he saw both in words and pictures. He prided himself he could find bigger and better sins than could the crusading divines of the time who of themselves were considerable crusaders. Easily shocked, he exposed vice week after week in gratifying detail.

Promoted Freak Contests.

The paper, under Richard Fox as editor, gave Sullivan the famous $4,000 diamond studded belt which brought the magazine a million dollars' worth of publicity. He promoted contests—even in oyster eating—and gave other belts to all his champions.

The advertising department took a broad view of life. Bottles of the water of the fountain of youth were offered in great profusion. Marked cards, loaded dice, or other aids to ready money were offered and tucked away in corners, the modest advertisements of young women seeking husbands, or vice versa.

It was in 1876 that the Gazette reached its zenith. Creditors today forced the final step.

Spenders Told They Must Lift Burden.

County Takes Action

While tax spending officials were receiving new warnings that the tax load must be lightened, two governing bodies took action toward that end yesterday:

1—County board stood pat on its economy program despite the opinion of Judge Fisher that it had no right to reduce the fee office jobs. Details on page 2.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Chicago's taxes for 1931 should be reduced $70,000,000 below the 1930 taxes, now in collection, according to George O. Fairweather, chairman of the joint tax commission, who appeared before the school board yesterday. Mr. Fairweather and others were invited to advise the board on the amount of tax income it might expect as a basis for authorizing expenditures this year.

The estimated 1930 taxes of the eight major governments within Chicago total $250,857,516. Mr. Fairweather would cut this amount to $180,000,000 as the total tax bill of Chicago on the 1931 levy. He argued that a larger sum could not be collected and that to assess more would merely discourage efforts to pay. He advocated a tax cut of 28 per cent on all property and about 40 per cent on real estate. He would attain this result by the coöperation of the tax spending bodies in limiting expenditures.

Fox Also Urges Cut.

Charles Fox, chief appraiser of the board of assessors, urged a reduction of 18 per cent in tax rates. In addition he would lower the assessed valuation of real estate 20 per cent, which means that individual owners of real property would receive a reduction of approximately 32 per cent.

County Judge Jarecki told the trustees that the total property on the tax rolls for 1931 and 1932 will be larger than for 1930. In a court ruling he has held the 1928 and the 1929 taxes invalid, and by inference the 1930 assessment also, because of the omission of personal property from the tax rolls. The judge estimated yesterday that between 50 and 70 per cent of the 1930 taxes will be paid.

Victor Olander of the Illinois Federation of Labor advised the board to make no further reduction in its 1932 budget, but he said he wanted something done to improve the credit of the local governments. "Those who believe in private property can not permit the government to fail," he said.

Bankers Hear Statements.

Several bankers listened to the statements. Among them were W. R. Dawes of the Central Republic bank, Frank Gordon of the First National, John Denison of the Continental Illinois, and Patrick G. Morris of the Northern Trust.

The statement of Mr. Fairweather won much attention and comment. He suggested a selective retrenchment in tax levies according to a priority based upon the relative importance of the various purposes for which appropriations are made. He presented what he thought those retrenchments should be on the tax levies of the local governments, omitting the nonreducible levies for bonds and interest and like items.

Shows Table of Reductions.

Government—	1930 levy.	Proposed cut.
County corporate	$11,633,218	$ 4,000,000
County highway	4,736,143	4,700,000
Forest preserve and zoo	1,193,327	1,000,000
Sanitary district corporate	5,733,234	2,000,000
South park and museum	4,983,777	2,100,000
West park corporate	2,538,302	1,200,000
Lincoln park corporate	3,062,467	1,500,000
Pension funds	3,079,154	1,000,000
Public library	2,852,240	1,500,000
City corporate and working cash	55,750,740	18,000,000
School buildings	18,944,575	15,000,000
Educational, textbooks, playgrounds	83,462,273	18,000,000
Totals	$172,719,480	370,000,000

Mr. Fairweather advocated concerted action by all of the local governments on retrenchment. Otherwise he asserted one government may nullify the saving on another by an increase in taxes.

Coöperation Is Essential.

"Unless the officials of the eight major taxing bodies act collectively to reduce the total of the 1932 tax levy it is likely to be increased," said Mr. Fairweather. "Unless the scale of public expenditures and real estate taxes is reduced to the levels indicated, the taxpayers will be neither able to pay the bill nor disposed to try."

Speaking on the tax levies for the educational, playground and free text book funds of the school board, Mr. Fairweather said:

"Reduction of $13,000,000 below the 1930 levy would mean appropriations payable out of taxes of about $35,500,000 for these purposes.

"It is obvious that such extensive retrenchment will restrict the functioning of the schools in 1932, even with the wisest distribution for instruction, administration and operation. It may well be that the wisest application of this total sum would be to shorten the school year by closing the schools between April and October and eliminating for the present all controversial subjects and activities.

"A six or seven month school year is not an attractive picture, but it appears far preferable to being unable to keep the schools open during the winter months for the next two or three years."

Lists Benefits to Public.

"The effects and results of these estimates, suggestions and recommendations can be briefly summarized as follows:

"1. They would reduce the 1932 taxes in Chicago to $180,000,000, which will be 28 per cent below the 1930 taxes now being billed.

"2. They would reduce the total tax upon real estate for 1932 in Chicago to approximately 60 per cent of the 1930 real estate taxes.

"3. They would reduce the rate at which obligations are being incurred by the eight major local governments to a point at which some progress could be made by the community in working out from under the constantly increasing load of debt in the form of unpaid bonds, tax warrants, intercat, supply bills, contract obligations, pay rolls, scrip and judgments.

"4. They would give an incentive to property owners which would do more to stimulate the payment of taxes than all of the campaigns of pressure, publicity and pleading which can be organized."

New Basis of Valuation.

As a means of determining what the reduction in real estate tax valuations should be, Mr. Fairweather said he had investigated 50 properties, well improved and well managed. These properties for the tax years of 1928-'29 and 1930 had a full appraised value of $116,014,783. The gross income from the property in 1928 was $15,130,210.42 and for 1931 the gross income decreased to $12,400,806.69, and for 1932 it is estimated at at $10,970,000. The expenses of operating these properties, exclusive of taxes and depreciation, were $5,718,157 for 1928. For 1931 the expense was reduced to $4,845,124 and it is estimated that it will be gotten down to $4,500,000 for this year.

After listing the taxes for several years on these properties, Mr. Fairweather said: "If these properties are to pay their operating expenses of $4,500,000 in 1932 and to make just the interest upon conservative mortgages—six per cent upon 60 per cent of the 1928-'29-'30 appraised values—out of a gross income of $10,970,000, the taxes cannot exceed $2,290,000. The taxes for 1930 total $2,893,176.

Taxing Equities Away.

"Equities in real estate mortgaged to 60 per cent of the 1929 tax appraisals cannot survive unless there is more than a 20 per cent reduction in real estate taxes. Without a much greater reduction in real estate taxes there can be no incentive for any owner of real estate, mortgaged to 60 per cent of the 1928 appraised value, to pay any of the taxes.

"While present taxation levels continue there will be every incentive for property owners so situated to resist the efforts to enforce the collection of taxes by legal or political action. Mass resistance will break down any assessing and collecting machinery."

Burglars Invade Church on South Side; 2 Caught

Three burglars broke into the First Unitarian church, 57th street and Woodlawn avenue, early today. Residents of the neighborhood saw them shatter a window and called the police. The trio were still looking for something to steal when the police arrived. They tried to flee, but two of them surrendered when Sergt. Fred Tapscott and his men fired a dozen shots at them. The prisoners said they were James Baker, 19 years old, 5520 Drexel avenue, and John Harland, 29 years old, 624 South State street.

COUNTY STANDS PAT ON JOB CUTS DESPITE JUDGE

Fisher Warns Board on Fee Office Slashes.

The budget makers of the county board were thrown into confusion yesterday when Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court told them that, in his opinion, they had no legal right to discharge 285 of the 499 employés they voted to dismiss Monday night.

JUDGE FISHER.

A tumultuous session ensued, but the commissioners refused to alter their program of economy. They went ahead at a night session, lopping 56 more jobs off the county highway department pay roll, making a total of 555 pay rollers to be dismissed on March 1. They also reduced the 1931 and 1932 highway tax levy from ten cents to five cents, thus claiming that they had saved $2,000,000 each year, or a total of $4,000,000.

Jacobs Raises Point.

However, J. L. Jacobs, efficiency engineer, punctured the complacency with which the board regarded this paper saving. He declared that the road tax levy should be abolished entirely for 1932, inasmuch as the board still has $4,000,000 in uncollected 1931 highway taxes coming to them. The board deferred action on his suggestion.

Judge Fisher's opinion affected the 285 employés in the county fee offices. He asserted that inasmuch as the Circuit court fixes the number of employés in these offices, the county board has no right to reduce that number. The fee offices include the clerks of the Circuit, Superior, Probate, County, and Criminal courts, the county clerk, coroner, sheriff, recorder, treasurer, and state's attorney.

Whealan Speaks His Mind.

A flood of oratory followed Judge Fisher's opinion. The excited conjectures concerning possible contempt of court action for the commissioners and the constant interruptions from complaining officials who filled the board rooms finally caused President Emmett Whealan to arise and thunder:

"All that's been done this afternoon is dilly dallying! You commissioners lack the courage to do what should be done. The law says you should keep the budget within the revenues. You've got to make these job cuts. I suppose I will be driven out of politics for what I am advocating——"

"That's why you feel so broad minded," interrupted Mrs. Edward J. Fleming.

"I'm not a hypocrite," shot back Whealan. "I don't see how any sensible being can be blind to what we must do."

Stands by Jacobs' Report.

"Why can't we have the department heads come in here and suggest jobholders that could be fired?" asked Mrs. Fleming. "Why do we have to take the recommendations of this so-called efficiency expert [J. L. Jacobs] with his blue pencil, who doesn't know what's going on in the different offices?"

"Because every official has pets in office who would never be fired," declared Whealan. "There are jobholders in office who would never be missed except for the roar that would come from their political sponsors."

Judge Fisher was before the board to urge the board not to abolish the public behavior clinic at the Criminal Courts building. The commissioners cut the clinic out of the budget Monday. Judge Fisher asserted that the clinic saved the county money by eliminating long insanity trials. He was joined in his plea by Judges John Prystalski, George F. Rush, Thomas Taylor Jr., and a number of others.

Fisher Explains Views.

As the judge finished his argument, Mrs. Fleming arose to ask him his opinion of the legality of the dismissal of 499 employés.

"The situation was summed up some time ago by Judge William V. Brothers," said Judge Fisher. "The Circuit court fixes the maximum number of jobs in each fee office. The county board fixes the salaries. The elected official decides how many employés he should hire up to the maximum limit."

"I understand from reading Judge Brothers' interview that we could ignore the judges' orders," said Commissioner William Busse.

"The Supreme court has held that the Circuit court alone may fix the number of employés and you may not trifle with that," declared the judge. "However, you are supreme in fixing the salaries at any amount you wish."

Whealan Tells Dilemma.

"But we've got to give them a living wage," said President Whealan. "Our budget was $3,070,000 over our estimated revenues. We cut the county hospital, Oak Forest institution, and other departments to a dangerous level. We slashed salaries 15 per cent. We have decided to fire 499 employés. We've saved $2,600,000 and we must still save $470,000 more. What would you do?"

"I would suggest that a committee of three judges meet with three commissioners," said Judge Fisher. "I think you will find that the judges' understand your problems. Do they not, Mr. Jacobs?"

"There was a slight difference of opinion of 285 jobs," responded Jacobs dryly.

"This is no time to be sitting around in conferences," said Commissioner Busse.

Amelia Sears Objects.

"A county board committee has already asked the Circuit court judges to eliminate jobs," said Miss Amelia Sears. "We were ignored. I'm against the suggested conference."

"If we don't pass this budget before March 1, it will cost us $200,000 a month more," said President Whealan. "We can't stand any more delay."

Commissioner Peter M. Kelly moved that Judge Fisher's suggestion be voted upon but the other commissioners demurred. No action was taken on the plea to restore the behavior clinic to the budget.

Frank Matousek, representing County Recorder Clayton F. Smith, objected to the proposed slash of 42 jobs in the recorder's office. He pointed out that the recorder voluntarily eliminated 40 jobs this year and has endeavored to coöperate with the board.

Attorney Thomas D. Nash, representing County Treasurer McDonough, objected to the cut of 115 jobs ordered in the treasurer's office. Similar objections came from other officials whose departments were slashed in the oconomy budget. The commissioners listened to all, but gave no sign that they would retreat from the stand they have taken.

Aldermen Request Governor to Call 4th Special Session

The city council adopted a resolution yesterday asking Gov. Emmerson to call a fourth special session of the legislature at once to consider financial relief for Chicago.

The resolution, presented to the council by its judiciary committee, of which Ald. Thomas O'Grady [14th] is chairman, was the subject of some intricate parliamentary maneuvering. Before approving it the aldermen held out two clauses which were objected to on the ground that they might hamper the collection of 1930 taxes.

Defer Installment Action.

One of the clauses on which action was deferred was an appeal to the legislature to authorize payment of the 1930 taxes in two installments, on April 15 and Oct. 15. Th other proposed that the 1932 taxes be funded by a bond issue, except the portions levied for state purposes and bond and interest payments. These two sections were deferred and published and final action will be taken on them at the next regular council meeting, March 9.

As adopted, the resolution urges the passage of senate bill No. 50. This bill permits the County court to order a reassessment where property has been omitted or undervalued, and to grant rebates to taxpayers who have overpaid as a result of such errors, provided a reassessment of personal property for 1928 and 1929 is ordered also.

Would Amend Basic Law.

The resolution also urges that the principle of uniformity as applied to personal and real property be abolished in order that personal property may be assessed fairly and completely. This would require a constitutional amendment.

On the introduction of the resolution Ald. John S. Clark [30] protested that the proposal to permit payment of 1930 taxes in installments would unsettle taxpayers and frustrate the present drive to obtain payment of these taxes. Ald. O'Grady obtained permission to withdraw the report for further deliberation by his committee.

Later, however, he reintroduced the resolution as a ward matter and the council resolved itself into a committee of the whole to discuss it. It was on the suggestion of Ald. Jacob M. Arvey that action on the tax funding and installment clauses was deferred.

The council adopted a resolution by Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th] asking the county treasurer to give the council a list of all properties in the county which are exempt from taxes because of their use for religious, educational, or other purposes.

Ald. Clark announced that hearings will start at 11 o'clock this morning on Mayor Cermak's proposal to eliminate 2,479 city employés, at a budgetary saving of approximately $6,300,000. Members of the finance subcommittee who will conduct the hearings with him are Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], William A. Rowan [10th], John A. Massen [48th], and Oscar F. Nelson [46th].

(Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.)

CHERBOURG, France, Feb. 23.—While dock workers were transferring a $24,000,000 shipment of gold from a tender which had taken it off the Berengaria to the docks here, the hoisting chain of a steam crane broke this morning and spilled six barrels containing ingots worth $320,000 into the sea.

Altogether ten barrels were being lifted from the tender's deck to the quay when the accident happened, but four landed at the dock's very edge. Although these four barrels burst only two of twenty-eight gold bars rolled into the water.

Divers went down to recover the precious metal immediately. When they were forced by darkness to quit work at 5 p. m. they had brought up five barrels. They expect to easily salvage the one remaining barrel imbedded in the mud tomorrow. They say they may have difficulty in finding the two loose ingots, each of which is valued at $4,800. The entire shipment of gold was consigned to the Bank of France and was covered amply by insurance before it left New York, Cunard Line officials said.

SOLDIER SHOULD BE USED TO IT, SO BOY SHOOTS HIM

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Private Thomas Tobin was seated on a park bench meditating on the things on which a private of the regulars meditates.

Robert Spencer, 13, and Gordon Atkinson, 13, told the authorities Youngclaw remarked:

"There's a soldier—he's used to being shot at and will make a fine target."

Tobin will recover. The youth was held for the juvenile court.

COUNTY RECEIVES ITS FIRST 1930 TAXES ON REALTY

Payments on Personalty Bills Continue.

The first of the 1930 real estate taxes were paid yesterday. County Treasurer McDonough received $79,969.70 from the first bills sent out in the downtown district. Collection of 1930 personal taxes, begun on Friday, swelled the total revenue received to $3,452,631.83.

The Chicago club, 400 South Michigan avenue, paid its real estate tax bill in full, $69,969.70, on an assessed valuation of $1,038,126. In addition M. Born & Co. paid $10,000 on account on three parcels of real estate.

Aims at $7,000,000 Tomorrow.

The day's collections in personal property taxes were $78,093, making a total of $3,372,662.13 that has been paid in this class of taxes. The county treasurer hopes to have collected more than $7,000,000 in personal property taxes by tomorrow night.

The last of the 1930 personalty bills will be turned over to the treasurer's office for mailing this morning. About 70,750 bills are to be mailed. Real estate tax bills for some of the country towns will be ready for delivery to country town collectors tomorrow. City bills will be mailed for the south and north towns at the end of the week.

WOMEN TO RULE IN AURORA ON LEAP YEAR DAY

Women will exercise their leap year privileges in Aurora next Monday, which is Feb. 29. The men of the town have agreed to let them run the city for the day.

There will be a woman mayor, a woman police chief, women traffic cops, women city commissioners and a woman fire marshal, although the regular firemen will stay on duty in case women have to be rescued from burning buildings. Department stores will turn their management for the day over to women executives. Women will run the local newspaper and under the supervision of the regular crews, the street cars.

PLAYGROUND OF TWO NATIONS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Fusing of Glacier National park, Montana, and Waterton Lakes National park, Canada, into the "Waterton-Glacier International Peace park," was reported favorably today by the house public lands committee.

Representative Leavitt [R., Mont.], author of the bill to weld the new international link, expressed his hope of its passage before next June.

Glacier park and Waterton Lakes park, Leavitt said, "are in reality a single great scenic area of unsurpassed glory. So closely are they linked that Waterton lake, which gives its name to the Canadian park, is divided by the international boundary line."

"The region itself gave rise to the thought behind the movement to combine these two parks of Canada and the United States into one international park, dedicated as a monument to the peace and good will which for so many generations has existed between the two peoples," the Montana member asserted.

ROB 7 LAWYERS AND 5 CLIENTS IN LOOP OFFICE

Two robbers bound and robbed seven lawyers and five clients, one a woman, in a suite on the tenth floor of the Steuben building, 188 West Randolph street, last night. They fled with $885.

One of the bandits carried a revolver and the other had a supply of cord with which to bind the victims. They entered the offices of the law firm of Harris, Weiner, Joseph & Rabin as Attorney Arnold Harris was conferring with Anthony De Lacey, proprietor of a dancing academy, who lives in the office. All of those in the office were lined against a wall.

The second bandit bound the hands of the victims behind their backs. He then searched them. He took $700 from De Lacey, telling him that they had followed him about the loop for more than three hours seeking an opportunity to hold him up. Attorney Harris lost $20.

The other victims were Attorney Benjamin Joseph, $3; Attorney Leon Weiner, $55; Attorney Edward Rabin, $10; Attorney Harry Horn, $20; Attorney A. Latker, $13; Attorney Maurice Goldberg, $8; Anthony J. Butney, 3009 West 22d street, $50; Miss Babe Greenberg, 6429 South Green street, $20; Joseph Rubenstein, 1540 South Springfield avenue, $2, and Louis Rosenbloom, $2.

The robbers fled. Police searched the building in the belief the bandits were hiding in an office, but found no trace of them.

LAKE FOREST POLICE FORCE HAS BANQUET

The annual banquet of the Lake Forest police department was held last night in the Deerpath inn, in Lake Forest. Chief of Police Frank Tiffany, Mayor A. D. Farwell, Sheriff Lester Tiffany of Lake county, and members of the Lake Forest city council with their wives were guests.

James Griffiths, chairman of the city police committee, a member of the city council, acted as toastmaster. Chief Tiffany was complimented by the speakers on the efficiency of the department.

Pastor Reports Robbery of Safe at Church Club

The. Rev. Leslie Whitcomb, 3700 Rokeby street, last night reported the disappearance of $40 from the safe of the club building adjoining the Lake View Presbyterian church. The money had been collected for church activities. It disappeared on Feb. 16, although neither the safe nor the lock of the club building showed signs of tampering. The loss was not reported at once, the Rev. Mr. Whitcomb said, because it was believed the money had been withdrawn for a legitimate purpose, but an inquiry proved the supposition to be incorrect.

PREDICT ILLINOIS WATERWAY WILL BE OPEN BY FALL

Mild Winter Speeds Work at Dresden Island.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The open winter has enabled contractors to gain a month in building the Dresden island dam, and prospects are that the Illinois waterway will be ready for opening next fall instead of by May 1, 1933, the time originally set by the United States army engineers.

COL. D. I. SULTAN. [A. P. Photo.]

Col. Dan I. Sultan, district engineer, said yesterday that the outlook is that the engineering part of the job will be completed within eight months. "We are working," he said, "on the assumption that we are going to finish by next fall."

Bridges to be built by the state have been delayed, due largely to the prevailing rate of wage bill which was knocked out by the Illinois Supreme court, and fears have been expressed they might prove an obstacle to throwing the waterway open to navigation in the fall.

Bridges No Obstacle—Miller.

Benjamin H. Miller, state supervisor of waterways, however, declared yesterday that the bridge situation in Joliet, where five spans are to be put in, will not be an obstacle, and that the building of the eleven bridges which the state has to throw across the waterway will not hold back navigation for barges in the fall. Four railroad bridges still remain to be disposed of and the federal government has taken it up.

The dam at Dresden island, a short distance below the point where the Des Plaines and Kankakee rivers flow together to form the Illinois river, has been regarded as the key to the completion of the waterway this year instead of next.

A trip to the Dresden island project yesterday showed the work advancing ahead of schedule. The masonry work is being done by the Congress Construction company and J. C. Bonnell, assistant chief, says if the present rate is maintained, the job will be finished by October.

Mild Winter Speeds Work.

Mild winter and a reduced amount of ice and flood water have enabled the contractors to push ahead full speed. They estimate it has meant a gain of a month, at least, in time.

The old coffer dam, built three years ago for the construction of the locks, has been yanked out. A new coffer dam is being built in order to construct a dam across the remaining gap of about 600 feet in the river. Interlocking steel plates have been driven into the river bed as a facing for an earth embankment, and the 600 foot gap is almost closed.

Only about ten feet of rushing water remain, and it is expected the gap will be closed this week. An earth embankment is being built below, and after it is finished all will be ready to pump the water out, and to start excavations on the bed of the river, 16 feet into the solid rock, to get a foundation for the dam.

Engineers' Fears Relieved.

Last year some of the engineers were expressing fears that if the work were pushed full tilt during the winter without waiting for the low water season for construction, ice and flood waters might sweep out the coffer dam and cause property damage below. Mild weather, however, has permitted the construction camp to proceed without delays, although some ice came down the Kankakee.

Out of approximately 100,000 cubic yards of concrete to be poured for the Dresden Island lock and dam, about 75,000 yards is said to be in. Once the dam is finished, the builders say, the remaining parts of the work to finish up the locks can be completed speedily. The dam and lock, with a lift of 17 feet, are to cost about $2,300,000.

Remaining Jobs Listed.

Col. Sultan yesterday listed the biggest jobs now remaining for completion of the waterway as follows:

Dredging in three pools — Starved Rock, Marseilles, and Dresden island. Can be finished by fall.

"The federal government is going to let no grass grow under its feet," said Col. Sultan.

A $100,000,000 Project.

Nearly $100,000,000 is invested in the Illinois waterway, the 60 mile link in the water route between the great lakes and the Gulf of Mexico by way of the Mississippi. The sanitary district of Chicago has spent $70,000,000 on a deep ship canal between Chicago and Lockport. The state of Illinois, when it finishes the bridges, will have spent $20,000,000 of its own money authorized by a constitutional amendment in 1908. The federal government, which took over the completion of the waterway when the state funds ran low, has an appropriation of $7,500,000 for the work.

As to the state bridges, the commonwealth has to build eleven spans across the waterway. The engineers say some of them can be built after the water is backed into the pools and the waterway is thrown open, as is done in constructing bascules across the Chicago river.

State Supervisor Miller said yesterday that contracts are signed for three of the bridges in Joliet, at Jackson, Jefferson and Cass streets.

"The temporary bridge at Van Buren street," he said, "will be open within 30 days, and the tearing out of the Jefferson street bridge can begin.

Bridge Completion by Fall.

"The three Joliet bridges can all be completed by fall. Two other bridges are to be built in Joliet at McDonough and Ruby streets. The foundations can be got in this summer and the superstructure can be built later. It will not interfere with navigation as they are bascules."

The state officials say the tying up of the bridge at Marseilles by temporary injunction will not be an obstacle to navigation of the waterway. Bridges at Brandon road, and at Ottawa and Smith's bridge, they say, will be finished before the waterway is completed. Two bridges at Morris and Seneca are to be built by the state highway department.

Four railroad bridges are still undisposed of. Officials say the Burlington bridge at Ottawa and the E. J. & E. bridge at Lockport must be rebuilt. Two other bridges—at Seneca and Divine—have only a train or two a day and it is conjectured they must be abandoned.

MORE EASTERN UNIVERSITIES HIT BY DEPRESSION

Columbia Calls on Its Alumni for Gifts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Additional universities and colleges in the metropolitan district revealed the extent to which they are feeling the pinch of the depression today following Yale's announcement of a 10 per cent cut in its budget to take care of a $500,000 shrinkage in its annual income.

And, generally speaking, the educational world is determined to make financial ends meet without curtailing its services.

Columbia, New York university, City college, and Princeton all are economizing. They are not yet instituting cuts in the salaries of faculties, but in some cases educational institutions neither are giving salary increases nor promotions that will mean salary increases to faculty members.

Faces Drop in Income.

Up on Morningside heights Columbia university is facing a substantial drop in its income, as a result of the depression, according to facts laid before the working committee of the alumni fund, by President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia.

Speaking before the alumni fund working committee, Dr. Butler, asserted the university looked to its alumni to aid in tiding her through the period of the depression. He showed the alumni how they could assist Columbia through hard times by contributing $10 a year for three years. If the 42,000 alumni of Columbia would subscribe to such a fund the total would be $1,260,000.

Dr. Butler warned the working committee of the alumni fund that Columbia could not look for financial support to larger benefactions at least for some time. It must count upon smaller contributions.

Balance Budget Monthly.

Leroy E. Kimball, controller of New York university, said that expenses were adjusted to income by a monthly balancing of the budget so that New York university had not awakened suddenly to a large deficit in its income.

"We have been drawing in our clothes month by month," explained Mr. Kimball. "Of our total budget of $7,500,000 our readjustment to meet the conditions brought about by the depression have amounted to not more than $200,000."

From Princeton university comes word there will be neither any salary increases to faculty members nor faculty promotions involving salary increases. Princeton is retrenching wherever it is possible to retrench, and athletics is one of the departments that has felt the paring knife.

Pennsylvania U. Retrenches.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The University of Pennsylvania is facing a budgetary deficit of about $300,000 for the fiscal year ending on June 30 next with no visible means of meeting it, but university authorities are planning to have a balanced budget for 1932-33 "through faculty and administrative coöperation in effecting savings," Vice President George A. Brakeley said today.

Defeat Orchestra Leader for Mayor of Seattle

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Three hundred and twenty-five out of 406 precincts in today's mayoralty primary campaign gave John F. Dore, criminal attorney, 36,287 votes. Other totals were: Mayor Robert Harlin, 18,445; Frank Edwards, 14,207; and Vic Meyers, orchestra leader candidate, 3,949.

SCHOOLS, CHURCHES HOLDING SPECIAL WASHINGTON FETES

Washington birthday functions continued throughout the city yesterday, although the major affairs were held on Monday, the 200th anniversary of Washington's birth. Club meetings, church groups, lodges, schools, either were holding special programs yesterday or planning them for the coming week.

A play, "The Contrast," written in 1787 by Royall Tyler, and said to be the first American comedy, was presented yesterday at the Chicago Woman's club by Caroline Barr, reader and playwright. The first Chicago performance of John Alden Carpenter's bicentennial ode, "The Song of Faith," was given yesterday by the Chicago Symphony orchestra in Orchestra hall. The Chicago A Capella choir sang.

Last night Judge Alfred O. Erickson spoke at the Men's Brotherhood of Our Savior's English Lutheran church, 4159 North Laramie avenue. At the same hour an open meeting was held by the Southtown Masonic lodge, No. 1135 in the temple at 6400 South Green street.

Tonight the Wright Junior High school Parent-Teacher association will hold Washington bicentenntial ceremonies at the school assembly hall.

Judge Gentzel Also Asks Prosecutor to Act.

Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel yesterday ordered the receiver for the Northwestern Trust and Savings bank to restore $250,000 in cash from the assets of the institution to 100 disabled war veterans, all wards of the Probate court, whose accounts in the form of trust funds had been deposited there. The order was given when the court learned that officials of the bank had used the trust funds without the knowledge of the court to purchase worthless real estate bonds.

Judge Gentzel also ordered the receiver, David E. Shanahan, state representative and speaker of the general assembly, to report his findings to the state's attorney's office. He asked that Receiver Shanahan report to him the progress of any prosecution of the bank officials within the next week, saying that if the matter were delayed he would take the prosecution into his own hands.

Veterans in Hines Hospital.

The bank had been appointed trustee for the veterans, most of whom are patients at the Edward Hines Memorial hospital, by Probate Judge Horner. When the institution was closed last June the receiver prepared an audit of all the trusts.

The audit accounts containing the reports of the bond purchases were submitted for approval to the law bureau of the veterans' hospital. Attorney Frank A. Barry, representing the bureau, returned the report, objecting to the bonds on the ground that most of them were in default, and asserting that the court had not approved the purchase of any of the securities.

The charges were referred to Louis J. Behan, attorney for Receiver Shanahan, and the report was laid before Judge Gentzel yesterday.

Orders Receiver to Take Bonds.

"There is only one thing to do," Judge Gentzel said, "replace the bonds with cash from the assets of the bank, and take the bonds for what they are worth. The other depositors will suffer, but there is nothing else for the court to do under the law.

"I want this entire matter placed in the hands of the state's attorney so that the guilty individuals, whether they be the trust officers of the bank or the bank directors, will be prosecuted. If there is no action from that source within one week I'll take over the prosecution myself."

The president of the bank was Frank Lackowski, and the cashier, John Budzbahn, the receiver said. During the 10 years that the bank was trustee for these funds it is stated that there have been several trust officers.

John Bain, head of the defunct bank chain bearing his name, will be arraigned with five others today before Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher in the Criminal court on charges of conspiracy growing out of the bank failures.

Nelson Trial Delayed.

The trial of State Auditor Oscar Nelson, charged with conspiracy to defraud depositors in the closed Waukegan State bank, was postponed yesterday at Woodstock before Circuit Judge E. D. Shurtleff to March 21. The trial of George Woodruff, former chairman of the National Bank of the Republic, and Norman O. Geyer, former president of the Waukegan State bank, was set over to April 4. They were indicted with Nelson, but obtained a severance.

The postponements were granted by agreement of attorneys, pending completion of negotiations to reopen the closed bank. State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county has said that he will drop the case if depositors are guaranteed against loss.

Louis Kaufman, president of the Kaufman State bank, 124 North La Salle street, which closed recently, was arraigned before Judge James F. Fardy yesterday in the Felony court, charged with embezzlement of $5,000 from the bank. The case was continued to March 17 when prosecutors informed the court that an audit of the bank's books had not been completed.

Samuel Goldberg, 6731 Jeffery avenue, was called before Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg yesterday and asked when he could pay his note for $20,000, one of the assets of the closed Lake View State bank.

Goldberg explained that he first persuaded a group of business men to erect a building, and then got the bank to advance the money.

"You would reach up in thin air, and grab down the money from the bank?" asked Judge Feinberg.

OPENS HEARING ON OBJECTIONS TO STATE ST. SUBWAY

Lawyers Grouped to Speed Up Proceedings.

A roll call of 50 attorneys was completed before Superior Judge Ross C. Hall yesterday morning with the opening of the hearing of legal objections and evidence against the State street subway. Objections are to be presented by more than 350 law firms representing owners of thousands of pieces of property which will be assessed for the project unless their objections are sustained by the court.

For the sake of expediting the proceedings, the attorneys representing the objecting taxpayers have grouped themselves in six parties, each being represented by one law firm. The first group—that of 36 lawyers represented by the firm of Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Platt — completed their legal objections yesterday, and group No. 2, represented by the firm of Wentworth, Cutting, Moore & Sidley, presented objections which Judge Hall overruled.

Both groups withheld three formal objections which will be made by all the groups and ruled upon at the end of these hearings. The formal objections were based upon public benefits, comparative benefits, and general improvement benefits claimed by the city.

Hearing of the objections of group No. 3, consisting of 30 law firms represented by attorneys from the firm of Shannon, Dillon, Hapeman & Dupee, were set for tomorrow. The protests of 34 lawyers represented by the firm of Wilson, McIlvane, Hale & Templeton will be heard next Monday. Others' objections will be heard in March.

At the opening of the morning session Judge Hall informed the assembled objectors that he intended to finish the hearings of both the subway and the State street widening cases, which are coördinated, by September. His ruling on both cases will be given at the same time.

HOT BATTLE SEEN BETWEEN CERMAK AND IGOE CAMPS

Expect Mayor's Forces to Drive on Foe in House.

Early indications of a fight to the finish in the Democratic primaries were sustained yesterday by an examination of the filings at Springfield and in County Clerk Sweitzer's office.

Students of politics saw in the lists indications that the battle between National Committeeman Michael L. Igoe and the Cermak organization will be warm and state-wide, and added that Mr. Igoe's forces appeared to have been somewhat strengthened by candidates filing at the last minute.

Although his lineup is now only in the making, it is expected that Igoe will have alliances downstate and in Chicago before the primary on April 12. The entry of Municipal Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the state's attorney race and the candidacies of Scott W. Lucas of Havana for United States senator and State Representative Truman A. Snell of Carlinville for attorney general were the filings which brought about the Igoe comment.

That the Cermak forces will make an effort to clean out the Igoe supporters in the house of representatives has been a persistent report, and the interpretations of the filings by some observers led them to declare that this is now a certainty.

Mr. Igoe has been making his downstate campaign for several weeks.

Gets Last Place on Ballot.

The filing of Judge Hartigan's petition in Mr. Sweitzer's office three minutes before midnight Monday was accomplished in a manner which gave him the coveted last place on the ballot. One of his supporters arrived about 11:45 and plunged through the crowd of those waiting at the window for the last place. The Hartigan supporter shoved a huge paper parcel, of the thickness of a large petition, through the window and it was promptly seized and stamped by Chief Clerk Dan Carey, as were all other petitions.

Apparently believing that Hartigan's petition was in, workers for other candidates for state's attorney shoved their candidates' petitions through the window, unmindful of a second Hartigan supporter standing quietly by. When clerks behind Mr. Carey unwrapped the bulky parcel they found it contained only waste paper. At 11:57 p. m. the real Hartigan petition was put through the window and he had last place on the ballot.

Brundage Opens Headquarters.

Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general whose petition for the Republican nomination for governor was filed late Monday after a last minute decision, opened headquarters in the Hotel La Salle yesterday. Mr. Brundage said that his office was flooded all day with telegrams and messages of support, many of them from members of his old organization which functioned during his régime as head of the state's legal department.

Omer N. Custer, the Emmerson administration's choice for governor, spent the day at his headquarters in the Morrison hotel mapping an itinerary of towns he will visit when he starts his campaign downstate in about ten days. He expects to devote several weeks to campaigning in Cook county.

The entry of State Senator Jarry G. Wright of De Kalb, Custer's campaign manager, into the race for state auditor brought a reference in the political gossip to the fact that he was one of the European junketeers who, by authority of a $25,000 appropriation from the legislature, toured the continent last summer investigating prison conditions. Lieut. Gov. Sterling, a candidate for reëlection, was also with the party, as was Senator Arthur A. Huebsch of Brookfield, who filed for the Republican nomination for attorney general.

Auditor Oscar Nelson, in announcing his decision not to file, said: "I've been in politics for many years. It does not mean I am out when I decline to seek reëlection. For the next year I can be of more service to the people by not entering into competition for public office."

NORTH SHORE LINE EMPLOYES TAKE 10 PCT. WAGE CUT

Union employés of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad, comprising 900 of the 1,500 employés of the system, yesterday voted to accept a 10 per cent wage reduction, effective for one year beginning March 1. At the expiration of the year the employés will return to the present basic scale for one year.

Arthur Kjellquist, president of local No. 900 of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employés, said the vote had been approximately 75 per cent in favor of the cut. The action of the North Shore union employés which, official said, would doubtless be followed by the other employés of the system, is in line with the action of the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin employés, who on Monday accepted a similar reduction.

HOUSE FRAMES ECONOMY BOARD AND NEW TAXES

Work on 600 Million Sales Impost.

achieve drastic economies is by complete elimination of paternalistic and other activities transcending the scope of the federal government as originally conceived.

Representative Cochran, who is chairman of the committee on executive expenditures, accused the Hoover administration of insincerity in advocacy of economy.

"My purpose in rising," said Mr. Cochran, "is to direct attention to what is going on behind the scenes. The official spokesman in this house of the President on appropriations, Mr. Wood of Indiana, told us last week that he was authorized to say that the President stood squarely behind the appropriations commitee in reducing appropriations below the estimates of the budget. That was most pleasing information but at the time Mr. Wood was making that statement we find the secretary of agriculture and his aids before the senate committee on appropriations making an argument which resulted in the committee eliminating from the agriculture appropriation bill the proviso to reduce the personnel by preventing the filling of vacancies and preventing promotions which would have saved the government millions of dollars."

Cites Appeals By Cabinet.

The Missouri congressman quoted a press statement mailed by Secretary of Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur to all newspapers at government expense protesting against the house appropriations committee's paring of $500,000 from the 1933 allotment for survey of the public domain. The secretary pleaded that the surveying "is largely in the end country."

Mr. Cochran also cited a form letter from the war department asking newspapers to publish editorials opposing suspension of the Citizens' Military Training camps next summer. The letter said such training is particularly needed just now because of "the undercurrent of unrest."

"Think of it," said Mr. Cochran, "the taxpayers' money being used for the purpose of undermining the efforts of the President and members of congress who seek to reduce government expenditures! Three cabinet officers within a week using their efforts to set aside the will of their chief!"

If the President, Mr. Cochran went on, will compel his cabinet to back him and congress, "a reduction in government expenditures will be much more easily accomplished."

"The same applies to reorganization of the government departments," Mr. Cochran concluded. "We find recommendations coming from the White House and opposition from the cabinet. How long is such a deplorable state of affairs to be permitted to exist?"

POOR CROP OF OATS SAVES A FARMER FROM TERM IN JAIL

The poor crop of oats that Frank Reed, 64 years old, had on his farm six miles north of Joliet last year saved him from a jail term and a fine yesterday on charges of violation of the prohibition law. After hearing Reed's story, Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley suspended the sixty day sentence.

Prohibition agents found a brewery in a barn on Reed's farm last August. They seized Reed and John Miller, 26 years old. Miller's sentence also was suspended, when he told Judge Lindley that he had a family and was out of work. Both men had pleaded guilty. They were represented by Attorney Tyrrell Krum.

"How did you happen to get into this?" Judge Lindley asked Reed.

"I didn't have any money and was in debt," the farmer answered. "I sowed 155 acres of my 160 acre farm in oats, but the crop was poor. A man came along and offered to rent my barn for $100. I only got the first payment because of the raid."

"What did you get for the oats you did harvest?" inquired Judge Lindley.

"I only got 13 cents a bushel," said Reed.

"I only got 11 cents for mine," Judge Lindley said, "and it cost 18 cents a bushel to raise my crop. People in the city don't have any idea of the way this depression has hit the farmer."

21 STATES TO BE REPRESENTED IN G. O. P. WET RALLY

Questionnaires Show Rise of Anti-Dry Sentiment.

At least twenty-one states will be represented at the anti-prohibition rally in Chicago on March 4, C. R. Burton, chairman of the local Republican citizens' committee against prohibition, announced yesterday. The meeting will be held in the Blackstone hotel.

More than 6,000 questionaires were sent out in the committee's program for withholding campaign contributions until the Republican party has taken a stand on the liquor question. Eighty-five per cent of the replies approved the program, Mr. Burton said.

Program for the Rally.

The agenda for the rally, as drawn up by Raymond Pitcairn, executive chairman of the committee in Philadelphia, includes five points. They are:

1. A resolution demanding a repeal plank in the Republican platform.
2. Discussion of a national mass-meeting to be held in Chicago prior to the Republican and Democratic national conventions.
3. Selection of permanent officers.
4. Appointment of a ways and means committee to work out effective application of the "no contribution" program.
5. Plans for extension of anti-prohibition sentiment throughout the Republican party.

To the Repeal Republicans.

While invitations have been sent to leading Republicans all over the country asking their attendance and support, those invited are informed that they are assumed to be "Republicans in favor of an unequivocal repeal plank in the platform of the party in 1932."

More than 6,000 questionnaires were the conference, which will be an all day affair, with a luncheon and a dinner. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, is scheduled as the principal speaker at the dinner.

In a statement from Philadelphia, Mr. Pitcairn announced the launching of a definite movement to commit various state delegations at the national convention to a repeal plank in the Republican platform.

Hits at Straddling Leaders.

"We expect to have our ways and means committee on the job during the convention," Mr. Pitcairn, said. "An example of the part this committee can play is illustrated by the opportunity to denounce certain straddling leaders, who wish to shelve the whole prohibition issue.

"The latest scheme of these leaders is to insert a plank to the effect that, if and when a majority of the states demand repeal, congress will have a resolution submitting the question to the states. The delays, confusion and futility of such a scheme are obvious."

Woman Attorney Freed in Conspiracy Case

Mrs. Mary Belle Spencer, attorney and former public guardian of Cook county, was dismissed on a charge of conspiracy yesterday by Judge Thomas Taylor in the Criminal court. The charge grew out of a mortgage deal with the defunct Exchange State bank. Dismissal was under the four term act, she having demanded immediate trial at four consecutive court terms.

HOUSE APPLAUDS BECK'S WET IDEA, VOTES DRY FUNDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Although the majority of the house today applauded the prediction of Representative Beck [Rep., Pa.] that before the next presidential election "many a dry Saul" in their ranks "will become a devout and very wet Paul," that same majority later voted against Representative Beck to sustain the $11,369,500 appropriation asked by the appropriations committee for the enforcement of prohibition in the fiscal year 1933.

JAMES M. BECK. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

By a vote of 74 to 133 an amendment offered by Representative Boyland [Dem., N. Y.] to reduce the item by $3,000,000 failed.

Vote Against Shafer.

Then Representative Schafer [Rep., Wis.] urged his amendment, which would deny the use of any of the appropriation for the tapping of telephone or telegraph wires in an effort to get evidence. This was lost by a vote of 95 to 137.

Representative Tierney's [Dem., Conn.] amendment to deny any part of the appropriation to any state whose legislature declined to appropriate an equal sum was lost, 79 to 176.

And Representative Finley [Rep., Ky.] reintroduced the amendment of last year—that no enforcement plans should be undertaken by the department of justice unless approved by "a convention of bootleggers and moonshiners." When this had got its laugh, its author withdrew it.

In spite of these votes, Representative Beck, one of the leaders of the wet bloc, insisted that, "while a majority of the house has not yet seen the light, they will see it. Many of them are well on the road to Damascus."

Beck Waxes Sarcastic.

Replying to a speech of Representative Blanton, a dry Democrat from Texas, pointing out the justification for wire tapping offered by the attorney general, Representative Beck replied:

"That venerable former justice of the Supreme court, Mr. Justice Holmes, summed up the whole question in two words when he said that wire tapping and its sanction by the federal government was 'dirty business.' You cannot add anything to that."

Melvin Traylor to Address Kentucky Legislature

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago banker and native of Adair county, Ky., today accepted the legislature's invitation to address it in joint session. The invitation was sent to Traylor along with other persons mentioned as potential Democratic presidential nominees.

MEDDLING BY U. S. LAWS PERIL TO NATION—RITCHIE

Talks to 3,000 Students at Michigan U.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—According to historical record there comes to this college town at set intervals of 20 years a Democratic candidate for the presidency who addresses the faculty and undergraduates of the University of Michigan—more or less on the subject of his ambitions.

Grover Cleveland came here just 40 years ago and was elected President in the ensuing campaign. Twenty years later Woodrow Wilson followed Cleveland on the platform of the Students' union and went from there to wage a victorious battle.

Today Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland took his turn in the double decade spaced procession. In the words of National Committeeman Horatio Abbott, who introduced this seeker after the Democratic presidential nomination, to 3,000 students and professors in the great hall of the union he, therefore, is obligated to live up to the university's 40 year tradition of speeding winners on the way to the goal. The candidate's address concerned itself with "that federal meddlesomeness which has come to be called law."

Aims of Nation's Founders.

Talking to students, Gov. Ritchie outlined the ideals and aims of the founders of the republic in their experiment in democratic government. To the United States Supreme court with John Marshall as its pathfinder he handed the credit for the establishment of the Union.

"Because," he explained, "when the question was whether our government was to function nationally or be merely a compact of states, it was John Marshall who made the central government supreme and enduring in its sphere and gave it vitality and economic unity."

Then he went on to adverse present day comparison, citing decisions by the Supreme court which, in his opinion, "if persisted in will steer us from the safe moorings of our past security and stability."

Receives a Warm Welcome.

Accompanied by Dr. Hugh H. Young of Johns Hopkins, Gov. Ritchie motored out to Ann Arbor and spent an hour in strolling over the university campus. The enrollment is almost 7,000 young men and women, and the candidate received a warm welcome from them. Following luncheon, attended by members of the faculty, their wives, and the officers of the Students' union, Gov. Ritchie delivered his address and then returned to Detroit. He and the members of his party left for Maryland this evening.

"There is an idea current in some quarters," said Mr. Ritchie, "that John Marshall invented the doctrine of implied power. I disagree most heartily. He made the central government supreme and enduring in its sphere out of the powers granted by the constitution, but not at the expense of a single right reserved to the states.

"John Marshall knew no power like that. He never said anything to indicate that he would ever have considered the regulation of narcotics to be a part of the taxing power, or the Mann act part of the commerce power, or the maternity act—to advise women on childbirth, arranged mostly by ladies who never had children—this being part of heavon knows what power because the Supreme court holds that neither state nor taxpayer can find out.

"Nor did John Marshall ever indicate that he would have considered that a limitation against drinking liquor for drinking purposes is a limitation against prescriptions for medical purposes, or that the prohibition of liquors which are not intoxicating is justified by the prohibition of liquors that are."

States Giving Up Powers.

The governor declared that it literally was true that the history of the nation in its decisive phases had been written in the chambers of the Supreme court, and he took occasion here to congratulate President Hoover on his selection of Judge Cardozo of New York for elevation to that bench.

By sheer force of usurpation, according to Gov. Ritchie, or supine popular ignorance, individual states are fast surrendering their powers and responsibilities, the privileges of the individual were being destroyed, and local self government is steadily and progressively being weakened.

"There is hardly a phase of your life," he observed, "from the cradle to the grave, from the cellar of your home to the contents of your pocket, into which some federal official cannot pry."

A government of law under which he declared men at least knew what their rights were had been superseded by a government of commissions "until men do not now whether they have any rights at all.

"I need not go on," concluded Gov. Ritchie. "Perhaps the whole tendency of modern government may be summed up as one which aims for a minimum of freedom and a maximum of government instead of a minimum of government and a maximum of freedom."

"Heavens—would you ever dream she'd do a thing like that?"

"WHO would dream she'd wear her underthings a second day?" they whispered. "Everybody perspires a little—it's so easy to offend."

HOW CAN she—how can any girl—run the risk of "undie odor"? The consequences are too serious. Whispered comments, veiled hints. Social loneliness.

All day long underthings absorb perspiration acids and odors. But there is one sure way to know you're fresh and sweet. Lux removes these acids and odors completely, yet saves colors and fabrics.

Avoid "undie odor"—
protect daintiness this 4-minute way:

Wash this 4-minute way:

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali, which weakens threads, fades colors. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

YOUR HANDS deserve gentle care, too. Lux in the dishpan keeps them white and smooth. Costs little!

BILL AUTHORIZING BIGGER NAVY IS O. K.'D IN SENATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The Hale bill carrying a 755 million dollar authorization for the construction of all warships needed to bring the United States fleet up to tonnage parity with Great Britain and the treaty ratios with Japan was approved unanimously by the senate naval affairs committee today. After a short discussion the committee voted to report the bill to the senate with a recommendation that it be passed at once.

FREDERICK HALE. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

Concern over developments in the far east, where Japan is at war with China, coupled with the feeling that the Geneva disarmament conference was likely to fail, were two of the factors prompting the committee to reverse its attitude of a month ago and report the bill out to the senate.

House Falls Behind.

Thus far the house naval affairs committee has not been able to muster the votes necessary to get a somewhat similar measure out of committee and before the house for action.

While senate Republican leaders predicted the bill would receive prompt and favorable action, Democratic leaders were not so optimistic, some going so far as to express the belief that the measure should be delayed pending developments at the Geneva disarmament conference.

Senator Hale [Rep., Me.], chairman, expressed the hope that the senate would pass the measure and send it to the house in time to obtain an early vote in that body.

"I am for the bill and believe it will receive prompt and favorable action," Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], senate majority leader, said today. "Its effect will be to give the American delegates at Geneva real chips with which to sit in the diplomatic game there. Under present conditions with other nations going ahead with building plans our delegates at Geneva are hopelessly handicapped. They have nothing with which to bargain."

"The bill probably will receive favorable consideration," Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], senate minority leader, said when asked what he thought of it. "It is in keeping with our established policy. I am not sure that conditions are such as to make its immediate consideration advisable."

Approved by Reed.

Senator Robinson is a member of the Hale committee but he was not present today. He was one of the senators who represented the United States at the London naval conference. Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], also a London delegate, today urged immediate passage of the Hale measure.

The Hale bill carries no appropriation of funds. It simply authorizes congress to build a London treaty navy up to limits allowed by that pact. It also authorizes modernization of all battleships not yet modernized, including the Colorado, New Mexico and West Virginia, our latest capital ships.

If all ships authorized were built over a ten year period and if the battleships were modernized and all ships now building and authorized were completed in that time the total cost would be 988 million dollars.

PRIMARY AUGURS HOT BATTLE FOR CICERO FEE JOB

A hot election fight over the position of collector for the village of Cicero, a lucrative fee job, was indicated yesterday when party nominees were chosen in the primary. The Republican candidate, Arthur C. Rahlf, was nominated with 3,727 votes, while his Democratic opponent, Frank Cuchna, polled 3,433 votes and defeated four other aspirants.

The collector is paid 2 per cent of all fees he takes in and the job is said to be worth as much as $15,000 in good years.

Other Cicero nominations were:

Office—	Republican.	Democrat.
President	Jos. Z. Klenha.	J. G. Cerny.
Clerk	J. J. Pelikan.	Jerry Viterna.
Supervisor	H. Langner.	A. S. Maciejewski.
Assessor	A. Yendley.	H. R. Schwarzel
Trustee	J. F. Kimbark.	N. Hendrikse.

Klenha, fifteen years president of the village, was nominated without opposition. He polled 5,479 votes, while Cerny drew 4,400. Democrats said these figures represented the smallest number of Republican votes and the largest number of Democratic votes cast in Cicero for years.

Berwyn selected Republican and Democratic nominees for alderman in seven wards yesterday. There were no contests for the Democratic nominations.

Found Guilty of Practicing Medicine Without License

Olive Kendall Harvey, 401 South 17th avenue, Maywood, a naprapath with offices at 159 North State street, was found guilty of practicing medicine without a license yesterday by a jury before Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green. Sentence was withheld pending disposition today of a motion for a new trial.

ACCIDENT ENDS CONGRESSMAN'S FAITH IN AKRON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Representative James V. McClintic [Dem., Okla.], chairman of the house sub-committee to investigate the airworthiness of the navy air cruiser Akron and a leading congressional advocate of aviation as a national defense arm, said today that he had given up the idea of making a flight in the Akron after witnessing the accident to the craft at Lakehurst yesterday.

"I certainly won't make a flight in that airship," said Representative McClintic, "I remember that the nose of the Shenandoah was pulled off in a similar accident, a short while before she crashed. Whether the same thing has happened to the Akron I don't know, but I certainly do not intend to take a ride in her."

He expressed a fear that the dirigible was "irreparably damaged" when she broke her stern moorings and bumped along the ground at the mercy of a sudden gust of wind, and added that the craft appeared to have been subjected to "unusual strains."

Meanwhile, naval officials were insisting that the damage to the cruiser was slight, although it was announced that repairs will require about six weeks, delaying the Akron's scheduled trip to the Pacific coast early next month.

Although he declined to comment on Mr. McClintic's statement, Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams declared he "would like very much to ride in the Akron as soon as she is repaired." Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, expressed the same view.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics issued the following statement regarding the accident:

"Inspection so far made shows that the damage is not serious and merely local, and that the structural integrity of the ship will not be impaired in any way. Repairs can probably be made in about thirty days, and the Akron ready to take part in maneuvers with the fleet on the Pacific coast."

36 MEN SEIZED AFTER MOVE TO BLOCK EVICTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Thirty-six men, some of whom are charged by police with being communists, were arrested yesterday after they had twice replaced the furniture of an evicted family in the flat from which bailiffs had carried it. They were charged with disorderly conduct and inciting a riot.

The disturbance occurred outside the home of Joseph Marki, 2216 Lewis street. He was six weeks behind in his rent and bailiffs went to the flat yesterday and ordered him, his wife, and their three children to vacate it. They carried the furniture to the sidewalk.

A truck bearing banners demanding unemployment insurance drew up before the place and the occupants carried the furniture inside. The bailiffs returned later and carried it out. When the men in the truck carried the furniture back in the bailiffs called police from the Hudson avenue station.

The truck's occupants and a number of men who were clustered about were arrested. A number of the prisoners said that they were members of the unemployed council, which they said has headquarters at 109 West Chicago avenue, next door to the Chicago avenue police station. This group denied they were communists. Others said they were merely bystanders.

IDENTIFIED AS ROBBER.

George Stone, 28 years old, 208 South Desplaines street, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $20,000 by Judge James F. Fardy in the Felony court yesterday after women witnesses had identified him as the robber of several lingerie shops.

MURRAY TAKES BRYAN STAND ON SILVER COINAGE

Reform of Credit Called More Important.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—"Alfalfa Bill" Murray, Oklahoma's governor and candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, is wearing William Jennings Bryan's shoes on the question of free silver, it appeared today in a letter made public by Senator Burton W. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.].

GOV. W. H. MURRAY

Gov. Murray's letter was in reply to one by Senator Wheeler, asking his opinion on the senator's bill to establish a bimetallic currency.

"There can be no dispute about both gold and silver representing value, even without reference to value as money," he wrote. "Since a sound currency should represent a limited proportion of value, plus a reserve of actual money, and since there is not sufficient gold to do this without a diminution of the money in circulation, it would seem essential that silver should be added, as was intended by the constitution.

Should Coin Silver.

"The government should coin a sufficient amount of money, gold and silver, to take care of normal business, and, in addition, a sufficient per cent to become the basis for 'token' money, through bank currency. The world will suffer until that is done."

Gov. Murray pointed out, however, that "breaking the chains that bind credit" was more important than the additional coinage of money. If controlled by a small group, as credit now is, he explained, additional money would exercise no remedial effect.

Demand Greater Than in 1896.

He declared that the demand for bimetallism is wider than it was in 1896.

"Sooner or later," Gov. Murray concluded, "we shall be obliged to adopt bimetallism, to coin much more silver than we are now doing or lose that foreign trade necessary to keep labor employed.

"Accept my sincere wishes that you may succeed in passing your bill, although I fear the forces that stand opposed will defeat you."

ARRESTED AS EMBEZZLER.

John Johart, 38 years old, 8854 Dante avenue, Chicago, was arrested by Hammond police yesterday on a charge of embezzling $12,000 from the Queen Anne Candy Company of Hammond. Johart, for four years previous to his discharge three weeks ago, had been head bookkeeper for the company.

COUPLE DIES IN FIRE; WIFE KILLED WHEN FIREMAN DROPS HER

Lincoln, Ill., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Two persons lost their lives in a spectacular early morning fire which destroyed the Greisheim building, a three story structure in the heart of the business district, and caused a loss estimated at $200,000.

Jacob W. Vandeventer, 70, perished in the flames, and his wife, severely burned, slipped from the shoulders of a fireman and plunged three stories to her death. The body of Vandeventer has not been recovered.

Firemen rescued Miss Frances Small, assistant postmaster, and Mrs. Laura Ireneaux from an apartment on the third floor by carrying them down a ladder. Dr. B. C. Roberts escaped from his apartment via the fire escape, but the four other persons on the floor were trapped by the flames.

Lincoln firemen, assisted by Springfield and Bloomington firemen, brought the blaze under control six hours after it was discovered.

MOVE TO DUMP ARMS PROPOSALS ANGERS GIBSON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Feb. 23.—A formal decision to daily over their work in hopes of things taking a turn for the better was taken by delegates of leading powers to the disarmament conference today. The steering committee concluded that it would be best to dump the 35 proposals now before the conference in addition to the draft convention of the preparatory commission in the laps of the unwieldy conference commission to wrangle over and eventually throw to subcommittees.

This means that there will be conversations until the Easter recess, which starts on March 19 and is expected to last two weeks. After that, it is announced, the subcommissions will get down to work.

Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, the United States' chief delegate, strove to stay the steering committee's hand, but was overruled. The American delegation tonight appeared to feel that France, Germany, and Great Britain are bent on a long vacation for this conference. There is reason to think that angry Mr. Gibson does not intend to drop his objections and that he will repeat them at a plenary session tomorrow morning.

MARIAN NIXON'S FATHER DIVORCED AS BRUTAL MATE

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Testimony by Mrs. Etta Mae Nixon that her 58 year old husband, Frederick Nixon, father of Marian Nixon, motion picture actress, and father-in-law of Edward Hillman of Chicago, had knocked her down and then jumped on her, won her a divorce in Superior Judge Myron Westover's court. Nixon did not contest the suit, but opposed his wife's plea for $75 monthly alimony. Mrs. Nixon declared he received an income from his daughter and benefited from a trust fund.

CITY OPENS ITS FIGHT FOR NEW GAS RATE CUT

Complaints Hit 6,000 a Day, Gas Official Admits

Complaints mounted to an average of 6,000 a day for a short time after the People's Gas Light and Coke company introduced a mixture of natural gas into the city mains with the manufactured gas, William G. Rudd, vice president in charge of operations, admitted at a hearing before the Illinois commerce commission yesterday. Assistant Commissioner Robert H. Farrell is conducting the hearing.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Grossman, who is seeking to compel the gas company to grant a lower rate than the reduction of 3½ per cent for cooking gas and 22 per cent for heating gas already conceded, got Mr. Rudd to admit that the complaints of overcharging are still pouring in. The complaints now average about 200 daily above the normal, Mr. Rudd said.

"But the depression is the cause," he averred. "Families are doubling up in apartments. Others who used to send their laundry out now do the work at home. These arrangements mean higher gas bills."

Mr. Grossman went into the financial arrangements between the three large distributors in the Chicago area—People's Gas, Public Service of Northern Illinois, and Western United—and the companies which carry the natural gas here from the Texas fields.

Mr. Rudd stated that the distributing companies, all operated by Samuel Insull, control the Chicago District Pipe Line company, which brings the gas here from Joliet. He said that the Insull companies hold a 26 per cent interest in the Natural Gas Pipe Line Company of America, which brings the gas to Joliet from Texas, and an interest in the Texoma company, producers in the Texas fields.

The holdings, Mr. Rudd said, were carried in the name of the People's Gas Subsidiaries corporation, an arrangement which he termed one of "bookkeeping facility." Mr. Grossman insisted that the arrangement was one for an accumulation of profits.

Under questioning Mr. Rudd admitted he was an officer of the two pipe line companies, as well as People's Gas, but that he received a salary only from People's Gas. Assistant corporation counsel asked what Mr. Rudd's salary might be, a question to which Attorney Francis L. Daily of the gas company's counsel took exception. The objection was sustained.

The hearing was continued to March 29.

PHONE RATE CASE REOPENED BEFORE TWO U. S. JUDGES

The rate case which has involved litigation between the city and the Illinois Bell Telephone company for nine years was reopened yesterday before Federal Judges James H. Wilkerson and George T. Page. The hearing is expected to last between three and four weeks.

In 1923 the Illinois commerce commission entered an order reducing the rates on certain coin box service. The telephone company instituted injunction proceedings in the United States District court on the grounds that the new rates were confiscatory. Judges Wilkerson, Page, and Evan A. Evans issued a permanent injunction restraining the commission and the city from enforcing the new rates.

The United States Supreme court sent the case back for further findings as to the difference in the earnings of the company in its interstate and intrastate commerce. If the company should lose its case, it would be required to return to subscribers between $20,000,000 and $21,000,000 collected above the rates the commission originally ordered.

SHOOTS AT UTAH POLITICIAN, HITS GIRL; CAPTURED

Salt Lake City, Utah, Feb. 23.—(AP)—A grievance over a 20 year old stock deal is blamed by police for three wild pistol shots fired today by Clifford M. Crapo, Albany, N. Y., at Ernest Bamberger, former Republican national committeeman from Utah.

Bamberger was uninjured but Miss Alice Horan, a clerk in the business office of the Tribune and Telegram, in front of which the shooting occurred, was hit in the arm.

Crapo, 53, a college acquaintance of Bamberger 30 years ago, was held in jail.

SUES TO REGAIN $14,000,000 FOR H. O. STONE & CO.

Seeks Accounting from Continental Bank.

A suit for an accounting was filed against the Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust company yesterday at Waukegan in behalf of the H. O. Stone & Co., investment house which is in federal receivership.

According to Attorney Harry Olsen, counsel for Leslie A. Needham, the plaintiff, the state court is asked to order the bank to return to the company assets of a face value of $14,000,000 which the bank bought at auction on Dec. 30 through Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward's court.

Charges Bank in Control.

Needham, who was formerly attorney for the investment house, declares in the bill that on Nov. 7, 1929, the Continental Illinois bank "was vested with complete control and domination of" the Stone company and its subsidiaries. This was done, he alleges, because the concern's credit was impaired. At that time the stock of the company was valued at $33.50 on the Chicago exchange. Needham says there are 12,000 stock holders.

The bank put James G. Alexander in charge of the company as its financial adviser, the bill declares. Alexander is made a party to the suit.

Case of the $14,000,000.

Concerning the $14,000,000 of assets the bill of complaint says:

"Your orator represents that the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company and the said James G. Alexander [and bank officials] now hold properties which were formerly the properties of the said corporations and investment trusts, in the aggregate value in excess of $14,000,000, and that the bank pretends that it holds the assets in its hands as collateral for a debt whereby it claims to have a residue on loans made to Stone Securities company, in the sum of approximately $800,000."

The bill charges that "the bank has been paid all the moneys that it lent to the Stone Securities company, or to any other of the corporations, together with all the interest thereon, and that upon any fair or just accounting the debts due the bank have been all fully paid and discharged."

Nine Under Indictment.

H. O. Stone & Co. was in existence for nearly a hundred years. Originally it was a real estate concern which later branched out into the investment field with several subsidiary corporations. A month ago its president, H. F. Norcott, and eight of his asociates, including Needham, were indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Mrs. Mary Mooney, 84 year old mother of Thomas Mooney, convicted for the 1916 preparedness day bombing in San Francisco, passed through Chicago yesterday bound for New York. She is on another errand in the fight to free her son. She told reporters she had hopes that he would be out of prison by July. Mrs. Mooney expects to appear at massmeetings in New York conducted by the international labor defense committee and the Pardon Tom Mooney organization.

GRAND JURY ASKS FOR DISMISSAL OF KEGEL TRUE BILL

Calls on Prosecutor to Act After Inquiry.

The grand jury voted yesterday to call State's Attorney Swanson to its chambers today and request that he nol pros the indictment which the jury returned Feb. 13, charging Mrs. Marie Sahlin Kegel, wife of former Health Commissioner Arnold H. Kegel, with an attempt to commit murder by poison.

MRS. KEGEL.

The action was taken after the jury had examined records from the John B. Murphy hospital on the case of Mrs. Mary Ryan, alleged victim of the poisoning. The records contained no notation that Mrs. Ryan was suffering from mercurial poisoning until Feb. 13, the day after the grand jury voted a true bill. This was eight days after she was admitted to the hospital, and nearly three weeks after the alleged date of the poisoning, Jan. 25.

Unable to Rescind Indictment.

The grand jury cannot legally rescind an indictment which it has once returned. The recommendation to nol pros is its method of rectifying what the jurors say they now believe was an error. State's Attorney Swanson said that his action on the jury's recommendation would be governed by the advice of his assistants handling the case.

Mrs. Ryan was a domestic in the Kegel home. She is expected to be a witness in the suit for divorce which Dr. Kegel has pending, in which he charges that Mrs. Kegel attempted to poison him. Mrs. Ryan charged that Mrs. Kegel gave her poison in an ice cream soda after failing to persuade her not to testify in the divorce action.

Testimony Is Repudiated.

The indictment was voted on the testimony of Gerald Lee, a grocery clerk, who told the grand jury that he saw Mrs. Kegel put a powder in the soda. He repudiated his story later, charging that he had been beaten by state's attorney's detectives and forced to commit perjury. The detectives denied this before the grand jury. Later, however, a dentist testified before the jury that Lee was in his chair at the hour on Jan. 25 when the poisoning was alleged to have occurred.

Dr. Kegel, who with Dr. William D. McNally, former toxicologist for the coroner, is treating Mrs. Ryan, called State's Attorney Swanson on the telephone yesterday and asked to see him. The prosecutor refused because his assistants in charge of the case, Charles E. Mueller and Charles J. Lounsbury, were unable to be present.

PLEA FOR MOONEY'S PARDON IS REJECTED BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Largely because the Mooney-Billings case was considered California's own business, the house judiciary committee today rejected a resolution urging Gov. James Rolph to grant a pardon.

Without going into the 1916 preparedness day bombing case, the committee voted down the proposal. It was offered by Representative LaGuardia [Rep., N. Y.]. He said he would make no further effort in this direction. The measure was lost by one vote.

Representative Montague [Dem., Va.], committee chairman, explained the discussion was limited to the constitutional right of the house to urge a state executive pardon and the propriety of such action.

"I felt it was purely a state matter in which the federal government, through any of its divisions, had no right to interfere," Mr. Montague said.

"Also, I doubt whether we have the constitutional privilege of asking Gov. Rolph or any other governor to pardon a man convicted of violating state criminal laws.

"If such a petition had come to me when I was governor of Virginia, I would have been inclined to reply 'It is none of your business.'"

Montague said that for the house to adopt such a resolution would set a dangerous precedent. He said the few cases where the President has intervened in state legal procedure have always involved foreigners and international relations.

3 GUNMEN HOLD UP 56, GET $3,500 IN OAK PARK OFFICE

Three youthful gunmen yesterday morning invaded the offices of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company at 1048 Lake street, Oak Park, the busiest corner in the suburb. They escaped with $3,500 after forcing fifty-six employés, five of them women, to lie on the floor.

One robber stayed on guard in the doorway. Another stepped into the front room and covered Gabriel Dunkleman, 112 South Menard avenue, manager, and fifty agents to whom he had been talking. The third gunman went into the cashier's cage, in which Miss Lillian Dickey, 22 years old, 133 South Grove avenue, was working, and scooped the cash into a metal waste basket. He took a look in the safe, saw it was empty, and shouted to his two companions. The three darted to the street and escaped in a large, black sedan, driven by a fourth man.

HAWAII CALLS 20 JURORS; MAY TRY MRS. FORTESCUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Feb. 23. — Twenty Americans of five diverse racial ancestries were drawn late today as prospective jurors for criminal trials in the next thirty days, including the second degree murder trial of Mrs. Granville B. Fortescue, American society matron; her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., and two naval enlisted men, E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones. The trial of the quartet is scheduled for March 10.

This panel was chosen by lot from the registered voting lists, according to the regular procedure, which cannot be changed without violating both the territorial and federal statutes and probably the constitution itself. The panel includes five of Chinese, seven of Hawaiian, one of Portuguese, five of Caucasian, and two of Japanese descent. Six members are yet to be chosen.

The next move in the Massie case possibly will be an attempt to obtain a change of venue. Although the defense counsel would not admit this today, it is known that affidavits for such a move have been prepared. The case can be transferred only to some other jurisdiction within the territory, such as Hilo, on the island of Hawaii. It is expected that if a change of venue is denied the defense will attempt to disqualify Circuit Judge A. M. Cristy.

Meanwhile persistent reports state that a man en route here from Los Angeles, Cal., will be confronted by three witnesses connecting him and three others with the assault on Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of the naval lieutenant, instead of the five men originally tried, one of whom, Joe Kahawai, was killed.

Evanston Council Urges Citizens to Pay Taxes

The Evanston city council last night adopted resolutions urging Evanston residents to pay taxes and condemning organizations which are urging citizens to withhold their payments. It was suggested in the resolutions that it least the amount the taxpayer believes fair should be turned in at once. It was decided by the council that Evanston voters should be asked to decide on April 5 whether the city should have a municipal court.

FRENCH PREMIER WINS CONFIDENCE VOTE IN CHAMBER

Tardieu Hastens Back to Disarm Parley.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 24 [Wednesday].—To the strains of the Marseillaise, sung by 500 war veterans, Andre Tardieu, France's new iron-fisted premier and chief delegate to the disarmament conference, left by special train for Geneva at 12:45 a. m. today.

GEN. MAXIME WEYGAND.

The premier dashed to the station from the chamber of deputies, where he wrung a vote of confidence on his internal and foreign policy by a majority of 47 votes after a debate lasting since 3 p. m. With the premier went Paul Reynaud, vice premier, and Francois Pietri, minister of defense, who will reinforce the original delegation and give France an all-star lineup.

Defends National Defense Scheme.

One of the main issues of today's debates was the Tardieu innovation of a ministry of national defense by uniting the army, navy and aviation. Tardieu sucessfully defended the scheme against the supporters of independent ministries of navy and aviation. He poined out that this unified ministry gave France a tremendous advantage over other countries in discussing any scheme of disarmament and would enable the nation to make drastic cuts, both budgetary and direct, in certain branches of armament without sacrificing defensive strength.

Severe criticism directed at the government on this score, however, may interfere with Tardieu's reported plan of organizing a supreme general staff for the three branches with Gen. Maxime Weygand, former chief of staff of the allied commander in chief, Ferdinand Foch, in command.

The session was a tumultuous one, marked by a fist fight on the floor of the chamber between Socialists and right wingers. Guards were forced to clear out the house. The session again was suspended when the communist deputy, Jacques Duclos, launched a violent attack on the "collusion" between the French and Japanese military chiefs "for the dismemberment of China." During the tumult a spectator dropped dead.

Will Add to His Title.

If Tardieu is successful in appointing Gen. Weygand as peacetime generalissimo, it is not expected that a full general staff will be built up. Gen. Weygand will merely add to his title of supreme commander of land forces the power of inspector general over the other branches of service.

Whatever the title used by the enigmatic and brilliant military tactician whom Georges Clemenceau feared as a potential dictator, he will wield the greatest peace time powers of any soldiers of western Europe.

The genesis of Tardieu's bold plan of a unified high military command goes back to 1917 when he was on a mission to America. Tardieu's job then was to give technical advice to the war department on the organization of American forces. He was struck with the lack of coördination between the different branches and particularly how the price of war materials was forced up by competitive buying.

It is claimed here that it was on his recommendation that the United States government established a supply board charged with buying the needed materials. Tardieu was so impressed with the achievement of this organization in bringing order out of chaos that he never forgot his lesson.

ATLANTIC FLYERS FORCED DOWN BY ENGINE TROUBLE

Boston, Mass., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Engine trouble forced Nat C. Browne, former army flyer, and Edward Muldowney to land here after reeling off only two hours of their projected nonstop flight from Old Orchard, Me., to Buenos Aires today. They were flying a Fokker monoplane with a 300 horsepower Wright Whirlwind motor. Browne said a cylinder burned out as he was flying over Cape Cod causing the plane to drop within a few feet of the water. The flyers hurriedly dumped their gas and headed for the East Boston airport. It came down in a nose dive here and almost turned over but both men escaped injury and the damage was confined to the landing gear.

Reno, Nev., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. Josephine Widener Holden, the former Fifi Widener of Philadelphia and New York, arrived in Reno late last night, prepared to make an "indefinite stay." Accompanied by two friends who are on their way to California, Mrs. Holden made every effort to disguise her identity.

Wearing a heavy pair of spectacles she appeared to have succeeded for a time, but was recognized in the lobby of the Riverside by a correspondent she had previously refused to see.

Mrs. Holden admitted she is here to file a divorce complaint against Milton W. Holden, who is now understood to be on a yachting trip with Vincent Astor.

CENTURY LINES TO RESUME DAYTIME SCHEDULES TODAY

Century Air Lines will resume operation on full daylight schedules to all the cities it serves today, following partial operation on only one of its four routes for the past two weeks, it was learned yesterday. Operations were curtailed after 22 pilots were discharged in a wage dispute on Feb. 9.

The daylight schedules consist of two round trips between Chicago and St. Louis, Chicago-Detroit and Chicago-Cleveland, and between Detroit and Cleveland. Additional schedules on these lines, which require that the planes finish their trips after dark, will not be resumed at present, it was said.

Of the 18 pilots hired by Century Air Lines to replace those discharged, eight have been approved by department of commerce inspectors, according to E. A. Cutrell, inspector in charge. Examination of the remaining ten will be completed in a few days, Mr. Cutrell said.

Ald. John P. Wilson, chairman of the committee on aviation of the city council, last night said his committee will meet Friday with the Chicago aero commission to hear charges of the Air Line Pilots' association that the new Century pilots are inexperienced. The discharged pilots were members of the association.

Planes of American Airways flew 783,085 miles in January, compared to 506,439 in January of 1931; carried 3,108 revenue passengers compared to 1,681 the same month last year, and carried 114,756 pounds of mail, compared to 107,724 pounds the previous January, according to Col. Halsey Dunwoody, vice president.

Revenue passenger flying on United Air Lines to New York, Dallas, and the Pacific coast increased 32 per cent in number during last month compared to the previous month, according to Stanley E. Knauss, general traffic manager.

Early Birds and members of the Air Traffic club, Air Corps Officers' association, Aviation post of the American Legion and the Chicago chapter of the National Aeronautical association will meet at a dinner given by the latter organization tonight at 7 o'clock at the Hotel Sherman in honor of Capt. FEBRUARY HAS WEATHER MAN ON THE ROPES

But He Points with Pride to 1931 Forecasting.

Complaints about the forecasts of the weather bureau are more or less chronic, but recently they have been particularly vociferous. For this reason Meteorologist C. A. Donnel yesterday gladly produced a set of records showing that the batting average for 1931 broke all records for the Chicago station, with a percentage of 88. In other words, the weather man was right almost 9 times out of 10.

The showing for January, 1932, was not quite so good, but the average percentage of accuracy, 86.2, was still better than the average of 84 for the last eighteen years. February may be still worse, for it has not been an orthodox month for forecasting, Mr. Donnel explained. Forecaster W. P. Day was 100 per cent right on only 10 of the first 21 days.

Wins Despite Freak Snow.

The forecast for yesterday will be recorded as 100 per cent accurate, although no snow was predicted. During the morning large, glistening flakes fluttered in the sunlight, but they didn't amount to enough to measure and the forecast will stand verified. It was a freakish snowfall, due to the fact that the temperature remained constant for a mile above the earth's surface, and the temperature shouldn't do that, Mr. Day said.

The forecast for today calls for cloudy and warmer weather. The minimum temperature yesterday was 13 degrees above zero at 7 a. m. and it remained below freezing throughout the day.

In computing the percentages of verification of weather forecasts only two major elements are considered, the precipitation and the temperature. During January the forecasts averaged 80.4 per cent accurate for precipitation and 92 for temperature, giving a combined average of 86.2.

The Record for February.

The percentage of accuracy for the first three weeks of February is shown by the following table:

Day.	Precipitation.	Temperature.	Combined.
1	100	100	100
2	85	50	67
3	50	50	50
4	100	100	100
5	100	100	100
6	0	50	25
7	0	100	50
8	100	50	75
9	100	50	75
10	50	50	50
11	100	100	100
12	100	100	100
13	50	100	75
14	85	100	92
15	90	100	95
16	100	100	100
17	100	100	100
18	100	100	100
19	100	100	100
20	50	100	75
21	100	100	100

In computing the percentages the weather man gives himself a break in one respect but is handicapped in another. If rain or snow is predicted, a mere trace will verify the forecast, but if fair weather is foretold and there is as much as .02 of an inch of precipitation at the station the forecaster loses, although it may have been fair throughout the day in most sections of the city.

Other Rules of the Game.

When the forecast says "probably" the weather man is penalized 10 per cent. If he says "rain tonight or Wednesday," giving himself a leeway of two forecasting periods, he is penalized 10 per cent if it rains in one period and 20 per cent if it rains in both.

Mr. Donnel said a weather forecaster could only hope to be right in the major aspects of his prediction, and that too many critics cavil about minor details, such as clouds when a fair day is predicted.

PRAISE PIONEER NIGHT MAIL PILOT ON ANNIVERSARY

Epochal First Flight 11 Years Ago.

Jack Knight, veteran mail pilot of United Air Lines, landed at Chicago airport yesterday morning with a load of mail and passengers from Omaha. When he climbed from the cockpit he was congratulated by officials of the lines. Eleven years ago yesterday morning he had brought the mail through on the same run on the first experimental night and day flight from coast to coast.

Knight smiled at the congratulations and passed the anniversary off with a laugh. But his flight from North Platte, Neb., to Chicago that night with a double load of air mail was one of the outstanding events of the early days of the air mail, according to P. G. Johnson, president of United Air Lines.

A year after the transcontinental air mail route was established, in 1920, with the mail carried by plane during the day put on trains at night, nine pilots volunteered to try nonstop flights in each direction simultaneously. The east to west flight failed when the weather closed in at Chicago and the planes could not proceed west.

Farr Nutter and Ray Little carried the mail from San Francisco to Reno. Jack Eaton and Capt. Bill Lewis flew it from Reno to Elko. In taking off at Elko, Nev., Capt. Lewis crashed and was killed. Eaton saw the crash, turned back and loaded Lewis' mail into his plane and went through to Salt Lake City. Jimmy Murray carried the mail on to Cheyenne, and Frank Yager carried it to North Platte, where Knight got the load to carry it to Omaha, Mr. Johnson related.

Flies On to Chicago.

Knight landed at Omaha, but the pilot who was to carry the mail on to Chicago had not been able to get through from the east. Knight refueled and took off—flying a route he had never flown before, even in daylight. He had taken off at North Platte at night. He flew on to Chicago, landing just after dawn. At the time he had a broken nose, suffered three weeks before when his plane crashed against a mountainside.

From Chicago the mail was carried on to Cleveland and then to New York, in a total time of about 33½ hours. As a result of that flight airways all over the country have been lighted for night flying, and the air mail now goes through regularly at night, Mr. Johnson said.

Flying Forecasts

Special flying route forecasts for the period from 9 p. m., Feb. 23, to noon, Feb. 24:

Chicago-Twin Cities—Mostly overcast, possibly a few snow flurries; moderate southwest winds, becoming northerly near Twin Cities.

Route forecasts for 12 hours ending at noon:

Evansville-Atlanta—Partly overcast near Atlanta and somewhat overcast near Evansville; moderate northeast winds near Atlanta and moderate south near Evansville up to 1,000 feet and fresh northwest at 5,000 feet.

Cleveland-New York—Partly overcast; moderate to fresh northwest winds tonight, shifting to moderate south and southwest on Wednesday near New York and fresh southwest near Cleveland up to 1,000 feet and strong northwest at 5,000 feet.

She had the most captivating figure . . .

But her skin, Tragic!

By Julia Foster ★

Beautifully slender, marvelously molded, her figure. Then I saw her close. All admiration fled at once. How could a woman like that so neglect her complexion? For a few words of expert advice would have meant all the world to her.

You need never run the risk of having a "tragic" skin. You can learn in two seconds the daily care advised by the world's foremost beauty specialists. This is what they have told women for years. For the sake of a youthful complexion, read it, practice it.

Simply twice a day, morning and evening, apply a generous lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water to face and throat. Work well into the pores. This is best done with the hands. Then rinse away with warm water. Finish with a cold rinse. Hot water should never touch your skin. If your face is dry, apply oil or tissue cream after the night treatment.

More than 20,000 of the world's leading specialists have urged that for this foundation cleansing you use Palmolive Soap. The panel at the right, headed, "Beauty In a Test Tube" will tell you why. Please read it carefully.

Rest in a beauty bath!

Let me pass on to you a valuable suggestion given me by a beauty expert. It's really a beauty treatment. And it's the best relaxation for tired nerves I know.

You can easily afford this because Palmolive Soap is so inexpensive. Shave up a whole bar of Palmolive Soap. Melt it by boiling in 4 cups of water and pour the solution into your tub. When you get in, just relax for a minute or two. Then, with the rich lather from another cake of Palmolive, massage your whole body. Don't miss a pore! Your skin will be the better for it, because of the olive and palm oils. Fatigue, nervousness, will be gone. You'll feel like dressing up in your best things. You'll want to go places—do things!

And certainly, start at once on those Palmolive treatments for your face. Keep your skin young!

BEAUTY IN A TEST TUBE

But can you get enough olive oil in soap? How much, actually, goes into Palmolive? Here is the exact amount of olive oil that goes into every ten-cent cake of Palmolive—in this test tube at the right. To this generous olive oil content can be directly traced Palmolive's great complexion benefits. It is the only large-selling soap made of vegetable oils exclusively. The only one using olive oil as a base. Other ingredients are simply oils from palm trees necessary to produce a richer, creamier, more workable lather. The color is the natural green of olive and palm oils—no artificial coloring.

More than 20,000 of the world's beauty experts have for years urged Palmolive Soap in preference to all others. Heed their advice!

JAPANESE OPEN NEW AIR ATTACK; AWAIT NEW ARMY

Planes Hurl Giant Bombs on Chinese Posts.

the north of the village, was broken up by the Chinese defenders, who quickly launched a counter attack of their own.

Then the big Japanese guns roared forth from their positions in the racecourse to the east of Kiangwan, deluging the Chinese assault lines with devastating shellfire.

Battle On in Chapel.

Meanwhile, the Chapel front, several miles to the south, had burst into action. Five minutes after four o'clock a major artillery duel started after Chapei had enjoyed an unusually quiet night.

The weather was drizzly and nasty but no complaints came from the Chinese. They said the Japanese were having great difficulty moving their artillery pieces in the quagmire.

Soldiers Are Tired.

The renewal of action by the Japanese at Kiangwan was a surprise, for the army command had admitted earlier in the day that they had failed to budge the Chinese machine gunners barricaded behind the village's shell torn walls and foreign military observers had expressed the opinion that the Japanese offensive was spent.

"Our men are tired and they want some rest," said a spokesman at Japanese headquarters.

Expectations that the Japanese would try to take things easy for a few days had been based also on news from Tokio that two additional army divisions were being dispatched to assist the two divisions already here.

Chinese Beat Off All Attacks.

Yesterday the Japanese tried time and again to smash the Chinese line north of Kiangwan in order that they might break through and seize Tazang, to the rear of Kiangwan, and thus cut off the small garrison that had effectively blocked their Lig push. But the Chinese defenders stuck to their posts despite blasting bombardment.

Little more could be asked from a defensive army than was shown by the Chinese during this series of do-or-die attacks.

Early this morning the Chinese issued a communique declaring that during yesterday's action their troops had fought the Japanese to a standstill despite the superior equipment of the enemy. The Japanese bombardment of Tazang from the air was so complete that only a few houses were left standing, this communique said.

Blocked by Machine Guns.

Despite this preparation, the Chinese machine gunners rose up and manned their guns every time the Japanese let up with their shell fire and bombing in order to allow their infantry to attack. And each time the machine guns laid down bullet streams in front of the Chinese positions through which the storm troops could not make their way.

Those of the attackers who did succeed in getting through the machine gun fire charged into trenches manned by troops who knew how to use the bayonet. The machine guns effectively broke the strength of each onslaught and bayonets disposed of what was left of each Japanese wave.

Ready for Reinforcements.

"Because of the impending arrival of two additional Japanese divisions," said the Chinese communique, "the Chinese command is making all necessary preparations to resist any further offensive from the reinforced enemy."

No estimates of casualties at the Kiangwan front were issued by any authoritative sources, but it was apparent that the losses were high. Chinese declared that in this same sector they suffered 2,000 casualties during Monday's fighting.

All hospitals were crowded with wounded. One emergency hospital, which opened Sunday with 200 beds, had every place taken within a few hours. Most of the wounded were men badly mutilated by shrapnel.

Report Women in Front Line.

Japanese army headquarters reported that Chinese women were in the lines in the Kiangwan sector. Officials said that soldiers returning from the front told of seeing women shooting from the windows of ruined buildings on the outskirts of the village. According to Japanese headquarters the soldiers had little respect for the women's marksmanship.

Although the major fighting yesterday occurred to the north of Kiangwan, where the Japanese have pushed a bulging salient into their otherwise straight Shanghai-Woosung line, there was considerable action in the stretch between Shanghai and Kiangwan.

There, too, the Japanese sent over attacking infantrymen after preparation by airplane bombs and shell fire. But the Chinese machine gunners stuck to their posts. Much bloody hand to hand fighting developed, and when it was over the lines were just where they had been.

WHY JAPANESE FIND IT HARD GOING

The map shows the territory between the Whangpoo river and the Shanghai-Woosung railway, where the Japanese army is fighting desperately to push back the Chinese forces. The territory is part of an alluvial plain, intersected in every direction by thousands of miles of canals and creeks. (In the way the canals are shown by black lines.) The area was bulit up by the silt of the Yangtze river and lies at the level of high tide in the Yangtze. The land is soft and marshy, summer and winter, with never more than a thin layer of ice, perfectly flat, and without an elevation in any direction. The map also shows:

(1) Racecourse, from which position Japanese artillery rains shells on Chinese positions in and west of Kiangwan.
(2) Kiangwan, still held by Chinese.
(3) Tazang, on motor road leading to Chapei, immediate objective of Japanese advance. The town was leveled by Japanese shells and bombs.
(4) Japanese have pushed a bulging salient into Chinese territory.
(5) Seekingjao golf course, around which many homes of foreigners have been burned during the fighting.
(6) Fuhtan university, used by Japanese for a time as headquarters, but again considered debatable ground.

Will Send 25,000 More Troops to China.

TOKIO, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The cabinet decided today to double the strength of the Shanghai expeditionary force. The decision was reached after the ministers were informed the Chinese had successfully stopped the Japanese onslaught. The army now has 25,000 men at Shanghai and the new reinforcements will bring it to 50,000.

LIEUT. GEN. SODAO ARAHI. [Acme Photo.]

Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, army commander in the field, refused to request more men, but Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japan's minister to China, and Vice Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, commander of the fleet in Shanghai waters, joined in the appeal.

The war office explained that Gen. Uyeda had declined to ask for reinforcements in accordance with the Samurai code, which requires him to disdain any appeal for help.

Fear Kai-shek's Army.

The chief of staff and other high military officials, uneasy about the lack of progress, made by the Japanese attackers, urged that additional men be sent. These officers were worried not only by the inability of the Japanese forces to dispose of the Chinese 19th Route army, but also by alarming reports that units of Gen. Kai-shek's National Guard, the best trained troops in China, were arriving at the front to join the 19th.

Lieut. Gen. Sadao Araki, minister of war, presented the reinforcement problem to the cabinet at a meeting today. Previously the war minister had been waited on at his home by a group of military leaders, who told him of the latest disquieting news from the front.

Estimates here are that the Chinese have about 35,000 men in the Shanghai area. Thus, with the reinforcements, the Japanese will outnumber them 10 to 7.

Replies to League's Plea.

The government dispatched to Geneva its reply to the note of the league of nations council of Feb. 16 in which the council appealed to Japan to end the conflict. The reply contained the declaration that "the Japanese government does not and cannot consider that China is an 'organized people' within the meaning of the league of nations covenant."

By common consent, the Japanese answer said, China has been treated as an organized state, but "fictions cannot last forever, nor can they be tolerated when they become grave sources of practical danger."

"The time has inevitably come," the reply continued, "when realities, rather than fictions, must be reckoned with. If Japan had no interests there it might be possible to continue indefinitely respecting the fiction that the region is occupied by 'an organized people.' Japan, however, has enormous interests there and it is impossible longer to treat the chaos in China as if it were order.

"The Japanese government does not pretend it is easy to work out the implications and consequences of this situation. It is not easy, but it is necessary. We must face the facts, and the fundamental fact is that there is not unified control in China."

In conclusion, the government repudiated what it called the "stigma" which the world is attempting to attach to Japan of favoring or desiring war. If the efforts of the twelve neutral powers of the council, the note said, should succeed in bringing about a pacific attitude on the part of China, nowhere will more sincere delight be felt than in Japan.

CONSULS OF JAPAN AND CHINA JOIN IN ROTARY CLUB FETE

Yoshio Muto, Japanese consul in Chicago, and Koliang Yih, Chinese consul general, were among the 24 consuls of foreign countries who yesterday stood before the massed colors of 30 lands in which Rotary International is represented and paid tribute to international friendship.

The incident was a part of the luncheon celebration of the twenty-seventh anniversary of the founding of the Rotary club, held in the Hotel Sherman. More than 60 students of colleges and universities, natives of foreign countries, stood with the consuls as a silent tribute to Paul P. Harris, founder of the club, and the 100 members of the club present then arose. Dr. Felix Brummer of South Africa, student at the University of Chicago, spoke.

In addition to the massed colors of 30 nations, 12 flags, including that of Japan, decorated the room. They were gifts to the Rotary club. After the luncheon the Japanese and Chinese representatives posed for photographers while shaking hands.

ORDER ENVOYS TO QUIT TOKIO, PLAN URGED BY BRITONS

LONDON, Feb. 23.—(AP)—A joint committee of the Trades Union congress and the Labor party today presented a manifesto to the government urging that it request the league of nations council to consider the advisability of asking all league members to withdraw their diplomatic representatives at Tokio.

It expressed the hope that such an action would not be necessary but that a manifestation of world opinion that the fighting in China must stop would not go unheeded in Japan.

"Japan has established a virtual protectorate over Manchuria in flagrant violation of her treaty obligations," the document said. "It is clear that a state of war exists between China and Japan and that Japan is responsible."

CHINESE ABROAD SEND MONEY TO PAY WAR EXPENSE

NANKING, China, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Since the fighting in Shanghai began a continuous stream of contributions has been received from Chinese overseas toward the military expense of the Chinese forces, the Nanking government announced today.

Contributions were coming from many parts of the world, it was said, including several cities in the United States where there are Chinese colonies, such as New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

CONFESSES PURSE SNATCHINGS.

Brander Jenkins, 17 years old, 34 East 31st street, a Negro, who was arrested on suspicion at 79th street and Cottage Grove avenue on Monday, confessed yesterday that he had snatched the purses of several women.

THREE JAPANESE BLOW SELVES UP TO HELP COUNTRY

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—Three Japanese soldiers who volunteered to have their bodies blow to atoms in order to open the way for Japanese troops through the Chinese defense lines were officially honored tonight by Gen. Uyeda, Japanese commander, and his staff, who publicly expressed "a deep sense of gratitude with a combined expression of mourning."

This extraordinary deed of sacrificial heroism was performed yesterday before dawn on the Kiangwan front, where Japanese attackers were halted by barbed wire entaglements fourteen feet deep. First class privates Kitagawa, Egami and Sakuyi of the engineering battalion of the Shimomoto mixed brigade volunteered to strap sticks of high explosives around their chests and waists and then made a running jump into the barbed wire.

Chinese rifle fire exploded the deadly burdens each man carried, thereby blasting a way through the entanglements and cleaning a path for the Japanese charge, which routed the Chinese from their stoutly held position.

LET OTHERS RUSH TO FIGHT FIRST, AUSTRALIAN SAYS

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 23.—(AP)—William Morris Hughes, wartime prime minister of Australia, said today that if Great Britain declared an economic boycott against Japan "a state of war would exist between the two countries and Australia and every part of the empire would be involved."

Such a situation, he said, would be a catastrophe.

"We have had enough war," he declared. "Unless we are attacked we are determined to remain at peace with the world. If there is to be any fighting let others rush into the breach."

Australia, which has banned oriental immigration for a long time, is watching the developments in China with great anxiety.

"—the promptness with which my claim was handled and the amount of money I received was certainly gratifying"

Note this letter from a Tribune Accident Insurance Policyholder

The Chicago Tribune
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:

Unsolicited I am writing to tell you that one of the best investments I ever made was on Feb. 25, 1931 when I became the owner of a Chicago Tribune Accident Policy, which involved the meager outlay of $1.25.

During the past summer I had the misfortune of being struck by an automobile and from the injuries received was totally disabled for sometime. I reported the accident to the company writing the Tribune policy and the promptness in which the claim was handled and the amount of money I was reimbursed with was certainly gratifying. It certainly exceeded my expectations.

There isn't a Tribune reader within the age limits and who would be eligible to become a policyholder that can afford to be without this protection.

Respectfully,

L. G. Smith

Every Person Who Smokes Should Know This

The "Smoker's Fag" That's Slowing Millions Down

Now Found 90% Correctable, According to Science

How by Doing One Simple Thing the After-effects of Steady Smoking Can Be Minimized to an Amazing Extent—WHAT TO DO

Scientists have now discovered that the element of reasonable safety, freedom from smoker's fag, head dullness and depression, can now be added to smoking in a very simple way.

Millions of smokers are already doing it. This is what to do:

Simply take two teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning immediately after rising and every night immediately before going to bed.

Or take two Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tablets night and morning which give an equivalent amount of Milk of Magnesia.

This acts to alkalinize one's system. And an alkalinized system is largely impervious to the after-effects of tobacco. Science has found that it's the acid system that cannot tolerate tobacco.

This small, daily dosage of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tends to neutralize those acids in the system.

Hence, those after-effects one feels now after heavy smoking go. The head is clear. The mouth sweet. One has fewer headaches. Less heaviness across the eyes, at the back of head, across forehead.

Any regular and consistent smoker should at least try this method. Results are often remarkable. For the system thus is largely fortified against tobacco's after-effects.

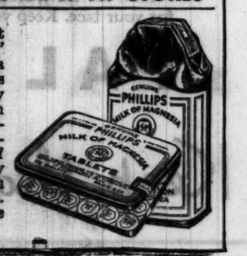
Get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia at any drug store. See that you get the genuine, as endorsed by doctors. Comes now in two forms. The liquid form which you already know. And the new, marvelously convenient tablets which you can carry about with you.

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Neutralizes the acids that cause "Acid Headaches" and Sour Stomach within 15 minutes after taking!

TWO FORMS NOW AT STORES

You can now get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in tablet form, as well as ordinary liquid form. Each tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Milk of Magnesia. Carry the tablets with you wherever you go. They taste like mint candy.



PACIFISTS SEND CHAIN LETTERS TO BOYCOTT JAPAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—A widespread campaign to effect a voluntary boycott of Japanese goods in the United States has been undertaken by certain members of the pacifist-internationalist group now fighting to involve this country in a world-wide trade embargo against Japan.

Administration officials, who thus far have failed to make known this country's attitude toward an economic boycott against Japan, today learned that for the last few days individuals have been circulating petitions binding the signers not to use or buy Japanese made goods. Chain letters urging a voluntary boycot of Japanese products also are being circulated.

Movement Grows Rapdly.

In some instances boycott enthusiasts have been personally soliciting their friends and acquaintances in an effort to cut down the sale of Japanese made goods in this country. While state department officials have not been informed as to all the ramifications of the voluntary Japanese boycott movement, it was learned that recent weeks have shown an increase in the number of letters reaching the state department from the groups demanding an embargo on Japanese goods.

Thus far neither the state department nor the White House has made any move, so far as has been made known, to discourage the growth of the economic boycott movement. While many congressmen, including Senators William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], radical Republican chairman of the foreign relations committee, and James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], senate majority leader, have assailed the move to entangle this country in a league of nations economic boycott, President Hoover and state department officials have remained officially silent.

U. S. Plans New Move.

Katsuji Debuchi, Japanese ambassador to the United States, called at the state department late today, but did not reveal whether he had mentioned the economic boycott. He did say, however, that he had advised Secretary Stimson that his government was sending land troop reinforcements to Shanghai at once so "as not to aggravate the situation there." It is understood three new divisions are to go forward.

Later it became known that the state department plans a new move in the Shanghai war situation tomorrow. Officials declined to outline the department's next step in the face of rumors that this government would act to increase the safeguards around American nationals and their property at Shanghai. Inquiries as to whether this country intended to issue a statement outlining its policy in the Japanese-Chinese dispute went unanswered, although it was said no new note was going forward to Tokio.

HOLD UP BROKER AND HIS WIFE IN TAXI; GET $3,500

Three robbers were waiting on the sidewalk late last night when George F. Douaire, insurance broker, and his wife drew up in a taxicab in front of their home at 819 Buena avenue.

The bandits got into the cab. While one man watched the driver, Frank Fencel, 810 Buckingham place, the others robbed Mrs. Douaire of a $1,200 ring, a $1,500 bracelet, and several smaller pieces of jewelry. The total value of the gems was placed at $3,200. Douaire gave up $50 and a $250 watch. The robbers escaped in an automobile.

Arthur Kose, 1510 North Maplewood avenue, a Yellow cab driver, picked up two passengers at Ainslie street and Broadway last night. When he had driven them to Moody and Fullerton avenues the pair tried to rob him. He resisted and was shot in the right arm. The men fled without getting any money.

U. S. FLYER SLAIN AS HE BATTLES 6 JAPANESE IN AIR

Downed from Behind with Machine Gun.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—Robert M. Short, 28, American dare-devil stunt aviator, was shot down and killed amidst the wreckage of his plane by Japanese aviators following an air battle over the town of Soochow yesterday afternoon. Short was a native of the state of Washington. He held a second lieutenant's commission in the United States army reserve air corps.

Short volunteered his services to the Chinese army several days ago. The Chinese government accepted and assigned him as pilot of a new Boeing fast pursuit plane manufactured by the United Aircraft company of Seattle, which the Chinese government recently purchased for $26,000.

Assembled Plane Thursday.

Short and a friend worked all night Thursday, Feb. 18, assembling the plane. They secretly took it to the Hungjao airdrome near Shanghai early Friday morning and then flew it to Nanking, where Short demonstrated it before government officials.

What happened after that is unknown here, but last night Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, commander of the Japanese 9th division, announced that an air battle between Japanese planes and a Chinese plane had occurred over Soochow, in which one Japanese aviator was fatally wounded and the Chinese plane was shot down. This afternoon it became known that the Chinese plane was piloted by Short.

Gen. Tsai-ting-kai, commander in chief of the Chinese Nineteenth Route army, admitted Short had been shot down by a Japanese aviator, but denied the American was fighting. He said Short merely was delivering the plane. Following a Chinese military funeral, Gen. Tsai-ting-kai said Short's body would be sent home.

China Issues Statement.

The Chinese government also issued a statement regarding the Soochow aerial battle, although it refrained from mentioning the crashing of Short's plane or his death. It said:

"Encouraged by the absence of interference to their last three flights over Soochow during the last week, the Japanese air force again sent three bombers and three pursuit planes from Shanghai yesterday afternoon. Although hopelessly outnumbered, the Chinese plane went up, challenged the Japanese and engaged all six invaders in a machine gun battle lasting ten minutes, which succeeding in preventing the Japanese from releasing deadly projectiles over Soochow.

"Frustrated in their attempt to bomb the city, the Japanese planes flew away, with the Chinese machine in pursuit. After another short battle over the outskirts of the city, lasting five minutes, the enemy planes returned to Shanghai."

Other authoritative circles reported that Short had engaged the six Japanese planes and was chasing a Japanese pursuit ship when he was engaged from the rear by another Japanese plane, which turned a machine-gun loose on him. Short's plane went into a nose dive.

Prior to volunteering his services to the Chinese government, Short was employed as a salesman and demonstrator by L. E. Gale company, an American firm. According to Carl Nahmmacher of Brooklyn, who operates the firm, Short had discussed with him the advisability of joining the Chinese government aviation service some time ago. Nahmmacher said Short had been closely associated with Chinese aviators in a study of the best means of coping with the Japanese practice of bombing defenseless cities and killing innocent civilian men, women, and children.

The subject preyed on Short's mind and he finally declared his intention of joining the Chinese service. "I'm going to do my small part to pay the Japanese aviators for the deaths of innocent people," he is said to have declared.

Short's death has not been published here, but it is generally known among Americans and there are many dark whispers of reprisals. One American aviator declared that sensational developments may be expected shortly.

JAPANESE CAPTURE CHINESE SOLDIER AND FIND HE'S A JAPANESE

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—A prisoner in the uniform of the Chinese 88th division captured by Japanese today was discovered to be a full blooded Japanese boy 17 years of age who had been fighting against them.

After the death of his parents, he explained, he had come to China seeking work. When penniless in Hangchow last summer he enlisted in the Chinese army. When the Sino-Japanese clash occurred he had no choice but to fight against his own countrymen or be shot as a traitor to China.

This morning when the Chinese retreated on portions of the Kiangwan front he remained behind, hiding in a ruined temple, until the Japanese vanguard entered. He then surrendered. It has not been decided whether to deport him to Japan or put him into a Japanese uniform.

Germany Washes Hands of Ex-Officers Aiding China

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—Concerning the allegation of the Japanese that former German officers are participating in the fighting on the Chinese side, official quarters here declare that is highly improbable. However, they call attention to the fact that all of the thirty or forty former German officers employed in China as military advisers went there on their own and as private individuals, over whose personal conduct German authorities can exercise no control.

JAPANESE ARMY BANISHES PRESS FROM FRONT LINE

Takes Action After War Atrocities Charge.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—Apparently as a result of charges made by the American owned newspaper, the Shanghai Evening Post-Mercury, last night that Japanese soldiers were killing defenseless Chinese civilians, Japanese consular authorities tonight canceled all press passes which had been issued to foreign newspaper men to visit the Japanese army headquarters or front lines.

The notification reads as follows:

"Due to danger and confusion, the validity of press passes or courtesy slips to the Japanese army headquarters and front lines issued by the Japanese consulate general or army headquarters is suspended until further notice."

Denies "War Atrocities."

A Japanese official spokesman issued a report denying the accuracy of the Evening Post-Mercury eye-witness story and claimed that it was "much exaggerated and in some portions untrue," particularly that women and children had been killed by the Japanese. He insisted that the slain civilians had been snipers or were inmates of houses concealing snipers. He admitted evidence that Chinese women and children had been found carrying food to snipers concealed in vacant buildings within the war zone.

An official summary by Consul General Kuramatsu Murai follows:

"On Feb. 20 the Japanese consul general advised the Chinese mayor, Wu Teh-chen, to warn Chinese civilians to evacuate the war zone about the Kiangwan race course. Hence it is inconceivable that any considerable number of civilians could have been in that area. Should there happen to be any others remaining in that area they must be snipers or engaged in some form of military activity. It is not surprising that women were among the victims in view of the fact that some women actually had been found sniping."

SEES WOMAN SLAIN

BY MORRIS J. HARRIS.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—I visited the no man's land north of the village of Kiangwan today, where most of the heavy fighting has taken place during the last two or three days, and found there the actual existence of a reign of terror.

In the middle of the war-torn area I saw an old Chinese woman sitting in an open field, weeping and wringing her hands. A Japanese soldier appeared, followed by several more, close behind. The leading soldier raised his rifle, aimed at the woman and fired. He missed. The woman continued to weep, her face buried in her hands. The rifleman leisurely aimed again and fired. This time he scored with deadly accuracy.

I entered the area. Large numbers of Chinese dead could be seen before the burning ruins of what had been their homes. I saw ten Chinese dead piled beside a cart path. Examination revealed that the hands of all of them were tied behind their backs. Apparently they had been captured, lined up and tied, and then mowed down together.

I passed the burning ruins of the home of a peasant. In front of it were the bodies of an old man and woman, apparently its forwer occupants. They had been shot, probably as they ran from the house to escape the flames.

7,000 CHINESE IN MANCHURIA LOOT JAPANESE HOMES

Tokio Army Moves Again to Quell Revolt.

HARBIN, Manchuria, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Gen. Jiro Tamon prepared once again to lead his shock division against the Chinese foe, this time eastward along the main line of the Chinese Eastern railroad to the Imienpo district, where 7,000 Chinese troops are reported to be looting and terrorizing hundreds of Japanese and thousands of Corean residents.

Gen. Mural's brigade of the division entrained at Liaoyang this morning and will arrive at Harbin tomorrow. Then Gen. Tamon's command will move to the east. Japanese transport officials have asked the Chinese Eastern to prepare 500 freight cars for the expedition.

Many Japanese in Danger.

Once again it is a case of the inability of Governor Hsi Hsia to eradicate rebellions in his province of Kirin. Most of the rebels in the Imienpo region belong to the army of Ting Chao, which was beaten out of Harbin by Gen. Tamon's men.

It is understood that Gen. Tamon's main objective is Imienpo and that he does not intend to advance much further along the main line connecting Harbin with Vladivostok, the Soviet far eastern seaport. However, all Chinese Eastern railway stations between Imienpo and Pogranichnaya, on the border, have small Japanese or Corean colonies, for whose safety the Japanese authorities are concerned.

Homes Are Looted.

In the areas now occupied by the rebels it is estimated that there are about 300 Japanese and 4,500 Koreans. Many of their homes have been looted and Japanese flags have been burned, but no loss of life has been reported. Gen. Tamon has been informed that Japanese subjects in these areas are virtual prisoners.

The military intelligence department has reported that there is a close connection between the uprisings against Gov. Hsi Hsia and his Japanese patrons and the activities of the Kuomintang, the Chinese Nationalist party.

Gen. Ma Is Inaugurated.

TSITSIHAR, Manchuria, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Ma Chan-shan, the Chinese general who defended Tsitsihar against the Japanese early in the Manchurian campaign, came back today from Mukden, where he participated in the formation of the new independent Manchurian state, and was formally inaugurated as governor of Heilungkiang province.

ITALY SENDS 11 SLAVS TO PRISON IN MURDER PLOT

Accused of Killing Frontier Guard.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 23.—Frontier difficulties between Jugo-Slavia and Italy were again accentuated before a special military tribunal for the defense of the state today. The court sentenced eleven men of Slovene origin to terms ranging from 20 to 30 years in prison.

The eleven were charged with having ambushed an automobile in which six Italian customs guards were riding. One of the guards was killed. The sentences were the severest that have been handed out recently. Five of the men were sentenced to 30 years and the remaining six to 20 years.

The condemned Slovenes were alleged to have been the emissaries of Jugo-Slav patriotic societies across the frontier and were charged with plotting against the security of the Italian state by fomenting the irridentist movement in the northeast corner of Italy, which has a heavy Slav population. This territory was acquired by Italy under the peace treaties.

One September night two years ago the Slavs in this district were celebrating the union of the Croats, Serbs, and Slovenes into a new kingdom in a small inn along the frontier when six customs guards arrived. It was alleged at the trial that the Slav inn owner plied the Italians with wine while Slav guests at the inn slipped out to get their revolvers and muskets, ambushing the guards along the road after they left.

A group of inhabitants of the frontier were sentenced by the same court for inciting a rebellion two months ago.

Another case will be tried before the special military tribunal tomorrow involving a group from Milan and Bolzano in the Tyrol. They are accused of being members of the communist party and circulating propaganda against Premier Mussolini's government.

SOVIETS CHARGE WHITE RUSSIANS PLAN AN ATTACK

MOSCOW, Feb. 23.—(AP)—White Russians are being organized to seize the interests of the soviet government in the far east, War Minister Voroshilov declared in an order published today in connection with the celebration of the fourteenth anniversary of the organization of the red army.

Shortly after the order was published an official denial was authorized of a Mukden press report asserting that the Soviet government had increased its military forces in the far east in order to "suppress the white guard movement which has become active since the organization of the new government in Manchuria."

This report was officially described as another "provocative rumor" aimed at involving Soviet Russia in the Sino-Japanese conflict.

NEW YORK FACES TAX RAISE TO PAY CITY'S WASTE

Controller Submits Basic Rate of $2.59 on $100.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—This city sought to pay for its past extravagancies and pave the way for new ones today by increasing its tax rate. Controller Charles W. Berry announced a basic two point and general eight point rise for 1932. An even larger increase had been anticipated.

The controller, in his report to the board of aldermen, said the basic rate in all boroughs would be $2.59 on each $100 of assessed valuation, as compared with $2.57 last year. There were, however, other increases. In addition to the two point basic increase each borough is assessed six points for city-wide improvement assessments, plus amounts varying between one and ten points for local improvement costs borne by the different boroughs.

No Sinking Fund Available.

Thus Manhattan's actual 1932 rate is $2.69, that of Queens $2.76; Brooklyn, $2.68; Bronx, $2.66, and Richmond, $2.75. Last year the rate was cut from the originally estimated basic figure of $2.69 to $2.57 by dipping into the city's sinking funds, totaling about 20 millions, which was authorized by the legislature. This year no sinking funds were available.

The basic tax rate in New York City has been climbing since 1929, when it was $2.55. The reason for the advance, tax experts point out, is that the administration previously had made no effort to keep down the budget. They say it will be still higher in 1933 unless retrenchment is practiced wherever possible, with no exception for subway building.

The basic rate was kept from being even higher, Mr. Berry said, by the fact that this year, with the expiration of the ten year old tax exempt law on dwelling houses, about 800 millions worth of property becomes taxable, bringing in about $20,000,000 revenues.

Budget Put at 631 Million.

Mr. Berry said the actual tax rate in Manhattan had been reduced by the drastic trimming of assessments for local improvements in that borough. General fund revenues for 1932 are estimated by the controller at $114,243,673 despite the fact that last year's business was less than that amount. The total amount of the 1932 budget is $631,366,297 which means that the tax levy will be the difference between these two amounts —$517,122,624. The last year's business was wound up with about 100 million in uncollected taxes, and real estate operators have predicted that the tax defaults will increase even more rapidly this year with a rise in the basic rate.

The assessed valuation of real and personal property for 1932 as reported by the department of taxes and assessments is $19,977,096,315.

Berry Report Criticized.

The controller's estimate of revenue from special taxes, rents, water rates, etc.—$114,243,673—is criticized by tax experts as being surprisingly high and doubt has been expressed that more than $75,000,000 will be collected in special taxes.

COL. ROOSEVELT VISITS THE SHANGHAI FRONT; NOT A SHOT IS FIRED

SHANGHI, Feb. 24 [Wednesday.]—(AP)— Col. Theodore Roosevelt sniffed the battlefield early this morning and found it smelled like burnt wood instead of like powder.

The colonel, who is here with Mrs. Roosevelt and their daughter, Grace, on their way to Manila, where he will become governor general of the Philippines, was escorted out to the United States marine front lines by Nelson T. Johnson, United States minister to China.

Col. Richard S. Hooker, marine commander, took Col. Roosevelt to outposts where he had an excellent view of no man's land, but not a single shot was fired while he was there.

HONGKONG GETS OUT FIREWORKS; FOREIGNERS WILT

SHANGHAI, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Despatches from Hongkong said a tremendous celebration took place there today on receipt of reports from Shanghai that the Chinese had won "sweeping military victories."

Loads of firecrackers were shot off at noon. The sudden fusillade scared the foreign residents of the city who feared it was an outbreak of fighting. The uproar continued there throughout the day in spite of more sober reports printed in foreign newspapers and office workers were unable to work in the terrific din.

Similar incidents have happened previously at Canton over exaggerated reports and it was estimated that Canton residents spent $50,000 in one day celebrating a "great victory."

CLARKE'S GROUP BOOMS SALE OF RELIEF WARRANTS

$1,000,000 Subscription from Insurance Co.

Volunteer canvassers who sold Liberty Loan bonds during the world war yesterday swept into action selling state tax warrants for the relief of 500,000 destitute persons.

Total sales at the close of the day, as announced by Philip R. Clarke, president of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company and director of the campaign, were $7,314,700, including $1,000,000 subscription of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company of New York, which had been unofficially reported.

Canvassers Enthusiastic.

Sales before the resumption of the drive, on the war time basis, yesterday, totaled $6,079,000. The new total leaves $11,435,300 worth of the notes out of a total issue of $18,750,000 to be sold, and Mr. Clarke said the enthusiasm of his campaigners justified the hope that this will be done "in short order."

"The emergency is just as great now as it was when the attention of the city was focused on the battle to obtain the necessary legislation to provide state funds for relief purposes," said Mr. Clarke. "If the tax notes aren't sold, the state treasurer cannot issue checks to meet the emergency. That means the support now being given 500,000 destitute people will have to be cut off.

"But we have gone far enough to believe that the public will not be long in appreciating this wonderful opportunity it has to give relief to the needy and make an exceptionable investment for itself at the same time. We want widespread distribution in the sale of these 6 per cent notes, which are in denominations low enough to meet the requirements of the average person."

Trade Groups Near Goal.

Several of the trades divisions, it was announced, have already approached their goals. The furniture and office fixtures group has taken subscriptions of $133,000, or 88 per cent of its quota; the real estate group has sold $500,000, or 80 per cent of its quota, and the railway supplies group has raised $285,000, or 67 per cent of its allotment.

Some of the canvassers met objections from prospective purchasers who recalled a published account of a man purchasing an automobile while receiving aid. Investigation has shown that this man received $20 a month in groceries from the United Charities, but no cash, and that he bought the car for $75.

Among subscriptions reported yesterday were $100,000 from the Pullman company, $50,000 from the Standard Office company, $10,000 from the H. J. Heinz company, $5,000 from the Bortman Electric company, $2,500 from the Belden Manufacturing company, and $1,000 each from Nimmons, Carr and Wright, Clement, Curtis and company and the Tavern club.

United Charities Elect Two New Directors

Merle J. Trees and Donald B. Douglas were elected yesterday to the board of directors of the United Charities to fill vacancies caused by the deaths of Julius Rosenwald and David R. Forgan. Mr. Trees is vice president and general manager of the Chicago Bridge and Iron works, and Mr. Douglas is advertising manager of the Quaker Oats company.

Young Stillman is the son of the New York banker and Mrs. Fowler McCormick. He and Miss Wilson were married in 1927 in a romance that began in his mother's forest home near Grand Anse.

REICHSTAG FIRES AID OF HITLER AFTER "INSULTS"

Hindenburg Flayed by Fascist Leader.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 23. — After having been shelved most of the winter to allow the triumvirate of President Paul von Hindenburg, Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Minister of Defense Wilhelm Groener rule Germany with emergency laws, the reichstag reopened today with oratorical fireworks, ending with the expulsion of the loudest shouter of all—Joseph Goebbels, chief lieutenant of Adolf Hitler, Fascist candidate for president.

The purpose of the session is to prepare the presidential election laws. A motion to hold the election on March 13 was introduced by Minister Groener in the name of the Bruening cabinet. The reichstag will vote on it Thursday or Friday after all party leaders have expressed their opinions in speeches limited to three hours each.

Attacks Von Hindenburg.

The Fascisti started the fireworks by sending forth Goebbels, their most vitriolic orator. His mission was to secure a halo of martyrdom for Hitler's party in the eyes of his followers, and he succeeded.

He hurled a vibrant tirade against President von Hindenburg until half of the members arose and shouted in protest, compelling the reichstag's president to call an adjournment. The reichstag's committee of elders found that beside accusing all Social Democrats of high treason he had insulted Von Hindenburg by saying:

"We National Socialists have a proverb, 'Tell me who praises you and we will tell you who you are.' President von Hindenburg is being praised by Berlin's yellow press and by party deserters."

The elders thereupon voted to exclude Goebbels from the session. His followers at once acclaimed him as "the victim of unfair Republicans."

His Fight for Citizenship.

Hitler, the Austrian born candidate, who fought for four years in the German army during the world war, insists he is a naturalized German citizen by virtue of his war record. The Fascist leader, it is reported, will clinch his version by securing his appointment as an official of Brunswick's state legation in Berlin. He says this will secure his citizenship, which he must have by March 3 if his candidacy for the German presidency is to be valid.

BANDITS HELD TO GRAND JURY.

Clarence Seur, 30 years old, 5949 Eddy street, and George Kimball, 32 years old, 917 Waveland avenue, who were captured after they tried to stage a holdup in the basement of The Fair last Saturday, were held to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 each by Judge James F. Fardy in the Felony court yesterday.

STORY OF LIFE IN SHELTER FOR HOMELESS MEN

'White Ticket' Opens Door to Hobo and Luckless.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

Life in the shelters for "unemployed homeless men," operated by the Joint Emergency Relief fund, begins with the application for a "white ticket," good for one night, at the clearing house, 116 South Green street.

The white tickets are handed out to all comers, with no questions asked. A reporter applied in the afternoon, a little diffident about a hard luck story he had ready. But only the name was asked, and it was this easy:

"You won't find it so comfortable here, Mr.——, but you'll register tomorrow morning and we'll assign you to a permanent shelter. Now just take this ticket and go down in the basement with the bums."

They Save Their Own Butts.

The bums were just returning from supper on the second floor, and they soon filled the three tiers of park benches, about 300 of them in all. They sat there and smoked and talked, and the reporter was given a lesson in economy. They roll their own cigarets, and none has the temerity to shout "Save the butt," as the soldiers did in the world war. The smoker saves the butt for himself, in a match box, for three butts will make another cigaret.

After a monotonous hour two young men from the Chicago Christian Industrial league came in. Song books were passed around and were immediately discarded by the men. One of the visitors played the piano while the other "led" what proved to be a solo. The singer said a few words in the nature of preaching and then asked to see the hands of all those who believed in God. Only a few hands went up, and the preacher lamented this in prayer before going on his way.

Red Agitators Blamed.

Preaching is carried on in all the shelters and some of the inmates resent it. Over at 222 South Morgan street the other night a group rioted and threatened to wreck the piano. A police riot squad came and threw them out. Communist agitators are said to be behind the resentment.

After preaching comes another wait until 9:30, when everybody must take a shower bath and turn over his clothes to be fumigated during the night. Forty or fifty are herded into the shower room at once, to save on the heating of water.

Sensitive, clean looking young men shy away from the old bums and have to be pushed forward under the sprays by the attendants. The old men are amused by the embarrassment of the youngsters, and grin like monkeys at a fair.

Some of the men shave in the shower room, holding tiny mirrors before their faces, and some go over their bodies with their safety razors in an effort to rid themselves of vermin.

Some Miss Fumigation.

After the bath long white nightshirts are distributed until all available cots are filled. The remaining guests must sleep on the benches with nothing but an army blanket, so they are allowed to put their clothes back on and miss the fumigation. These blankets, it is said, are fumigated each day, but one young man whose clothes bore vestiges of respectability, was cursing and tugging at his sides after a night on a park bench.

"I've got 'em; there's no question about it," he said. "I thought they fumigated those damn blankets."

At 5:30 in the morning everybody is roused from bench or cot and told to get ready for breakfast. They file upstairs into the mess hall and seat themselves in rows at benches, prison fashion. Breakfast consists of thin rice, thin blue milk [evaporated milk], coffee, and four slices of bread. The rice is ladled out into large granite pans from the barrels in which it is boiled.

The Registration Begins.

After breakfast the bums sit on the benches until 9 o'clock, when permanent registration begins. Long lines form and slowly they file by employé-guests, who take histories. A blue card is then received and the applicant waits in line to get it approved by one of the case workers, who spend as much as 45 minutes on an individual. When the day's work is over at 4 o'clock those still waiting in line have to get another white card for the night and try it again the next day.

It is pretty much the same in the permanent shelters, except that nobody has to sleep on benches and entertainment is provided. The food is the same, two meals a day—oat meal, rice, or corn meal mush for breakfast; hash, stew, or liver and onions for supper.

Twice a week there is a program of entertainment, consisting of eight rounds of boxing, a round of wrestling, songs and vaudeville stunts by down and out talent. The boxers, many of whom are Negroes, are in fine physical trim, with huge muscular rolls on their bodies. They, with the fifteen or twenty entertainers and some 1,000 employé guests, who keep the shelters going, get three meals a day.

"Derail" Is Popular Drink.

Drinking is not tolerated in the shelters, and when an inmate staggers in under the influence of liquor he is sent away. But many of the guests who have haunted West Madison street for years get out during the day for their "derail," a form of denatured alcohol that they buy for 75 cents a gallon.

One of them will go out in the residential sections and wash windows or run errands for the money to buy the derail. Then he will invite his friends to join him in some vacant basement for an orgy. There is a vacant basement half a block away where the bums from the clearing house, who don't go to permanent shelters, do their drinking. They are often generous with their booze, and a stranger may share it with them if he feels like it.

NORRIS OPENS FIGHT TO CURB U. S. JUDGES' INJUNCTION POWERS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Opening the senate fight for the passage of his bill to limit the federal courts' injunction power in labor disputes, Senator George W. Norris [radical Rep., Neb.], today pointed to the record of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson of Chicago, whose promotion to the court of appeals is now awaiting the senate's confirmation.

Judge Wilkerson's issuance of injunctions in the railroad shopmen's strike in 1922 and the Chicago Federation of Musicians' case in 1928 were examples, said the senator, of why such legislation is needed.

FREE COP IN SLAYING.

A coroner's jury yesterday voted a verdict of justifiable homicide at an inquest into the death of Chester Lakowski, 19 years old, 4847 South Ada street. Policeman George Jordan, who was assigned to the youth's home to arrest him, shot and killed Lakowski when he started to flee.

LONDON POLICE RIDE FULL TILT AT JOBLESS RIOTERS

Block March of 10,000 on House of Commons.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 23. — Today was "unemployed fighting day" in London and elsewhere in England. Police clashes with many angry mobs, broken heads and broken windows, wholesale arrests, including women, baton charges and parade broken up by mounted police were features of the demonstration.

Ten thousand demonstrators gathered in Hyde Park tonight converging from all parts of London. The unemployed marched to the accompaniment of drums and discordant bugles. Men with collecting boxes shouted abuse at pedestrians refusing to contribute. In the park the crowd decided to march to the house of commons.

Police Ride Rioters Down.

With banners flying and a band playing, the marchers started shouting, "We want work, not charity." The parade was broken up when a large force of mounted police rode at them full tilt.

The police clattered down the sidewalks of Oxford street pursuing the fleeing crowd. One large group managed to reach Whitehall. Several windows of the treasury building were smashed, but more mounted policemen quickly cleared the thoroughfare. In Parliament square the rioters tried to fight their way through the police cordon guarding the house of commons. In adjacent streets crowds booed the police which resulted in more fighting.

Eventually, eight leaders of the unemployed were permitted to enter the outer lobby of the house of commons, where they were interviewed by George Lansbury, leader of the Labor party.

Riot in Bristol.

Riots also occurred in Bristol. Thirty were injured in a police baton charge when a throng of 3,000 unemployed tried to march on the city hall. Iron bars, sticks, and bricks were used as weapons by the demonstrators. Shops closed, traffic was interrupted for several hours. Many women were injured in the clash. The Bristol council decided to receive a deputation of the demonstrators tomorrow.

Unemployed men and women staged a disturbance at the Nottingham county council session. They shouted from the public galleries when the council refused to receive their committee.

COFFEE
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Hills Bros. developed a new way to roast coffee, because in ordinary, bulk-roasting methods the roast is governed by a man's guess. And men make mistakes. One batch may be underdone; another overdone. Flavor-variations naturally result.

Hills Bros.' patented Controlled Roasting process always makes a perfect roast! Instead of big batches, Hills Bros. roast a little at a time . . . without guesswork! Small quantities of coffee pass evenly, continuously through the roasters. The speed of flow and heat are automatically controlled.

Every pound of Hills Bros. Coffee is done to the degree that develops the most enjoyable flavor that Nature puts in the coffee-berries! And that marvelous flavor never varies.

Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans, and can't go stale. The vacuum process of packing coffee is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness—the air is removed from the can and kept out. It was originated by Hills Bros. over thirty years ago. There is no magic about a vacuum can—it will not make poor coffee good, but it will keep good coffee fresh.

Remove the top from a Hills Bros. vacuum can. Breathe that wonderful coffee aroma. Then make some coffee, and prove to yourself that you get all the flavor the aroma promised. No other coffee tastes like it, because no other is roasted the same way. Order Hills Bros. Coffee today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE AGRARIAN CONQUEST OF GOVERNMENT.

In a petition submitted to the United States Supreme court by Attorney John W. Keogh of Chicago, another attempt is made to find a judicial gate by which the exclusion of Chicago from proportionate representation can be brought to the consideration of law. Mr. Keogh appeals to the protection which the federal constitution is supposed to give the republican form of government, presumably on the theory that proportionate representation is one of its inviolable principles. Representative democracy is to be considered republican form of government in American usage. A destruction of representative democracy would be regarded as a destruction of the republican form, but thus far no success has attended the efforts to obtain judicial scrutiny of the kind of representative government maintained in Illinois by nullification of the state constitution.

At some time and in some form it may yet be possible to prepare an issue cognizable by the courts. It may be when property rights are early involved in franchise discriminations. The layman might think that political inequalities expressed in taxation would raise the proper question and in some fashion this may be found to be true, but meanwhile the courts avoid the political issue.

Thus far there remains a wrong without an apparent remedy. In theory there is no such possibility in the American scheme, but Illinois proves the contrary. Proof is offered that constitutional law can be made a nullity to the increasing injury of half the people of the state and nothing can be done about it. The disfranchised people can be taxed against their will by an assembly in which they are deprived of their rights. It is a most interesting as well as serious development in the American theory of equal representation.

The question is most acute in this state because here the disfranchised people, suffering from the illegal discriminations against them, are protesting against the injustice, but the motivation of the discrimination is country-wide. Its origin is in an agrarian determination to suppress the liberties of urban communities. It is to be remembered that in English political evolution and revolution control was vested first in landed interests and the revolts were conducted by renters and by the disfranchised people of urban industrial centers. The squire and the county freeholder gave up their privileges only after stubborn conflict through several centuries.

Now there is an apparent reaction, with the agrarians recovering in many parts of the United States the old special franchise privileges once attached exclusively to the land. In connection with this recovery certain well marked and entirely expectable phenomena are observed. Prejudicial taxation is one of them. The waste land states are just really discovering the power their votes in the senate give them to obtain subsidies at the expense of the industrial centers. The fourteen states which now take in subsidies much more than they pay in taxes offer one evidence. The rural counties of Illinois reveal the same tendency and some of the same successes.

Moreover, there is a disposition, if not a determination, on the part of agrarian sections to impose their religious beliefs and their customs on the city. The Volstead act is in reality a religious, sectarian dogma formulated in the rural districts and imposed on the cities.

There is an incurable discrimination in the constitutional provisions for the composition of the United States senate. That injury has been done. There may be a remedy for it in the check the house of representatives will be able to establish over the senate in money bills. The cities cannot afford to drop any of their remaining defenses. In Illinois there is still hope that a judicial protection can be found. In theory it must be possible. Otherwise the only remedy would be found in revolt.

THE MISNOMER—CANCELLATION.

In the interest of better English, for the promotion of better international understanding and the advancement of common honesty let it be suggested that the word cancellation in reference to debts contracted in distress by European nations borrowing of the United States treasury be forever dropped. As a description of the thing advocated it is grotesque. All its assumptions are false and all its implications are roguish.

The phrase should indicate that there is a transference of the debt from the European to the American taxpayer. It can be called the American assumption of the debt. It can be said that Americans are to be stuck with it. Europeans may so fix it that it can be called repudiation. The Europeans can walk out and leave the check with Uncle Sam. They can be called to the telephone or see a friend across the room. There is just one thing which cannot be done. The debts cannot be canceled. Therefore cancellation as a term is a falsity. It is a misrepresentation and a dishonest one.

In the word cancellation there is the inference if not the plain doctrine that a phantasm known as the United States created another phantasm known as credit with which Europe supplied itself with food, tobacco, munitions, live stock and supplies of all kinds; that, having consumed these in war and peace, having defended themselves with them and subsisted on them when they were in danger of being overrun or starving, the phantasm can be dissolved by the wave of a magic wand. The material which the debts provided has been consumed, but the debts remain as tangible obligations which must be disposed of in one of three ways—the debtors will take them up, the American taxpayer will take them up or the United States will repudiate the bonds it sold to its citizens.

A MODERN POLICE FOR ILLINOIS.

In a talk at the conference of midwest police officials at Northwestern university, the able United States attorney for this district, Mr. Johnson, made some suggestions that would be offered even more profitably to the Illinois legislature. Like THE TRIBUNE, as we have urged in several editorials, Mr. Johnson proposes a mobile, statewide police organization, which he described as follows:

"A state police body welded together in one great organization with all of the police bodies in the counties and municipalities, swift cars to transport armed men from point to point, a radio station transmitting orders and communicating information; also a mobile force of expert investigators unknown in the community where they are to operate, to work their way into gangs, worm out their secrets, frustrate their plans and destroy their sources of income, which is but another word for destroying their power."

Realization of the need for such an organization is slow in arriving, but the extension of the activities of organized crime into the rural districts in recent years must have made some impression and ought to induce the downstate representatives, who dominate legislative action when they wish, to consider the problem of better police protection as of import to their own constituents. With the automobile the criminal can cover a wide territory in his depredations, and the small town bank or business or private citizen needs better protection, as raids and kidnapings have proved. The present localized organizations and methods, as Mr. Johnson points out, are inadequate and behind the times. The state legislatures of the midwest should not postpone their modernization and Mr. Johnson has given them an excellent summary of what we need.

This is an appropriate subject for the business and civic associations of the state to take up. A modern state organization of investigation and coordinated action will save far more than it will cost. It will go far toward making the criminal laws feared by increasing the probability of discovery, capture, and punishment. It will give life and property in the cities and the country more security than they can have under present conditions. The cities and the country should join in getting this urgent common interest provided for.

REPRESENTATIVE CHURCH AND HIS BILL.

In the Voice of the People we publish a letter from Representative Ralph Church of Evanston, one of the ablest and most reliable members of the assembly. Mr. Church is, of course, right in assuming that his sponsorship of the measure for reducing the sanitary board membership was not known to the writer of the editorial referred to, which was not intended to intimate that Mr. Church is actuated by any motive except that of improving the public service. We are glad to correct any possible misinterpretation, although we do not think it likely to be made by any one who knew of Mr. Church's connection with the measure, which THE TRIBUNE hopes will become law. The sanitary board is much too large. Its reduction, as proposed by Representative Church, is desirable not only in the interest of economy and efficiency but even more in the interest of responsibility. The conditions exposed in the recent trial before Justice Fisher are more likely to develop in a large board than in a small one because personal responsibility is more difficult to fix.

Editorial of the Day

WHY NOT BOTH SIDES?

[The Scarlet and Black, Grinnell College.]

Students come to college to learn facts. They get them, mixed with propaganda. Public utility entrance into education was unearthed a few years ago. Student newspapers regularly receive propaganda from disarmament leagues, militaristic associations, world peace movements, railroad associations, and any number of additional groups desiring to impress something upon the student mind.

Grinnell students are victims of an even more definite attempt to curb original thought on current topics. Silently and with that stolid student spirit of mediocre agreement, which was criticized by Ruth Suckow last year, they have submitted to this treatment and they watch its advance with wondering and even commending eyes. Inertia is their god.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE was taken from the library. Its news and editorial policies were not thought to be of the sort with which the academic mind should be given contact. Yet, the subscription to the Christian Science Monitor, whose news suppression policies are so biased that many veteran newspapermen contend that it must be considered as a journal instead of newspaper, is continued. The Kansas City Star has been included in library racks. This is a good paper, but interprets news events in a much different manner than the Chicago daily, and in addition, does not get late news here with the service that was being offered by THE TRIBUNE.

Grinnell students need favor neither militarism nor saloons, but it is only fair that Grinnell, as a liberal arts college, offer them full access to varying interpretations of news events of the day.

Concerted action on the part of campus pacifists, who not only seem to control the news map between the library and Alumni Recitation hall, but who have also gained a peace conference at Grinnell, makes this only a tempering move. If students are on the right road they should at least know something of the other highway and its defects. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, however biased, should be included in the library as a representative mid-western daily.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Heiv to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

JAPAN'S BEEN VERY PROUD of the progress she's made since Commodore Perry and a few American warships woke her up. If things don't begin to pick up a little bit over in China the Japs are going to take Commodore Perry's monument up and chuck it in the bay and go back to sitting on their ancestors' graves and fighting their enemies with bows and arrows. The Japs did very well when they fought with bows and arrows.

AND JAPAN HAS BEEN THINKING all along that the higher civilization and the things it has produced, culture, machine guns, air craft, education, high explosives, gas bombs, and tanks, would triumph gloriously over a backward, decadent people like the Chinese. Japan is liable to sue the U. S. A. and all Europe, from whom she bought higher civilization and arms, for obtaining money under false pretenses.

JEANNE DE LAMARTER.

THE PHILOSOPHER DRAWS HIS CONCLUSIONS.

I was one of the 23,000 who watched Mr. Dempsey, Standard Bearer of the Left Cross, fall under the battle ax of the Crescent, last Thursday.

As I looked around the house I found myself wishing that Dempsey could lead an orchestra.

Levinsky's effectiveness as a fighter lies in the fact that he keeps swinging at a third person located about two feet behind his opponent. This is naturally bewildering to his adversaries, who are finally lured into looking around to see who in hell he is swinging at, and thus get popped.

Willie Stribling, the slightly bruised Georgia peach, was introduced. Like most gentlemen from Georgia, he fights better when he has his posse with him.

I once went to see a wrestling match between a man and an alligator in the Roman Pools Casino. It turned out so tame an affair that George Ade whispered to me they were roommates.

Dempsey was made up to resemble the awful example in a safety razor ad.

What surprised me about the fight was the number of times Levinsky was able to land his famous right swing, which is illuminated with Neon tubes and travels a distance slightly longer than Chamberlin's flight.

Before the fight was over Dempsey got awfully tired of herring.

Judith Anderson looked Mr. Levinsky over at the College Inn and finally offered to bet that he would never marry a Connecticut debutante.

ERNEST BYFIELD.

ALL GERMANY is gay this week with flags, banners, and bunting. Bands are playing, happy people are dancing in the streets, and everywhere there is the merry tinkle of glass touching glass and the jovial sound of "hoch!" Ah, 'tis bock beer week and the celebration this year is bigger than ever, for this is the hundredth anniversary of the invention of that noble beverage. Ach! hoch der bock! gesundheit! Who won the war?

THEY'RE PUTTING ZIPPERS on everything now, not only handbags and brief cases, coats, leggings, and things like that, but we are advised that gents' new style undies this spring will also be operated with zippers. But Washington says that where zippers are mostly needed is on pocketbooks. Come on, you hoarders, take the padlocks off your trouser pockets and pocketbooks and put on zippers.

GIVE ME YOUR HEART.

Give me your heart, I shall not bring it rue;
Let us make of our lives a rich design.
Give me your lips and I shall pledge with mine;
Mean much to me, I shall mean much to you.
For I have need of you and you of me
As we meander the imperiled way
Which leads us on uncharted day to day
Down paths we can but fashion, not foresee.

I love you with the love of one who knows
That earth and sky are beautiful again,
I love you with the love of one who goes
Heartened by hope among discouraged men,
And, being so much disturbed by my great need,
I love you with more love than I can plead.

A DOCTOR'S SPRAY.

A HALF century ago Dr. Murrell advised people who had winter coughs to use an ipecac spray. His recommendation was that wine of ipecac be diluted with twice its bulk of water, and sprayed with steam, or otherwise. This treatment came to the attention of Dr. E. J. Kuh, who began using it.

Finding that it gave relief to the unpleasant symptoms, he modified the recipe and the method of using it. He has had a long and extensive experience, beginning with the original method used to relieve winter coughing, and extending to the use of modifications for the relief of that disorder and several others. The recipe he has used for many years is 1 to 2 per cent creosote, ½ to 1 per cent camphor, 2 per cent oil of pine needles, and enough of abolene [or some other mineral oil of that density] to make 100 per cent. This is sprayed with compressed air. He uses a No. 56.

To use, the patient must be thoroughly relaxed. The tube and curved tip of the spray apparatus is introduced far back into the mouth, the end being located near the tonsil area. The tongue is not depressed. Unless the patient is so thoroughly relaxed that his tongue does not get in the way, he is not likely to get much relief from this method.

The man exhales just before the spraying begins. He then inhales gently and deeply through his partly closed lips, as the spraying goes on, the objective being to have the spray carried throughout the air tubes, even to those located in the chest within reach.

This method of spraying the bronchial tubes was done originally for the purpose of cutting the phlegm and soothing the cough, in those attacks of bronchitis which come during the winter season and then hang on. As time passed and experience accumulated, Dr. Kuh and his patients found additional uses for it. Some of the older hands among the patients use it when they feel that they are catching cold. They have faith in it as a means of warding off chest colds, and of relieving the symptoms of acute bronchitis. He has had some favorable experiences with this spray in whooping cough. He says: "Tractable children may be trained to relax themselves enough to use the spray with advantage. The few fearless children with whooping cough who submitted to the inhalations recovered within ten days. The same experience holds good for adults afflicted with this disease."

It is of service in chronic bronchitis, in chronic bronchitis with emphysema, and in bronchial asthma. It is of service as a palliative in hay fever.

COLD HANDS AND FEET.

Mrs. R. H. writes: I suffer with icy hands and feet almost continuously. Knowing that poor circulation must be the cause, I've attempted to remedy the matter by doing brisk exercises, followed by hot and cold showers. I also walk a great deal, but nothing seems to help.

REPLY.

Exercising and taking hot and cold showers are excellent measures. I presume you wear loose, warm gloves, shoes, and stockings, and dress properly. If so, you are doing about all I know to suggest.

PUFFS UNDER THE EYES.

E. M. writes: 1. I have slight puffs under my eyes and have been told that the cause is uric acid.

2. What is uric acid?
3. What causes it?
4. How can it be gotten rid of?
5. Is it serious to have it in the blood?

REPLY.

1. There is more than one cause for puffiness under the eyes. You probably have the wrong cat by the tail. Try again.
2. An organic acid remotely akin to urea. It is found normally in the body.
3. It results from the breaking down of cell nuclei—at least, in part.
4. Eat less pepper, beef tea, meats, and especially roe, sweetbreads, and kidney. Eat more potatoes and bananas.
5. No.

REPAVING IN SPRING.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—[Friend of the People.]—I 've and am the owner of property on Glenwood avenue. About two months ago construction work was discontinued on the big sewer running north on Glenwood. Rubbish, consisting of broken pavement, waste rock, etc., is heaped in the gutters in this entire block, causing pools of water and making it impossible to park our cars in front of our homes. H. S.

The obstructions in the gutters complained of were caused by refilling holes dug to cut off utility service to houses in advance of sewer construction. This refill is gradually settling into place and will not be a serious obstruction during the winter. In the spring it will be taken care of with repaving.

ILLEGAL IN ILLINOIS.

Glen Ellyn, Ill., Feb. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Will you please advise me through your column at what date common law marriage was declared illegal in Chicago? 2. Also please state when the Iroquois theater burned. E. F.

1. In the absence of a ceremonial marriage the legality of the relationship would depend upon whether there was ever an agreement for a legal, as distinguished from an illicit, relationship, and upon whether that agreement was entered into in a state recognizing common law marriages. Since 1905 Illinois law has not permitted the contracting of common law marriages in this state, but if the relation was valid when and where it was entered into it would be valid everywhere.
2. The Iroquois fire was on Dec. 30, 1903.

RIGHTS OF HEIRS.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am one of six heirs to an estate left by a first cousin. The will reads that one thousand dollars be given to each heir after all expenses are paid. What is left is to be divided between two favorite heirs. One heir died prior to the death of the one leaving the will, leaving no children. 1. Can his wife claim anything? 2. If not, should his share be divided between all heirs or only to the two favorite heirs? 3. Can other heirs not mentioned in the will equally deserving claim anything? P. J. H.

1. No.
2. We cannot determine whether the wording of the will is sufficient to carry such a lapsed legacy into the residuary clause without having the wording before us.
3. Not unless they can set the will aside for undue influence or lack of testamentary capacity. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

SHANGHAI, Aug. 5.—The rumor current to the effect that the Japanese fleet had captured three men of war has not been confirmed. It is believed here that the report is a rehash of stories of former engagements of the fleets. As yet there has been no disorder in Shanghai growing out of the war. The Japanese association has issued a warning to Japanese residents that they must behave themselves and avoid any acts which would precipitate a conflict with the Chinese. Serious riots have occurred at Kobe, Japan, and Taku, China.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—A Shanghai dispatch gives the testimony of Col. von Hannekin, formerly aid de camp to the viceroy, who was among those rescued from the British steamer Kow Shing, which was sunk by a torpedo from the Japanese warship Naniwa while being used as a transport for Chinese troops. He testified before a commission appointed to investigate the sinking. He said the Naniwa ordered the Kow Shing to come to anchor and the order was obeyed. The Japanese commander then ordered the transport to get under way and follow the Naniwa to Japan. The Chinese troops on the Kow Shing insisted that the order be not obeyed, stating they preferred death to being cast into a Japanese prison. Capt. Galsworthy, the master of the Kow Shing, explained to the Japanese commander that the Kow Shing was a British vessel and that it had left port before hostilities between Japan and China had begun. He offered to abandon the voyage and return to China. He was ordered by the Naniwa to abandon the ship, to which he replied he could not do so, because the troops would not permit it. When this signal was read the Naniwa withdrew a little further from the Kow Shing and discharged a torpedo at it. As the transport was sinking the Naniwa fired a broadside into the craft. An armed boat cruised about while the transport went down firing upon men who were struggling in the water.

CHEFOO.—Trains of twelve cars, each with eighty soldiers aboard, are now arriving at Port Arthur every ten minutes. Reinforcements are being pushed forward to the Yalu river from the station at Haichang. Mines have been laid at Dalny seventeen miles from the shore and neutral vessels which arrived after hostilities opened experienced great difficulty in clearing from that port.

ST. PETERSBURG.—It is asserted on high authority that Count Lamsdorff, Russian minister of foreign affairs, is anxious to resign his position because of his opposition to the czar's eastern policy in the far east. It is said he will be succeeded by M. Witte, the minister of finance and the Napoleon of Russian statesmen. Gen. Sakharoff, chief of the military district of Turkestan, has been appointed to act as war minister during the absence of Gen. Kouropatkin at the front. It is claimed that Kouropatkin was sent to take command by his enemies, who know his task is impossible.

CHICAGO.—The special grand jury investigating the Iroquois fire horror in a written report placed a measure of the blame for the disaster on city officials and was discharged. Members of the jury said censure was directed not only at the building department, which was hit by indictments two days ago, but at the mayor's office, the fire department and other departments. Regarding the failure to indict Mayor Harrison himself, the grand jury explained that he personally had not received any report of the violation of the law at the Iroquois as far as the jury was able to ascertain.

WASHINGTON.—By a vote of 66 to 14 the senate has ratified the Panama canal treaty and the dream of centuries will be realized. Steps will be taken at once to assume control of the Panama strip and work will be under way within a short time. The Third infantry, United States regulars, has been ordered to the isthmus.

LONDON.—German troops, 280,000 strong, commanded by the crown prince, are hammering the French lines before the great fortress of Verdun. Berlin says the French trenches on a front of six and one-half miles were captured to a depth of two miles. Paris denies such an extensive loss, but admits Germans advanced at several points. The battle line extends from Melancourt on the west to Etain on the east, with Verdun in the center, only a few miles southward. The hardest fighting is between Brabant-sur-Meuse and Ormes. The battle is in progress at every point along the line, which covers a distance of twenty-five miles.

LISBON.—The commander of the naval division here, apparently of his own initiative, took forcible possession of thirty-six German and Austrian vessels lying in the Tagus river, hoisted the Portuguese colors on them, and saluted them with a twenty-one gun salvo from the Portuguese fleet.

MADRID. — Flying the German naval ensign from her topmast, the British steamship Westborn, of 2,018 tons, poked her sea-bitten nose in between the two northwestern Canary islands today, steered straight for the port of Santa Cruz de Teneriffe, and asked the hospitality of the Spanish government. "pending the making of repairs." She is in command of a German prize crew, consisting of one officer and seven men. She has on board 206 prisoners, taken from one Belgian and six British vessels, all believed to have been destroyed by a mysterious German raider.

THE ANDERSON PLAN.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Why would it not be a good idea for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to get back of the Anderson plan for reorganizing the anti-prohibition question on a practical basis? Many people are convinced that, for well known reasons, it will be impossible to repeal the 18th amendment, and especially because no one would know in advance what they would get in its place. These same people, who are not radical prohibitionists, are strongly inclined toward the so-called Anderson plan, which has apparently been thought out very thoroughly by him and others.

The support of a strong paper like THE TRIBUNE, with its wonderful circulation, might bring about the change desired by so many citizens. It is often easier to amend an article of the constitution than it is to repeal it, particularly if it would give those states which want prohibition the right to keep it, and those states which do not want it an opportunity of adopting the plan suggested by Mr. Anderson, which, under federal regulation, would do away with all saloons and the big profit in the business.

I understand the Industrial club of Chicago indorsed it almost unanimously some time ago. JOHN V. FARWELL.

FROM REPRESENTATIVE CHURCH.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—I was amazed in reading the editorial in THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE, Feb. 20, 1932, headed "Reorganizing the Sanitary Board," to find the following sentence: "The bill deserves support as a measure of economy, but it would be interesting to know whether the bill is being fostered for its shakedown values as well."

I am presuming that the writer of this editorial could not have known that the bill was independently conceived, planned, and introduced by me. At no time during my past sixteen years in the legislature has my record for independence and honesty been challenged in any way. In the present connection, I would beg to remind you that it was I who, at the opening of the January, 1929, session, single handedly, instigated the movement which prevented the reelection of the clerk of the house whose name had been found on the pay roll of the sanitary district, and this initiated the startling investigation of that pay roll.

Whereas, I am sure that the writer of THE TRIBUNE article in no way means to intimate that I personally could possibly be among those actuated by the motives suggested by him or that I have ever had any connection, directly or indirectly, with the sanitary district pay roll, I must ask that you please be kind enough to correct a possible wrong impression by stating that the editorial on this subject can in no way apply to me, the author of this bill.

FROM DOUGLAS SUTHERLAND.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—In your news story of today concerning slashing of the city budget Ald. Oscar Nelson is quoted as saying that he knows of no unnecessary jobs and that "Douglas Sutherland and Harris Keeler have said we have no useless jobs."

There is some misunderstanding or mistake about this, as I certainly never have made any such statement. On the contrary, I would feel reasonably certain that in any of the major branches of government there would be found some useless jobs and some people whom the taxpayers should not be asked to retain on the public pay rolls. To determine the identity of such jobs or such employés would require a labor survey such as Mr. Jacobs has attempted in the city hall and county building. The city council is entitled to credit in the past two years for materially reducing its budget and the number of city employés, but, while recognizing this, I certainly would not want to convey the impression (in the absence of a detailed study which I have not had time or facility for making) that I believe a limit has been reached in this direction.

THE CARDOZO APPOINTMENT.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Mr. Norton, in his letter published in this column under date of Feb. 20, harshly criticizes President Hoover's action in nominating Judge Cardozo to succeed Justice Holmes on the Supreme court of the United States. He bases his criticisms largely upon sectional considerations and seems to find grave danger in the recent concentration of its personnel in the eastern states.

We venture the assertion that if all of President Hoover's official acts had been as sound and statesmanlike as this appointment there would be little doubt of his reelection by a large majority. We are confident that the great majority of the American bar who are acquainted with the facts will disagree with the views Mr. Norton has expressed. Certainly his strictures will have small appeal for the law teachers of the country who are in peculiarly advantageous position to analyze and evaluate the performance of judges of the various courts. They have for years regarded Judge Cardozo as the outstanding judicial figure in this generation among judges of state courts.

It is, no doubt, unfortunate for the country that so many of the judges and lawyers who are qualified by experience, professional attainments, qualities of statesmanship and character to be justices of the Supreme court are living in the east. But the President was confronted with a condition and not a theory. Lawyers on the Pacific coast will be very pleasantly surprised to learn from Mr. Norton that judges of outstanding ability are numerous in that section. They will certainly need his assistance in identifying them.

Let the Pacific coast produce another Stephen Field, the south another Edward White, the middle west another Melville Fuller and they will not long be left without representation on our Supreme tribunal. Unfortunately the primary system of selection has reduced most of our state courts to a dead level of mediocrity. In the meantime let us hope that our Presidents will continue to regard brains as paramount to the whereabouts of the legal domicile of the appointee.

Judge Cardozo is preëminently fitted to continue the fine liberal traditions of Justice Holmes. One who has read certain of Mr. Norton's writings may be pardoned for suggesting that this fact may have something to do with his lack of enthusiasm over the appointment. The late Justice Peckham perhaps more nearly approaches his ideal of what a great constitutional lawyer and judge should be than does Justice Holmes. And it is no doubt true that the Peckhams are easier to find than men of the stamp of Holmes and Cardozo.

A PROGRAM.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Today's editorial speaks of the desirability of having a school budget "honestly balanced." Here are a few suggestions for economy's sake:

1. Close school in the middle of June and open the middle of September. A nine months' term is long enough. It is cruel to keep children cooped up in a schoolroom during the excessive heat we so often have the last of June and first part of September.
2. Do no more building until all back debts are paid. That will eliminate the excessive interest rates now being paid on borrowed money.
3. One less janitor for each school and no pay for janitors when schools are closed.
4. Go back to a five hour day for high school students and let them study at home, teachers' salaries to return to five hour schedule.
5. School playgrounds to be supported by small park system.
6. Health work and lunchrooms supported by health department or private charity.
7. Night schools supported by donations of those who have benefited by their training in the past. OBSERVER.

HARD WORDS.

Monroe, La., Feb. 17.—I see in THE TRIBUNE of the 15th where Scrutator got a rise out of Freight Solicitor W. J. Mitchell.

I thoroughly enjoyed Scrutator's article, because I have been listening to freight solicitors from most of the railroads for twenty years and have yet to see one who did anything except waste my time asking me to ship by his road instead of the one I was using and handing me a low grade cigar or a calendar. SWANSON AIDS DENY GUILT IN CONTEMPT CASE

Witness Not Illegally Detained Is Defense.

State's Attorney Swanson, his first assistant, John E. Northup, and other members of the prosecutor's staff appeared before Judge Philip L. Sullivan in the Criminal court yesterday to answer the contempt of court charges which grew out of the detention of Timothy L. Connolly, former purchasing agent of the sanitary district. At the close of their arguments Judge Sullivan said that he will announce his decision Friday morning.

Connolly was arrested in California while Timothy J. Crowe and his co-defendants were on trial in the sanitary district graft conspiracy case. He was brought to Chicago by James McQueeny, a private detective acting as the messenger of Gov. Emmerson. McQueeny stopped in Streator on the way back and Connolly was questioned there by assistants to Mr. Northup.

Habeas Corpus Writ Filed.

Attorney Cameron Latter filed a writ of habeas corpus for Connolly before Judge Sullivan, charging he was illegally detained. The state's attorney's office answered that the prisoner was not in their custody, and on that basis the contempt action was instituted. The situation was complicated when Mr. Northup snapped his fingers in Judge Sullivan's face in a hearing on the writ.

Assistant State's Attorney Grenville Beardsley, who appeared for Mr. Swanson, denied that his superior had any personal knowledge of the Connolly case. He also asserted that if contempt was committed it was outside the presence of the court and therefore was indirect contempt, from which those cited may purge themselves by the sworn answers, denying the offense, which they have filed.

Agent of Governor.

Attorney Grover C. Niemeyer pleaded on behalf of McQueeny that the detective was an agent of the governor, not responsible to the state's attorney's office. He asserted that since McQueeny was not mentioned in the habeas corpus petition, he was not answerable to the court.

Assistant State's Attorney Henry Seyfarth, in his own defense argued that a federal statute provides a penitentiary sentence of one year for any person interfering with a governor's messenger. He pleaded that had he taken Connolly from the custody of McQueeny, he would have violated that statute, and perhaps have been guilty of kidnaping as well.

Mr. Northup, whose explosive remarks had enlivened the previous hearing spoke in mild tones yesterday. Several times, however, he raised his voice momentarily, and on those occasions State's Attorney Swanson took a cigar from his pocket and began to chew it nervously.

"Hearing on the habeas corpus writ interfered with the Crowe trial for two days," he stated. "If the actions of myself and my assistants constituted contempt, it seems to me it creates a situation which would make lawyers not desirous of being prosecutors. Instead of the state's attorney being placed in this embarrassing situation, he should be entitled to the thanks of the community."

MRS. SUMMERS PUT ON TRIAL ON MURDER CHARGE

Forty pounds lighter than when she was indicted last June on a charge of murdering her 17 year old nephew, Thomas Meyer, for his insurance, Mrs. Margaret Summers went to trial yesterday before Judge William Stanton in the criminal court. At adjournment last night, one full panel of jurors had been accepted by both prosecution and defense attorneys, all four having been qualified for the death penalty.

One of the four veniremen, A. Salins of 2107 South 6th avenue, Maywood, startled court and spectators when he replied to a question by Defense Attorney Emmett Byrnes, as to the size of his family, that he was the father of seventeen children. He said he was not opposed to capital punishment in the event of a conviction on the evidence, which Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks and John Holman indicated would be largely circumstantial.

Mrs. Summers, a widow, sat between her counsel, Byrnes and Harold Levy. At the time of her arrest, the suspicions raised concerning deaths of several boarders in her home led to exhumations revealing traces of arsenic in some of the bodies. Some of them had held insurance policies naming Mrs. Summers as the beneficiary.

The jurors accepted, in addition to Salins, are Stanley Barta of 1913 West 22d street; Fred L. Horn of Leyden township, and Emanuel De Oliver of 6708 West 16th street, Berwyn.

Gun Toter Is Fined $400 and Sentenced to a Year

Michael Terlezki, 21 years old, 1521 Cleveland avenue, was fined $400 and sentenced to a year in the Bridewell by Judge Edward B. Casey yesterday on charges of carrying concealed weapons and disorderly conduct. His companion, Charles Schwartz, 25 years old, 226 Elm street, was fined $200 for disorderly conduct. Terlezki threw away a revolver just before police arrested the pair at Wells and Elm streets on Friday night. Both men had police records.

FOUND DEAD; POISON NEAR BY.

James C. Burns, 46 years old, was found dead in his room at the Bachelor hotel, 1533 West Madison street, yesterday. There was a poison bottle beside the body and a note on the bureau which said he had "no hope for the future."

SUED FOR $103,150

MARILYN MILLER.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—A suit asking $103,150 damage was filed against Marilyn Miller, dancer and actress, by H. C. Meader today. Meader asserts he was permanently injured when an automobile owned by Miss Miller and driven by her chauffeur struck his car last November.

HARLOT LATEST LOVE OF MOVIES, SAYS BROOKHART

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The harlot heroine has replaced the hoodlum hero as the movies' most popular character, Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart [radical, Ia.], informed the senate today.

He introduced a resolution demanding a senate interstate commerce committee inquiry into the moving picture industry and a bill directed at prohibiting block booking of films.

In his accompanying speech he attacked both the moral effect and the business methods of the movies.

Charging that the third successive morality code to be promulgated by Will Hays had already been forgotten, Senator Brookhart declared:

ster on the screen for the entertainment of the impressionable young minds. While some gangster films are still being made, the trend this season is definitely toward prostitution."

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL HOLDS UP ELEVEN AT INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Flaming youth ran wild here early today and kept every squad in the city busy trying to catch up.

Vera Wood, 17, Shortridge High school pupil, left a drinking bout armed with a toy water pistol and in a commandeered automobile held up eleven different persons, including four taxicab drivers, a bus driver, and several apartment house dwellers. Her final victim, enraged, broke her arm in a scuffle. She held up a taxicab and rode to the city hospital, where police finally caught up with her.

CANCER DOCTORS CARRIED GUNS, TRIAL REVEALS

Asserted Medical Society "Was After Them."

Davenport, Ia., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—A malignant tumor was admitted as defense evidence today in the $500,000 libel suit of Norman Baker against the American Medical association. The tumor was removed from the left breast of Mrs. Ludwig Becker of Rock Falls, Ill., according to depositions of her husband and others. Mrs. Becker died April 27 at a private rooming house while a patient of the Baker institute at Muscatine, Ia.

Mr. Becker's deposition stated the tumor was removed by Harry Hoxsey in an impromptu operation. It was a Baker claim that the knife was not used at his institute.

Becker stated he saw several guns in the institute, carried by Dr. Charles Loffler of Chicago, R. A. Bellows, superintendent, and Baker. On one occasion Becker testified he jibed Loffler about carrying a gun and the doctor told him the American Medical association "was after him."

Loffler "Mystery Doctor."

That Dr. Loffler was armed against the American Medical association was substantiated by a deposition of Mrs. Jean Portner, the Beckers' neighbor. Becker's deposition set forth that Loffler was the man described by Baker in a radio talk as the "mystery doctor."

That a half inch point of a hypodermic needle was taken from the side of his sister, Emma Zink of Joe Davies county, Illinois, her brother, Basil, testified in his deposition. He said Miss Zink entered the Baker institute March 28, 1930, and that Dr. J. L. Statler told her: "You have as much chance as if you were dropped in the river here."

Warn Against Word "Doctor."

Miss Zink was treated by Mrs. Mary Tuner, nurse, with the needle. Later she was treated by a Charles Warren and Charles Ward, and who cautioned Mr. Zink against referring to him as "doctor."

Warren, or Ward, used two kinds of plasters in his treatments, Zink said, and when he left with his sister gave him a supply to apply himself. Zink testified he paid $1,150 for the Baker treatments. Miss Zink died Nov. 29, 1930.

Another case described in depositions was that of F. H. Yoder of Nappanse, Ind. Yoder, according to evidence of the defense, was pictured in Baker's magazine as a "cure." Yoder died at his home.

Kidnap Store Official in Own Car and Rob Him

Two armed men kidnaped P. F. Theede, an official of the Eureka Tea company, 500 West 26th street, in his automobile yesterday, pushing him out at 37th street and Wentworth avenue after robbing him of $1,177 in cash and $1,900 in checks. They told him he could regain his car by keeping in touch with the police automobile detail. Theede was driving to the Peoples National Bank and Trust company, 1542 West 47th street, with the money, the store's receipts, when the men forced themselves in his car as he stopped for a traffic light at Union avenue and 47th street.

STATE TO SPEND $40,000,000 ON ROADS IN 1932

Chicago Area to Get $12,000,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Speaking before today's sessions of the annual highway engineering short course at the university, H. H. Cleaveland, director of the department of public works of Illinois, declared a $40,000,000 highway construction program will be undertaken this year. One thousand miles of paving and work will be included in the program.

H. H. CLEAVELAND [Eckman Photo.]

Expenditures will include items for construction of state highways, the paving, repairing, and re-surfacing of city pavements, maintenance of state and city roadways, policing of state highways, administration of motor fuel tax act, refunds to counties, and allotments to the counties of their share of gas fees.

Work to Be Well Scattered.

Mr. Cleaveland said downstate expenditures will approximate $28,000,000 and the Chicago area will benefit $12,000,000 in construction and resurfacing.

"The work downstate will be well scattered and will add many miles of new roads to the present system and also will insure the completion of gaps which now exist in various localities," Director Cleaveland said.

"New roads which will be built downstate during 1932 will offer outlets for communities which do not now enjoy the benefits of the paved system. About $1,500,000 of the $28,000,000 to be expended downstate will be spent on city streets which form extensions of state primary routes in that area.

Widen Existing Pavements.

"The program in the Chicago metropolitan area, comprising $12,000,000, will consist of widening of existing pavements, the construction of grade separations both with highways and railroads and the building of new 20 and 40 foot roads. About $2,500,000 of the $12,000,000 will be spent on city streets forming extensions of primary routes in this area, of which $2,000,000 will be expended on streets inside the city of Chicago.

"The state expects to make every effort during 1932 to put the mileage remaining on the state primary system under contract, but in order to do so it will be necessary to secure the rights of way. The aid of the counties is solicited in obtaining these rights of way to make it possible to award the remaining work on the state primary system during 1932."

Lawyer Must Pay Tax on Sanitary Board Fees

The United States Supreme court yesterday denied the appeal of Edmund D. Adcock against the payment of federal income tax on compensation he received as special attorney for the sanitary district during 1920. Mr. Adcock claimed that he was exempt from the tax the same as any other member of the drainage board, but the court held that he was liable on the ground that his services were only temporary.

GANG GUNS SLAY TWO IN NEW YORK ON SAME STREET

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—West street, down on the lower west side, was the scene of two murders today when early in the morning a butcher was taken for a ride and later in the day a boxer was taken for a walk. It was the last bit of traveling either of them did.

The butcher, Charles Albana, a native of Syracuse and wanted there for murder, was thrown out of a taxicab underneath the motor highway at the foot of 17th street. He had been shot in the side several times, and was still breathing when he landed on the pavement, but he died before an ambulance surgeon could reach him.

Buck Oliva, the boxer, met his death shortly after noon. He was walking with a friend north on West street and had just passed the northeast corner of Duane street when a man stepped out of the shadow of a doorway and fired three bullets into him. Two of them entered the back of his head; the third penetrated his chest. The man fired two more shots, which went wild, and then ran to a corner and disappeared.

Oliva's friend, Santo Caraciollo, also a prize fighter, said he fell flat on his face when he heard the first shot and so saved his life, but Capt. Thomas Murray, in charge of detectives at the Beach street police station, said he did not believe this. He was held as a material witness.

The police located an eye-witness who told them that Caraciollo and Oliva and the unidentified slayer met on the Duane street corner and talked for several moments and that the murderer then drew his gun and shot Oliva.

Oliva, who has appeared at a few Garden bouts, was 25 years old and lived in Brooklyn.

TWO HELD AS ROBBERS.

William Pryor, 20 years old, and Delmar Enoch, 24 years old, were held to the grand jury in bonds of $50,000 each by Judge James F. Fardy in the Felony court yesterday on five charges of robbery.

HIGH COURT UPHOLDS VETS' RIGHT TO SELL GOODS IN STREETS

The right of war veterans to sell apples or other articles on the streets without procuring a peddler's license was established by the state Supreme court in an opinion forwarded to Chicago yesterday. The court reversed a decision of Superior Judge Ross C. Hall in a test case brought by a veteran.

The veteran, George Marallis, brought suit for an injunction against the city of Chicago, the Lincoln park commissioners, the west park commissioners and the village of Cicero. He asked that these bodies be restrained from interfering with his sale of apples, basing his plea on an old statute favoring veterans.

The Charming Cheat

SYNOPSIS.

Ricardo Dane visits New York in search of his aunt, Miss Filomena Stanley, his mother's half-sister. Ricardo's mother had recently died and left him heir to the ranch and mountain land in Romeu valley, California, where he had spent most of his life. He intended to find his sole remaining near relative and bring her back to Romeu Valley. He had understood this to be his mother's dying wish. His aunt, an actress, had been out of favor with the family.

Ricardo locates a Filomena Stanley, but instead of an aged aunt he finds a beautiful young aunt. She is living in a Bohemian studio with a Follies girl, named Frances. Ricardo readily believes this lovely creature, who acknowledges the relationship. Ricardo showers her with gifts and moves her into a better apartment. He moves into the same building on another floor. Webster Sutton, a college friend of Ricardo's, visits New York. He and Eunice Greenway, a girl from home, who is studying in New York, are entertained by Ricardo and his aunt. Eunice is a friend of Ricardo's fiancée, Rachel Beatty. She heartily disapproves of Filomena. Web believes his friend is being trimmed and, before he leaves, tells him so. Ricardo learns that Web was right when Filomena is called home due to the illness of her father. After another search Ricardo finds his real aunt. She is acting in a Broadway play. Ricardo's plan is to have Filomena prepare to marry him and leave her waiting at the church, but, before he can carry it out, Rachel arrives in New York with her father, who has been called there on business. Rachel meets the real aunt. She doesn't fit in with the stories Rachel has heard. Ricardo evades telling her the truth, but confides in his aunt. Eunice takes Rachel to call on Filomena. Ricardo meets them in the lobby. They see Filomena leaving the building. That evening Ricardo brings his aunt to have dinner with Rachel and Mr. Beatty.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

THE GIRL WITH THE GREEN SHOES.

Ricardo unhappily threaded his way back to the table where Rachel and her father were waiting for him.

"Dick, what did she mean?" asked Rachel instantly, as he had known she would.

"Dunno, honey. She does that sometimes, just says a lot of stuff that doesn't mean much. Temperamental, I guess."

"For her own sister," said Rachel thoughfully, "she doesn't look so very much like your mother, Dick."

"Who? Aunt Fil?"

"Maybe after all she isn't really your aunt, Dick. You know what she said just now sounded funny to me. And she——"

"Do you think I wouldn't know my own aunt?"

"Don't be silly, Ray," scolded her father. "What do you want to say a silly thing like that for?"

"Suppose she's not his aunt," said Rachel, "suppose some woman who isn't his aunt at all makes him believe she is——"

"Ray, I've heard about enough of that," said Ricardo, aware that he looked guilty rather than merely annoyed.

Rachel obligingly dropped the subject and gathered up her brocade bag.

"All right, let's go," she said.

They all had the pleasure of watching Aunt Filomena's narrow escape from shooting in the second act, and it was a fairly pleasant evening for Ricardo, for they did not meet a single person who asked him where Fil was. He wondered once or twice himself where Fil was, but as he could do nothing about it at present, he desisted from idle speculation.

He recalled her cheek in marching past him without speaking that morning, but, after all, it was the best thing in the world she could have done under the circumstances. Maybe she was never going to speak to him again. He would like to see her again stepping out in the green hat and green slippers just the same. She had a lot of nerve.

Rachel said she did not feel like going anywhere after the theater. She just wanted to go to the hotel and go to bed.

"I'll be around in the morning, Ray," Ricardo told her. "We'll have to go down to the municipal building, you know."

"All right," she agreed apathetically.

"Dear, are you too tired? Have you had too much New York?" He held on to her hand. They were in the hotel lobby and her father had gone for room keys.

"I've had too much——" she hesitated, her face averted. "You know what I've had too much of, Dick. I don't know whether I want to go with you in the morning or not. I've got to please daddy, I suppose. But I—it doesn't seem like it used to. Maybe it's only me. But somehow it seems to be you."

"I haven't changed, Ray. How could I?" He lifted her hand and kissed it. "You need a good night's sleep. I'll come around about half-past ten."

"Here we are," said Mr. Beatty. "Letter for you, Ray, and some packages at the desk. The boy's bringing 'em up. Good night, Dick. See you tomorrow, I suppose. I expect to be busy myself, but you two have a date, haven't you?"

"Ray needs a good night's sleep," said Ricardo helpfully. "I just told her I'd not come around before half past ten."

"I'll have her breakfast sent upstairs," said her father solicitously, "let her get a good rest. I've got the address for that cruise, and I'll look that up while I'm out tomorrow. It sounds pretty good to me."

As she stepped into the elevator Rachel said suddenly:

"I'll see you in the morning, Dick, but I'm not going anywhere with you—anywhere—until I see that—that girl with the green shoes."

And the worst of it was, thought Ricardo, that the truth, if the almost incredible truth could possibly be told to Rachel, it would never satisfy her now. After Eunice's unveiled innuendoes, after Happy's sketchy revelations the other night, the truth would seem far too colorless. He went to his own bed anticipating a sleepless night, but he had not the satisfaction of tossing upon a restless couch. He slept as soundly as though his conscience had been clear and his future unclouded.

At quarter past nine Rachel's telephone tinkled. She was not asleep, but it took her a moment or two to decide whether she wanted to speak to Ricardo and what she would say to him. It rang more insistently before she lifted the receiver, and then she heard not Ricardo's voice, but the crisp decisive tones of his Aunt Filomena.

"Come have breakfast with me, Rachel," she said, "Don't tell me about having other dates. This is really important."

"Well," hesitated Rachel, "you see, Dick was to be here at ten thirty."

"Leave a message for him," counseled Dick's aunt, "I must talk to you before you do anything so serious as, say, engaging passage for a general family honeymoon. You know where to come? Good, we'll be ready when you get here."

Aunt Filomena met her in the front hall when she arrived and ushered her up to the crowded room where she had tea, where now the morning sun streamed in through the high old fashioned windows. Breakfast was laid for three on the Sheraton table. Rachel slipped out of her coat.

"Sit here, Rachel," directed Aunt Filomena. "This is Rachel, Filomena. This, Rachel, is the other Filomena. My double. Or my understudy, if you like."

Rachel turned startled eyes toward the sofa. It was the girl with the green shoes. She had them on, too, and the gay green hat that matched them, contrasting vividly with the dove-gray of her demurely simple jersey dress. She smiled invitingly at Rachel.

"Now we must all eat breakfast before we get too deep into business," said Aunt Filomena briskly. "You girls are to help yourselves to whatever you want. Here's the cream. There's toast if you don't want brioche. I like brioche myself, but of course it's not so good for the figure as toast."

The two girls succeeded in politely passing the sugar and making a remark or two about the relative merits of toast and brioche.

"Dick's a very bad boy," said Aunt Filomena then, breaking the ice with one good crack, "he's a liar and a deceiver and he'd rather like to be a heart-breaker. He ought to have his ears boxed."

"I suppose you girls could toss up for him," pursued their hostess. "The loser to take him. But you wouldn't look at it that way, probably."

"Does Dick know about this?" asked Rachel.

"Know about what? That you're here? I should say not. Dick thinks that neither of you knows about the other, I believe. He thinks he's playing a deep game, and he rather fancies himself a deep-dyed villain."

"Since it happens," said Rachel stiffly, "that Dick and I have been engaged for more than a year, and expect to be married Monday morning, I can't see why we should go through this farce of discussing him and his——"

"His premarital affairs," supplied Filomena. "That's what they call 'em. Wouldn't he curse if he knew about it?"

Rachel set down her coffee cup. "I left word for Dick to wait for me," she said apologetically, "so you won't mind if I hurry a little, will you, Miss Stanley?"

"It won't hurt Dick to wait a few minutes," averred Dick's aunt. "Now, you know if you'd only admit it, you've been dying to get a good look at Filomena here."

"I saw her yesterday," said Rachel evenly.

"O, was that you?" exclaimed Filomena contritely, "I saw Eunice, and you know she doesn't speak to me, so I just went on out."

"Doesn't speak to you?" echoed Rachel, incredulously. She remembered Eunice's unsuccessful attempt to speak yesterday.

"Thinks I'll contaminate her," explained Filomena.

"I wonder why," said Rachel politely. Far too politely. Both her hearers easily understood that she wondered no such thing.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Those who possess the red cedar tree or one of its varieties in the yard or farmstead should know more of the possible damage to be incurred from the small brown globe shaped growths called cedar apples which sometimes appear in the summer. They vary in size from a pin head to an inch in diameter and while not very injurious to the cedars, some varieties of the rust attack common apple trees with a serious damaging effect.

We are obligated to C. E. Godshalk, superintendent of the Morton arboretum near Lisle, for a more detailed account of the rust and its control.

"The hawthornes and flowering crabapples serve as the summer host for cedar apple rust," he explains. "The rust takes the form of yellowish rust spots on the leaves, about one-fourth inch in diameter, and in extreme cases the leaves wither up and fall off, causing the new growth to die for lack of food supply.

"The rust comes from the cedars to the summer host during warm spring rains. When the spores are spreading there are long jelly-like protrusions, orange colored, hanging from the cedar apples."

The only means of control, to keep the infested cedars, seems to be to spray or dust with sulphur during the spreading stage, but so far this has not proven very satisfactory.

"At the arboretum," Mr. Godshalk says, "we have found the only real successful means of control to be the separating of the hosts at least 500 feet or by replacing the red cedar and its varieties with Chinese cedar or one of its varieties."

"The Chinese cedars look practically the same as red cedar and are not at all susceptible to the rust. This is a good point to remember in making new plantings of cedar."

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

It is the fellow that somebody knew that causes all the trouble. For instance, at contract bridge we are taught that unless you hold a no-trump count of at least 38 it is quite unsafe to bid a grand slam at that declaration. Yet many a good game is thrown away and a terrific set taken because some bridge player once knew a fellow—but, why go on?

In yesterday's play-a-problem the no-trump count on the hand was only 28, but nevertheless all the tricks were taken by East and West if the hand was played properly. True it was necessary to make three finesses; two of them in the same suit in order to gain this result, and consequently a player who really understood the probabilities of the game would not consider bidding more than three no-trump on the hand. Here it is:

North
♠—K,8,7,6
♥—10,9,8,7,5

WEST [Dealer]	EAST
♠—A,J	♠—Q,2
♥—K,Q	♥—A,J,6
♦—A,Q,9,6,4	♦—10,8,5,2

SOUTH
♠—10,9,5,4,3
♦—K,J
♣—K,J,8

West opened the bidding with a bid of three no-trumps. All four suits were stopped, two twice, and the third with a possible second stop and, moreover, West held one long suit and a second four card suit. He had a no-trump count of 22. If West's bid could have been criticized it would have been because of overoptimism rather than under bidding. North, East and South all passed.

North opened the ♥ 10, East played the A, South the 2 and West's Q fell. You will note the play of Ace from dummy cannot cost West a trick and, on the other hand, gives him an immediate and very necessary entry into that dummy. To the second trick dummy led the ♦ 8, South's J came up, and West finessed the Q, which held. Since only two cards in the suit were now outstanding and since South was placed with the K, West played for the break by laying down the A, which cleared the suit. This play was practically forced by the entry condition of the two hands. West now led the ♦ 4 to dummy's ♦ 5, dummy leading back the ♣ 3. South played the 8, and West finessed the 10, which again held. To the sixth trick West led the ♦ 6, which he overtook with dummy's ♦ 10 and led back the ♣ 4. This was covered by South with the J and again West finessed the Q. The second finesse was, of course, practically sure. Only one club now remained out so West led the ♣ A, clearing that suit. To the ninth trick West took in his good ♦ 9 and followed by taking in the ♥ K on which dummy played the 6. To the eleventh trick West led the ♣ 2, which dummy took with the ♣ 6. To the twelfth trick dummy led the ♥ J, on which West discarded the ♠ J, taking the thirteenth and last trick by leading dummy's ♠ Q to declarer's A—a grand slam.

NORTH
♥—J,10
♦—9,4
♣—9,8,5,4

WEST	EAST [Dir.]
♠—J,8,7,6,4	♠—K,Q,10
♥—Q,8,2	♥—A,K,7,6,3
♦—None	♦—8,7,6,5
♣—A,Q,10,5,3	♣—7

SOUTH
♠—None
♥—9,5,4
♦—A,K,Q,J,10,3,2
♣—K,J,2

Bid and play this hand and then compare the result with that printed tomorrow.

Doris Advises Woman of 29 to Act Her Age

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She admits 29 years, but looks five years younger. People tell her she puts up a nice appearance. She isn't beautiful, nor ugly, just one of the in betweens. She lives at a girls' club housing over 300 other women. And making the acquaintance of a nice young man she finds impossible for the reason that he is always the other girl's beau.

Not that she doesn't meet young men. But those she meets—well, they are necking devotees. That last young man, for instance, who started out so promisingly—necking turned out to be his idea, too, of showing a girl a good time. She told him she didn't mind his holding her hand or putting his arm over her shoulder—but kissing was out. After three stalwart attempts to ride down the lady's objections, the man never showed up again.

Thus, we have Jane about where she started ten years earlier with the thirty year shadow now stalking her. She is still a child, mentally, in her attitude about herself, life and men. It might be humorous to picture this 29 year old woman talking and acting like a 16 year old, except that she represents a certain body of women who never grow up. Women who expect life to lay out a nice, juicy platter of romance for the dreaming of it. Women who expect men to conform to a pattern of perfection impossible.

Get over it, you Janes. Be your age frankly. Ask yourselves what is the matter with you that you haven't absorbed some of the honest facts about life and men. What's the matter with you that you can't meet a "necker" and convert him into a jolly, good friend?

Being free and more than 21, why stay cooped up in an enclosure populated entirely by women? Why not branch out where you can meet men, entertain them? Why not face the fact that you have to lay your plans for male conquest unless you happen to be one of the favored of the gods. That in order to make said conquest at 29 your hope lies distinctly in an understanding of men, how easily they may be managed into or out of situations, and a generous attitude toward their human restrictions as gods.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation—you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Clothes for Men Seek Sloppiness of Prince of Wales

The well dressed American business man is destined to cultivate the sloppiness made fashionable in England by the Prince of Wales, Julius Myers, Springfield, said in surveying spring styles yesterday. Myers, who is a former president of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers, addressed the Illinois Retail Clothiers and Furnishers' association in convention in the Hotel Sherman. The convention will continue through today.

"This new English model consists of a draped instead of fitted coat, and trousers that are half peg," Myers told the retailers. "There is no padding in sleeve or shoulder but, instead, a definite wrinkle in the sleeve. Likewise a wrinkle appears by design, not accident, in the drape of the coat. The shoulders are wide and the coat fits closely around the hip.

The pose to be adopted, Myers said, is one of carelessness and indifference, but he warned that good materials are required for the slouchy English manner of dress to appear intentional. For shirts, he predicted the popularity of a tab collar shirt with a tab buttoning across the shirt under the collar. Summer materials will feature linens, seersuckers, and all light weight materials, he said.

Little Margaret, since she has been going to kindergarten, feels quite grown up and insists upon dressing herself.

She was slow one morning and we delayed breakfast for her. Finally, after several minutes of silence, this little query, voiced in a resigned, plaintive tone, came from the bedroom: "Mother, why do you sew all the buttons on my underwear on the wrong side?" M. W. S.

Wall Scores Again with Half-Castes

Uses Mississippi Swamps as Scene of Story.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"LOVE FETISH" is another novel about the people of the Mississippi swamps by Evans Wall, who scored an immediate success with his first novel "No Nation Girl." Again it is the half castes of that little bayou of humankind that the author takes as clay with which to fashion a monument of human misunderstanding. The hero of "Love Fetish" is a powerful, handsome youth, to all appearances a white man, but the son of a black woman. In him there is the spiritual struggle of two races. In his relations with his fellow men there is always the color fight. The Negroes resent his appearance. The whites resent his heritage. In the background of "No Nation" it would never occur to him to try to "pass," and he tries to be a black man.

EVANS WALL.

The struggle in his spirit is not one which he understands, however, for to himself he is as wholly black as if his skin were ebony. He knows only that he can never love a woman blacker than himself. His half sister, likewise creamy white, with softly waving black hair is his ideal of beauty until he sees the pure strained daughter of his half sister's father. The girls are amazingly alike. The lad transfers his worshipful adoration to the white girl. And in that circumstance lie spiritual torture and physical tragedy.

"Love Fetish" is melodrama with a strong accent on the drama. Mr. Wall refrains from a too intense psychological analysis of the hero and lets his actions speak for his spiritual struggles. The Negro characters he describes with no false restraint about their incidental emotions. The white characters are incidental motivating forces for the drama of the blacks. Mr. Wall manages to keep skillfully the delicate balance of relationships between black and white. The book gets its name from the habit of the black men carrying about with them some ornament or article of clothing which has been an intimate part of the woman they love. Murder is committed for their fetishes and it is for a silk night dress which he stole from a clothes line that the hero goes to his doom.

New Group by Galsworthy.

It is a long physical and spiritual journey from the bayous and emotional blackness of "Love Fetish" to the quiet country and dignified social life of John Galsworthy's "Worshipful Society." Lest you tear your hair in wrath that you didn't know John Galsworthy had a new novel let me assure you instanter that "Worshipful Society" is only a new housing under one roof of three of Galsworthy's novels, just as "The Forsyte Saga" sheltered "The Man of Property," "In Chancery" and "To Let" with two new interludes linking them together, "The Indian Summer of a Forsyte" and "Awakening." Unlike "The Forsyte Saga," however, the characters in "Worshipful Society" do not have one family tree. The binding material in "Worshipful Society" is the mortar of the latter word of the title. All three of the novels are concerned with contemporary society. In "The Country House" divorce is the theme. "Fraternity" chronicles class consciousness and in "The Patrician" unyielding family pride forms the substance of the book.

Re-publication Day of Cather Novel.

Today is the official re-publication day of one of Willa Cather's earlier novels—well removed spiritually and geographically from either Mr. Galsworthy or Mr. Wall. "The Song of the Lark" was published in 1915, three years before "My Antonia" and two years after "O Pioneers." All three of them are powerful, sturdy, pieces of work with the spirit of the pioneer in them all. "The Song of the Lark" is the story of an American opera singer, of her childhood in the desert, her struggles in Chicago to finds herself musically, her strength to deny herself love, and to submerge herself in hard work, and her final triumph as a great prima donna. There is something tremendously vital about everything that Willa Cather has ever written—vital and beautiful. She is unquestionably the leading American woman novelist. I don't see how there can be any argument about that. I do not qualify the "novelist" in my own mind. She is our leading novelist, man or woman to me. But I do not usually make a blanket statement about her work because I know that I am prejudiced in my judgment of her by the fact that I believe perfection on the scale of "My Mortal Enemy" is worth a dozen two volume novels of vast panoramic chronicling.

Orchestra Party Is Sensation of Search for Entertainment

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Society is ingenious.

First it was a roller skating party on a new Astor street rink—next an evening of "Atmosphere" or "Fade Outs" in Lake Forest—and now, have you heard, several of our town's best beaux have decided to revive "the bicycle built for two."

So it will continue. There will always be one more smart hostess and one more clever idea. But any one of these smart hostesses will agree that the real test of the success of a party is in the amount of "talking" afterward and in how soon the guests would like a "second."

Orchestra Party Is Sensation.

Certainly the Edwin S. Fetchers, who have one of the handsome old homes on Bryant avenue in Winnetka, must be convinced that the "orchestra party" they gave one Sunday evening recently was not only a success but a sensation. Seldom have I heard comments so profuse and enthusiastic.

"Of course," Mrs. Fetcher remarked in her gracious manner, "it was really the guests. We didn't select them for their musical ability, but I'm sure every one of them has a good sense of rhythm and a nice appreciation of music."

Surprise registered on more than one face when the musical instruments—a horn, a drum, a xylophone, and many another—were "brought out" after supper and Mrs. Fetcher announced they were about to organize an orchestra and play one of Haydn's "tinder" symphonies. Ben Fairbank looked a bit skeptically at the "bird notes" he drew and Marguerite Foster wasn't quite sure whether she could master the horn.

Guests Insist on Second Turn.

But the results! The novices were so successful in their first attempt they insisted on a second. Of course, it must be admitted the music couldn't have been half so inspiring if the Fetchers hadn't taken the leading rôles. They are all musicians, Mrs. Fetcher a pianist of note. Mr. Fetcher played the viola, Lee Fetcher contributed a cello part, and Edwin Jr. added the clarinet. There was one more artist in the impromptu orchestra, Gertrude Smith, the talented daughter of the Henry T. Smiths of Glencoe. She has already composed a number of pieces and spent last year studying music in Paris.

Miss Smith was chosen for leader of the first symphony but gave up the baton the second time to Arthur Barnhart, taking her place at the drums which the amateurs found difficulties in mastering. Although the orchestra limited itself to the "tinder" symphonies which have such simple melodies they can be played on improvised instruments, the Fetcher household produced almost enough real instruments for the 14 members.

Home Is Perfect Orchestra Setting.

Louise Conway was in charge of a "fake" triangle, a glass of water that served its purpose well as a cymbal, and Adelaide Atkin contributed an important part with a horn. Helen Gillette, Dick Sternberg, Ben Crawford, and Sterling Dickinson completed the "symphonic" membership.

There isn't a better setting for an orchestra rehearsal than the Fetcher's studio living room with its beamed ceiling. When Mr. Fetcher built this house a few decades back it was one of the show places of fashionable Winnetka. In fact so much so that neighbors frequently brought their guests to see, and, the story goes, one of these guests was so delighted by house and host she later became Mrs. Fetcher. As hostess for the "orchestra" party the other evening Mrs. Fetcher isn't certain how much new musical genius she has discovered but she does know her guests are enthusiastic already about a "second."

Tilt Your Hat Over Right Eye; That's a Rule

Easter Bonnets Return; They're Cheerful.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

ONCE upon a time, do you remember, you wore hats that sat firmly on your head; to be strictly historic, they settled down closely to your eyebrows! And before that time, can you remember that your fashionable Easter creations were trimmed with a variety of garden flowers . . . and way, way back when you were a small child, you undoubtedly wore a Milan sailor on your head with an elastic snapped under your chin to anchor it?

This spring, Easter bonnets are back, with all the pleasures formerly associated with that name and none of the fears . . . the new hats are cheerful and gay. The newest brims are rolled upwards, and flowers after a long period of neglect, have returned to fashion. There's infinite variety in the shape of the new hats, but two or three basic principles prevail. The head must be kept small . . . and whatever type of hat you choose, and whatever your age, wear it tilted far over the right eye, to rise up behind the left ear. Its the angle you achieve with your selection that determines your chic this year!

Flowers are very fashionable once more, but not with every costume; a toque effect with a bandeau or halo of flowers would be charming with a printed or two color afternoon dress. With your sheer wool daytime dresses, the hat should be more simple and trimmed with ribbon bows.

New Canotier Very Versatile.

The new canotier . . . a hat with a shallow crown and deftly curved brim is the most wearable and versatile of the newer models because you can wear it with equal smartness with suit, frock or coat.

And you can wear an aureole this spring even though you don't deserve to . . . because the smartest hats have brims that turn up all the way around giving an angelic effect that will be most becoming. Sometimes these hats turn straight up like a kingly crown . . . other times they curl up gently, fairly wide, and then you remember your childhood sailor, and perhaps the whistle that came with it. This is the hat for tailored town clothes . . . it has all the dash and chic so necessary as a complement for such costumes.

For the woman who dresses in sports clothes the greater part of the day, swagger new slouch hats are being shown . . . of course they are as smart as any worn by either Garbo or Dietrich in the films . . . they are famous companions for tweed suits, woolen sports clothes and large, loose fitting polo coats.

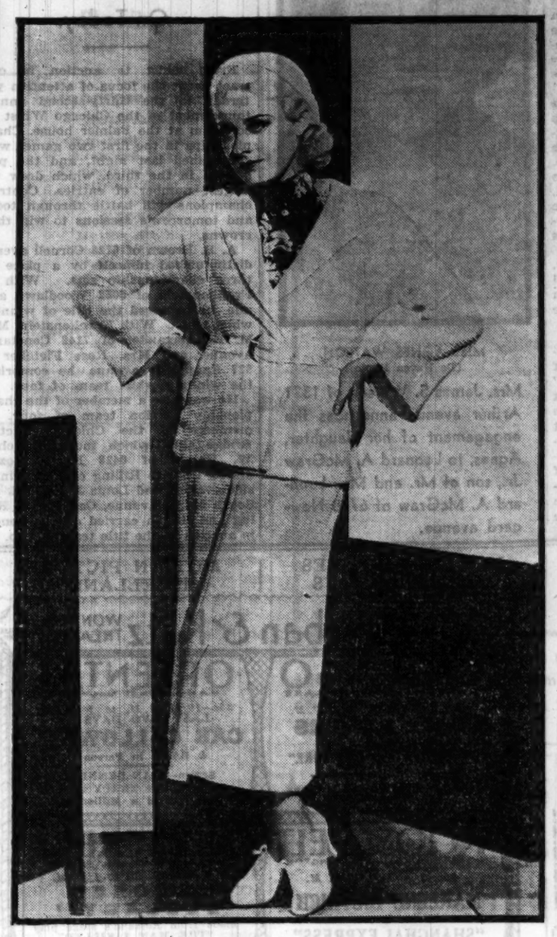
Berets Comfortable; Some Are New.

And, even though berets are not new, they are still the most comfortable and wearable type for all sports and a dozen other uses. You'll find berets of felt, silk, flannel, and straw as well as fabrics in colors, stripes, and novelty knitted weaves. A very smart beret is made of dull black suede with a squarish crown which is entirely new . . . with a dark blue suit you can wear a matching dark blue felt beret . . . it lists toward the right eye and is unmistakably dated spring, 1932, in the manner in which it is mounted on the back of your head.

If you like your hats very small and crushable . . . you can find all kinds of soft jersey and thin woolen fabrics models, usually having a matching scarf of the same material . . . these sets are particularly packable and tremendously smart for the travelers among us. You'll also see them at all sports events on spectator as well as active sportswoman. Just pieces of colored wools, twisted and sewed together, but sewed and twisted by ingenious fingers. . . and what an impression they do make.

Whatever type of spring hat you choose to start your spring wardrobe be sure that it tilts properly far over your right eye . . . this is the new line . . . and you can't help but find so many variations that it will be rather difficult to decide on any less than two or three.

Speaking of Spring



[Acme Photo.]

A new spring suit of open mesh material set off with a lacy weave sweater is introduced here by Joan Marsh, M-G-M player. When the jacket is off, the scarf is wound around the waistline—but with the jacket on, the scarf is arranged around the neck. The cap is also of open weave mesh, and is rolled to suit her features.

Greatest of All Beauty Secrets Can Be Told in Word—Posture

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If I told you I could give you the greatest beauty secret there is in existence and that it wouldn't cost you a single cent, would you be interested? Or, would you rather believe that the greatest beauty secret must be wrapped in such secrecy that you have to pay plenty to get in on it?

Well, you can have the greatest beauty secret for nothing. And it won't cost a cent to put it into operation, either. I'm sorry I haven't a fancier word to attach to it. I know my women and I know how they love to be bamboozled into thinking a beauty help must be good if it comes bearing a fancy name and fancier price. But my wonder worker has to stand on its own name and merit. It is posture.

If you can produce anything comparable in effect in the way of chic, poise, grace, smartness and YOUTH to posture, I challenge you to offer it. There is a complete beauty conquest in the way a woman walks, stands, sits and moves about. You of the modest dress income can easily outsmart a woman of unlimited wardrobe means on this one point. For style, chic, is not dress material, line or color. It is your bearing inside of the material, line and color. That's how much of a beauty secret posture is.

You can boil down posture rules to two controlling features. Watch your feet and your chest. See that your feet point straight ahead, or nearly so, and that lightness of step is effected with each foot move.

By the simple gesture of forcing that chest up you reform many faulty posture habits. Your head is saved that oldish craning forward; also, the aging, extra chin slump on the neck. Your abdomen is flattened back. Your back is righted. Your whole body is younger looking and bears more gracefully lined curves.

Not much of a lesson to remember, is it? Keep the feet straight ahead. Keep the chest up. And think or shake the stiffness out of your muscles and you are by way of being a hundred per cent smarter, younger looking girl as a consequence. Don't slump! Don't go rigid! Come up and down lightly on your feet—and know that you have added a new stock of beauty to your already established advantages.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

Society Applauds First Chicago Performance of Carpenter Song

Gala Audience Fills Orchestra Hall to Hear Piece Written for Washington Celebration.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Carpenters and Winterbothams, and I should say all the others of Chicago society who aren't away, were at Orchestra hall yesterday to hear the first Chicago performance of John Alden Carpenter's "Song of Faith." It was a gala audience and a gala occasion for Chicago, and although Mr. Moore will tell you in his column about the merit of the composition, I must tell you with what enthusiasm and pride Chicago acclaimed its own composer. He was given as much of an ovation as his shyness and modesty would permit at the end of the concert, for Mr. Stock almost had to push Mr. Carpenter onto the stage, and he couldn't be persuaded to take a second bow.

Mr. Carpenter not only wrote the music but also the text for his "Song of Faith," which was written for the United States George Washington Bicentennial commission for performance in the nation-wide celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington. He also was the narrator [unseen] who recited excerpts from Washington's writings and those who had not heard him speak over the radio Sunday before Damrosch played the "Song of Faith" were amazed at the beauty of his voice and delivery, for Mr. Carpenter has never been known as a public speaker. Yesterday was his debut as far as I know, but those who had listened to him on the radio knew that his cultivated voice had the resonance and carrying power necessary for public speaking. There was an atmosphere of sadness along with the enthusiasm and praise among Mr. Carpenter's relatives and friends, for every one was regretting that his wife, the late Rue Winterbotham Carpenter, was not there to hear the composition, which was written last summer at their house at Charlotte, Vt., and published with a dedication to her early this year.

Many Guests Are Present.

The ranks of the regular subscribers of the Tuesday symphony orchestra concerts were augmented yesterday by many guests, and in spite of the fact that many of the subscribers are away at this time of year and there usually are quite a few empty seats, there were practically none yesterday. Mr. Carpenter and his daughter, Mrs. Patrick C. Hill [Genevieve Carpenter], who had come up from her new home in Fort Worth for the occasion, were with Mrs. Potter Palmer, who also had in her box party Miss Alice Roullier and Mrs. Shreve Badger. Among others in the audience were Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, among whose guests were Miss Marie Rozet and Mrs. William Prescott Hunt, Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. Eames MacVeagh, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, who had with her Mrs. John H. Winterbotham and Miss Rue Winterbotham, Arthur Heun, the Princess Cantacuzene, Mrs. Ellen Root, Mrs. Clay Judson, Mrs. David S. Cook, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. Samuel Insull Jr., Mrs. Alden B. Swift, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Augustus S. Peabody, Mrs. William W. Dixon, Mrs. Frederick M. Stock, Mrs. Alfred M. Wolfe, Mrs. Oliver S. Picher, and Mrs. Cecil Barnes.

Writer Praises 'Song of Faith' as Work of Dignity

BY EDWARD MOORE.

John Alden Carpenter's "Song of Faith" was performed twice by the Chicago A Cappella choir and the Chicago Symphony orchestra yesterday afternoon, once at the beginning and once at the end of the program.

There were several reasons why this was a fitting thing to do. There have been cases where conductors gave their audiences a chance to get acquainted with a new piece of music by playing it twice on one program, though Mr. Stock has not been in the habit of yielding to that temptation. But this was something more than just a new piece of music. Mr. Carpenter wrote both text and music at the commission of the George Washington Bicentennial commission for nation-wide performance this week. As such it is an expression of high-minded patriotism in music, and well deserving one's better acquaintance.

It will be given two more double performances this week, on Thursday night and Friday afternoon. Those who hear it for the first time will not be taken by any facile tunefulness. Mr. Carpenter seems to have had little intention of getting tuneful over it. But the better one knows it the more impressive it becomes by its spacious dignity and poise. It is an aristocrat among choral compositions.

It was given a great performance. The A Cappella choir is a specialist in fine singing; the Chicago Symphony and Mr. Stock were earnest even beyond their wont. The "Washington recitative," a few excerpts from Washington's own writings, to be spoken by a concealed narrator near the end of the work, came over in a tone sounding quite startlingly like the composer's own. In fact no one would have been surprised had there been a public announcement to that effect.

The rest of the program belonged in considerable part to the A Cappella choir. Noble Cain, its director, took the baton and carried his singers through their breath taking performance of the Bach motet, "Sing to the Lord," and later a group of songs, all unaccompanied. The high spots in the group were Eric De Lamarter's charming "June Moonrise," and "Fire, Fire, My Heart," by the sixteenth century Thomas Morley, a marvel of lightly enunciated musical humor.

Then, too, Gregor Piatigorsky, who plays the cello as easily as other persons play the violin, came as soloist, with a brilliant performance of Saint-Saens' Concerto in A minor and Bloch's earnest if somewhat laborious "Schelomo." All in all, it was a program of unusual construction, but a highly enjoyable one.

The second item in the Tipton concert series at the Blackstone hotel yesterday morning presented Louise Bernhardt, contralto of the Civic Opera company, and Phyllis Eileene Barry, a young cellist. Miss Bernhardt, who has a good voice as well as a knowledge of song literature, was highly effective in a series of French songs, hampered only by the fact that they were in much the same uncontrasting mood. Miss Barry played works by Eccles and Faure.

Elizabeth Galt Is Engaged.

A telegram yesterday from a former Chicagoan brought news of an interesting engagement, that of Miss Elizabeth Galt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Galt of Santa Fe, to Rodman E. Griscom Jr., of Tucson and Philadelphia, son of Rodman E. Griscom of Philadelphia. The Galts have been living in Santa Fe for some years, but they are former residents of Chicago and Mrs. Galt has many relatives and friends here. She was formerly Madeleine Noyes, the daughter of the late John T. and Elizabeth High Noyes. Her brother, Ernest High Noyes, still lives here. The junior Mr. Griscom is a brother of Clement A. Griscom III., who is the husband of the former Olga Lihme of Chicago.

Another engagement announcement of interest to Chicagoans is that of Miss Judith Boone Eames to Andrew Nixon Balfour of Chicago, which was announced recently by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Purmort Eames of Claremont, Cal., formerly of Chicago.

John S. Stones Ready to Move.

The John Sheppard Stones, after many tedious months of waiting for their new apartment at 1260 Astor street to be made ready for occupancy, are finally to move in on Monday, although they're keeping their fingers crossed lest some other reason for delay comes up. The new building at 1260 Astor is on the former site of the old Dana Stone residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Pardridge of Wheaton are at their Nassau residence in the Bahamas to remain until about the first of April. Their daughter, Priscilla, known as Eden Gray in the world of the theater, is visiting them, and their son, John, has sailed for a Mediterranean cruise. His plans are most indefinite and he may return early in June or he may go to South American or other faraway places and delay his return to Chicago for some time.

Mrs. Ronald Boardman has gone to Tucson to join her brothers, Theodore and Sanger, who have been in the west since Christmas. Her mother, Mrs. Theodore Robinson, had planned to accompany her, but has postponed her trip.

Mrs. Howard Elting to Return Soon.

Mrs. Howard Elting, who remained in Europe after Mr. Elting returned from a visit in Dresden with their son, Howard Jr., is expected home in two or three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mead Montgomery returned on Monday from their wedding trip and will reside after March 1 at 420 Chuch street, Evanston.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross J. Beatty have closed their Highland Park residence and have taken an apartment at 999 Lake Shore drive so their daughter, Miss Veronese Beatty, may attend daily sculpture classes at the Art institute without having the bother of commuting.

The Woman's Athletic club, which seems to have a more crowded program this winter than ever before, is inaugurating a series of talks on current events and recent books by Mrs. Anthony French Merrill. The talks will be held every Tuesday morning during March at 11 o'clock and luncheon, of course, will follow.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Sims of 112 Bellevue place have cards out for a buffet supper on Sunday evening to meet their son, Frank S. Sims, who is a candidate for the legisuature.

Mrs. Bowman Lingle will be hostess at a meeting of the Melodists next Wednesday at the Three Arts club.

White Elephant Rummage Sale.

Mrs. Samuel T. Chase called yesterday to remind us of the monthly home dressmakers' sale to be held on Thursday at the White Elephant Rummage shop at 27 East Ohio street. Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, who usually conducts the sales, is in Phoenix. The committee in charge will include Mrs. Charles H. Wendell, Mrs. Homer Dillenbach, Mrs. Howard Bartling, Mrs. Page Thibodeaux Jr., and Miss Helen Reid.

Mrs. Frederic Woodward is back from five months of travel in the orient, having left Mr. Woodward in Calcutta with the members of the Laymen's Foreign Missions Inquiry commission. The commission, which is conducting a disinterested study of religious, educational, and medical foreign missions in India, China, and Japan, will not return to the United States until next summer. Mr. Woodward is vice president of the University of Chicago.

The Ladies of the Consuls will hold their monthly luncheon meeting next Tuesday at the Illinois Women's Athletic club, with Mrs. Berthold Singer, founder and president, presiding.

Seniors at the University of Chicago are conducting a campaign to collect $5 from each member of their class, numbering 500, to be turned over to the university alumni fund as the senior class gift. The alumni fund is used to meet various emergency demands not covered by the university budget.

Wampas Baby Stars Making Perfect Scores

Each Wins a Place on Film Lots.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 23.—The Wampas baby stars of 1931 are batting close to 1,000. All thirteen girls who were singled out by the exploitation men's novel guild, as bets to become future stars, have done leading rôles or starring work since their selection last June. Here is a list of what the baby stars have done to justify being baby stars:

Joan Blondel—"Greeks Had a Name for Them."

Sidney Fox—"Strictly Dishonorable."

Rochelle Hudson—"Fanny Foley Herself."

Anita Louise—"Everything's Rosie."

Joan Marsh—"Are You Listening?"

Marian Marsh—"Under Eighteen."

Karen Morley—With the two Barrymores in "Arsene Lupine."

Marion Shilling—"Common Law."

Barbara Weeks—"Palmy Days."

Judith Wood—"Working Girls."

Ann Harding has fitted out a room in her foothills home which commemorates her late father, Gen. George Grant Gatley. It is a small armory, the walls being covered with insignia and arms from his various campaigns, particularly interesting being several odd native weapons collected when on duty in the Philippines. There are several regimental and divisional banners, including one of the Rainbow division of which he was a subordinate commander during the world war.

Harry Bannister, Miss Harding's husband, always manages to bob up where Ann is. The couple are extremely devoted. Now that Ann has been moved from the Pathé studio, where she starred for two years, to the Radio Pictures lot in Hollywood, Harry has also showed up on the Radio lot with a neat rôle in the current John Barrymore picture, "State's Attorney."

He plays an underworld leader. Leleina Sherwood, a Hawaiian girl from the island of Maui, also has been introduced into Barrymore's cast. She does a dance.

Two Winners Are Named in Whist Tourney

Contract Championship Is On Today.

From whist to auction to contract went the focus of attention yesterday in the thirty-second annual tournament of the Chicago Whist association at the Palmer house. Championships in the first two games were determined last night, and the play started in the third, which drew the largest number of entries. Contract champions will battle through today and tomorrow's sessions to win their crowns.

A. B. Brown of 6728 Cornell avenue distinguished himself by a place on three championship sets. With R. Frankenstein of 5052 Woodlawn avenue he captured the title of winning whist team. With Frankenstein, Mrs. M. K. Alexander of 7142 Constance avenue, and Mrs. Rose Fletcher of 827 Sunnyside avenue he comprised the winning whist team of four.

He was also a member of the championship auction team of four, all members of the Chicago Auction Bridge club, which included Robert W. Halpin of 6428 North Mozart street, Charles Rilling of 1226 Sunnyside avenue, and Louis J. Haddad, 238 South Maple avenue, Oak Park. Rilling and Halpin carried off the honors in auction as the title team of two.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Dramatic League of Chicago becomes somewhat skittish and light-minded in the sixth offering of its subscription season at the Harris theater—a cellophane comedy of farcical bent called "Experience Unnecessary." The organization announces, with a worldly gesture and a cynical smile, that its audiences probably need a dash of frivolity as relaxation from the deep and serious thinking in the preceding plays of its program—such philosophical excursions, for instance, as the recently departed "Fata Morgana."

So here it is—just another one of those things; of those many things that have made the American stage during the last few years more suggestive and sex-minded than at any time in the history of drama in the English tongue. "Experience Unnecessary" is a play that comes close to rendering criticism superfluous.

There are times when this thin but impudent affair will remind you of a debutante trying to be tough. Upon other occasions it sounds like a ribald old club-fellow trying to be clever. It seeks to be bold and frank and sophisticated, no doubt; but so many plays have plunged into the same adventure of late that this form of intrepidity has become a bore.

In precise analysis, "Experience Unnecessary" is a third rate European comedy of the type that is written to cater to the tourist trade and the American impresarios. It has been smartly staged and well cast and possesses a certain amount of "swank" that compensates, in a degree, for its crassness of tone.

Walter Woolf, a graduate from the better operettas, and Verree Teasdale, a decorative actress of Broadway reputation, lead the cast as co-stars. This production marks Mr. Woolf's debut in this vicinity as a non-lyric comedian. He emerged from the musical romances about a year ago, and since then has made an impression in characters of the Casanova type. He seems to have found his metier as the swagger and handsome male who coaxes willing heroines into risky situations in comedies of this variety.

Here Mr. Woolf plays a swash-buckling business man, a master-mind of automobile salesmanship who has foresworn matrimony, but who hires a "hostess" to accompany him on his annual European joyride. Miss Teasdale appears as his radiant secretary, who never lets him guess how deeply she has been smitten by his virile charms. So when he proposes that she become his companion, for a gratuity of $7,500, she modestly blushes, and accepts . . . . All of this is told in a stage setting representing an office so modernistic of decoration that not a single stroke of work is ever done there.

In the second act Mr. Woolf and Miss Teasdale are seen in the bridal suite of a liner de luxe. After comic interruptions and a great deal of carnal chatter about the purpose of the voyage, it becomes manifest that the "hostess" will not fulfill her obligations according to the contract. Mr. Woolf is a much disappointed man, and he expresses his emotions by throwing his best pajamas out of the porthole.

In the third act they are back in the office again—just a couple of sulky frustrates. Then the other man in the story persuades them to get married; and so another one of these things comes to its virtuous and happy ending.

Mr. Woolf acts with a sweeping and aggressive stroke, and gets some touches of breezy humor into his rôle. He attacks the brazen intrigue so frankly that he rescues much of the tale from its leering and unpalatable possibilities. Miss Teasdale is crisp, poised and glacial, and skillfully sustains the artificial trend of the plot.

Rex O'Malley contributes individuality and a graceful touch to the rôle of the jealous friend and adviser of the voyaging pair. Eva Leonard-Boyne and Rudolph Badaloni are effective in incidental rôles.

DiabolicalReds, SulphurousBlues Appear in Paris Evening Dress

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Belief in the old fashioned fire and brimstone punishment isn't as popular as it used to be, but Paris is putting all her faith on the shades of this quaint place for spring evening fashions. Diabolical reds and sulphurous blues and greens from the brimstone depths are the newest and most thrilling colors of French fashions.

These lively tones are putting the pale and heavenly shades of late winter in the shadow, for many of the most fashionable women prefer the more than slightly devilish colors named above.

Such colors are for the formal evening when full war paint is allowed, for they take a lot of wearing, and the complexion has to be livened accordingly. The naturalistic makeup that prevails among smart women for simple occasions won't do when brilliant brimstone and flame colors are worn.

Sulphur green is a particularly fascinating shade, and it is this color that Lucile Paray has used to make the crêpe marocain frock, shown in our sketch. The style of the dress is quite as fascinating as the color, and distinctly sophisticated and elegant. The bodice is a variant of the handkerchief blouse of St. Tropez, being tied around the neck and crushed into a draped band across the back. The front of the skirt is draped closely about the hips and finishes on the right side under a ruffle. The lower skirt is cut in a full circle.

Jewish Artists Offer Special Show of Work

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A most interesting exhibit of art by Jewish painters has just opened in the studio gallery, Diana Court building. Raymond Katz, who is well known for his posters and decorative work, has evolved an amusing transcription of the Hebrew alphabet into allegorical compositions. There is a suggestion of Raymond Jonson's manner of theme development, but Mr. Katz at no time infringes upon the other's preserves. These alphabet portraits are whimsical and picturesque. Some of them are delightful color studies; in others the construction is of more consequence than the color.

Enrico Glicenstein shows a group of most effective prints. He has a series of etchings illustrating the Book of Samuel which are extraordinary. At one time Mr. Glicenstein thought of illustrating the entire Bible, but as no one was sufficiently interested to back him he let the project drop. These prints for Samuel prove that he could have made a marvelous thing of his idea had he been encouraged. Another series of etchings, "Behind the Circus," shows his genius for lay subjects. His horses, his circus figures, and the animals, a resting panther in particular, are brilliantly handled.

Todros Geller is one of the prominent exhibitors in this show. Several of his oils we have seen before at the Art institute and elsewhere. A new one, and one that is most sensitive and delicate, is "Sabbath Rest," a beautiful study of a man at his ease; the eye follows the curves that underlie the structure of the picture and is soothed as much by them as by the exquisite shaded paint. "The Galilean" is a Hebrew interpretation of Christ and gives Him a strange, sphinxlike aloofness foreign to the Christian conception. "The Dreamer of the Ghetto" is a remarkably sensitive lithograph.

William S. Schwartz and Emil Armin complete the exhibit. Schwartz has a tender, subdued note in his "Fisherman's Family." Armin is rather dramatic, as is customary, and picturesque in his delineations of Jewish festivals and church days.

The exhibition is worth seeing. It will continue to Feb. 29. A program of Jewish music will be given in conjunction with it on Sunday evening, Feb. 28, at 8:30 o'clock.

Mrs. W. N. writes us this morning about one of our recipes for icebox rolls. She says:

"This is my problem: How can I make the icebox rolls recipe with some other flour than white? I would be much obliged if you would give me a recipe using whole wheat, rye, or bran flour."

Yes, Mrs. W. N., you can substitute the different flours in the icebox rolls. There is, however, a great difference in the various flours, so the rolls will differ accordingly.

Whole wheat and graham flours are identical unless one considers the genuine graham flour which is still made by some millers from the original formula. Whole wheat flour and rye, because of the fact that they are made of the proteins essential to the development of gluten, can be substituted for the white flour and still make satisfactory rolls and bread. The best substitution with other flours and grains is a mixture of the two, a mixture such as 40 per cent of the grains and 60 per cent of the standard white flour.

When a cook does change her recipe and tries another flour such as whole wheat or rye, she will find that her rolls, though good, are not as light as those made with either standard white flour, or a mixture of the two.

We have no special recipe for icebox rolls made with the various flours other than white, so we are suggesting that you try:

Whole Wheat Gems.

1 egg
½ cup of sweet milk
2 teaspoons of baking powder
1 cup of flour
½ teaspoon of salt

Sift the flour and baking powder together. Add to it the lightly beaten eggs, salt, and milk. Grease the gem pans—ordinary muffin pans will do—and heat them in the oven. Put the batter in each and bake in a hot oven [400 degrees Fahrenheit].

By the way, we have another upsidedown cake for you. These cakes are so comfortably easy to whip together that dessert making is truly the lark it always should be!

Apricot Upsidedown Cake.

1 No. 2 can of apricots
4 tablespoons of shortening
1 cup of brown sugar
3 eggs
1 cup of white sugar
3 tablespoons of apricot juice
1 cup of flour
1 teaspoon of baking powder

Put the shortening in a heavy iron skillet and melt it. Spread the brown sugar evenly over the bottom of the pan and then add the drained apricots. Make a batter of the other ingredients as follows: Beat the egg yolks and add the sugar, then the apricot juice, and then the flour sifted with the baking powder. Lastly fold in the stiff egg whites. Pour this over the apricot mixture and bake in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees Fahrenheit] about forty-five minutes. Turn out on a serving plate and serve with whipped or plain cream.

Age Is Guide in Giving Facts to Your Child

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Do you remember the story told here yesterday about the little boy with a scientific father? He asked his mother a question and she said, "Ask your father," and the boy replied, "No, I don't want to know so much."

The point of that amusing yarn has a decided bearing on the matter of sex education. When the child of 3 poses, for example, the universal query of little children, "Where do babies come from?" or "Where did I come from?" you answer truthfully, but probably rather briefly.

Two years later there will be follow up questions on the subject, and then your answer will be much fuller. At 10 a child can take in a quite long and exact explanation. Later a young man or woman will need to know something about the "social diseases," but it would be absurd, even wrong, to impart such information to a child of 9—just as it would be beyond his comprehension.

A letter came to me quoting a mother who felt herself very modern in saying, "My little boy of 9 knows everything he will need to know as far as sex education is concerned. I believe in being truthful."

Well, such a procedure is the height of absurdity. In the first place, even if he had been told "everything" he wouldn't be able to understand it. And in the second place, this is no quick job to be done in one fell swoop.

The soil has to be prepared over a long period of years if sex is to slip into its natural unobtrusive place in the scheme of things. And it is this easy naturalness of attitude toward sex that it is our ambition to achieve in educating our children.

Use your head when you answer your children's questions. Be truthful, and if you hold back information don't do it because you're scared, but because your small son or daughter isn't ready for it.

If you need help, our "Sex Education" booklet might supply it. This will be sent on receipt of stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Author Urges Occupation for Every Woman

Says Training Prevents "Mental Slack."

Duluth, Minn., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Here's a bit of advice for women from Minnesota's foremost woman author, Margaret Culkin Banning:

"Every girl, rich or poor, should prepare for some definite occupation."

Though convinced "feminism" of a decade ago is dead; that the average woman "wants to return to the protection and comfort of the marriage which brings home, income, and comforts without worry or earning these for one's self," Mrs. Banning believes the knowledge a woman is trained to do something keeps her from going "mentally slack."

"Many women have found themselves in 'jobs' which haven't brought them the hoped for compensation," she said, urging every woman approaching middle age to make a home for herself.

Her own home also is her workshop. There she spends hours reading and writing—mostly the latter. Mrs. Banning has worked as much as 14 hours at a stretch at her typewriter.

Her advice to those who would write is not new: "Have something to say and then say it."

But her two children, Mary and Tanner, won't be writers.

"Neither of them will ever adopt writing as a career," Mrs. Banning said. "They think it is a hard life—that of a writer. They know something of the strain I am under in writing an exacting article or novel. I had to write. It was inevitable. It was just a matter of finding out what to write and how to say it."

A graduate of Vassar college, she penned her first novel in 1920 and has written about a dozen others, besides countless magazine stories and articles.

Women have been the theme of most of her stories, but some day she is going to write about a man.

"I must certainly do a novel about a man—just any man," she observed. "It will be a book for men to read and—women."

"I COULDN'T understand why Jack was forever complaining that my lips looked painted . . . until one day he took a mirror and showed me exactly what he meant!"

Does your mirror prove that you too have that painted look? It's so easy to offend in this way. Colors that you have grown used to can look cheap to your friends!

End painted lips. Forget your present lipstick. From now on . . . Tangee your lips.

Tangee can't make you look painted. It isn't paint. It's new . . . different . . . it changes on your lips to the one color most becoming to you. It brings you new loveliness.

Physicians tell us that one condition is nearly always present when a child has a digestive upset, a starting cold or other little ailment. Constipation.

When little bowels get clogged, body wastes accumulate, and poisons and infection find a fertile breeding place.

The first step towards relief is to rid the body of impure wastes. And for this nothing is better than genuine time-proven Castoria!

Castoria is a pure vegetable preparation made specially for babies and children. This means it is mild and gentle enough for their delicate organs. Yet it is always effective.

You never have to coax children to take Castoria. They like its taste! The genuine Castoria, you know, always has the name Chas. H. Fletcher on the package.

. . Kelvinator ALONE has four different, constant temperatures —each automatically controlled

THERE is keen satisfaction in the ownership of anything genuinely and inherently fine. This is true of Kelvinator ownership. Because Kelvinator performs such an important service in such a creditable way.

Being fully automatic, it requires no attention or supervision. You simply cannot forget—and freeze the contents of the food compartment—because the temperature here is automatically controlled. So are the other three different temperatures. The below freezing temperature in the Frost Chest (for keeping fish, meats or game) is automatic. The World's Record Fast Freezing Speed is automatic. And so is the fast freezing temperature in the other ice cube trays.

Illustrated is the DeLuxe Model 11—a cabinet of sterling worth that looks the part. And beneath this exterior beauty is a performance of such quality and of such long life that you dare not count the years. Many of those first Kelvinators, purchased over a decade ago, are still in service. And the 1932 Kelvinator is finer and better, in every way, than the first, history-making Kelvinator. In the De Luxe and Standard Line, there are 9 different sized cabinets, one of which will meet your requirements as though it had been built especially for you—to your specifications.

At your convenience, see the 1932 Kelvinator. And the more closely you inspect it, the more convinced you will be that it is the electric refrigerator for you. Kelvinator Sales Corporation, Detroit, Michigan.

SOUTH SIDE PICKS RING CHAMPIONS TONIGHT

IOWA AWAITS CROWLEY REPLY ON GRID OFFER

Promises Answer in Few Days.

East Lansing, Mich., Feb. 23.—(AP)—James Crowley, Michigan State football coach, returned tonight from Chicago and confirmed reports that he had been offered the coaching position at the University of Iowa.

He said he would give his answer "in a couple of days," but gave no indication as to what it would be.

Crowley said he conferred in Chicago yesterday with Edward H. Lauer, Iowa athletic director, and another member of the board.

Crowley's contract here has two years more to run, but it is believed he would not be restrained from accepting a better position should he ask for a release.

He would not discuss terms offered him, but it was understood he had been promised a substantial increase in salary.

IOWA EXPECTS CROWLEY.

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Despite athletic officials' refusal to comment tonight, it appeared certain Jimmy Crowley, Michigan State football coach, will succeed Burton A. Ingwersen at the University of Iowa. Three members of the Iowa athletic board are known to have interviewed Crowley in Chicago and it was learned from reliable sources the question of salary and assistants were settled at that time.

The Press Citizen, Iowa City newspaper, said today Crowley's appointment probably would be announced within 48 hours and that he will bring two assistants from Michigan State with him.

Officials Interview Crowley.

Athletic officials who interviewed Crowley in Chicago yesterday were Dean Chester A. Phillips, Dr. A. E. Lauer, athletic director, and Rush C. Butler of Chicago, alumni member of the board.

Crowley has served as Michigan State coach for the last three years. He was one of the famous Four Horsemen at Notre Dame. Immediately following his graduation he served as back field coach at the University of Georgia. He succeeded Harry Kipke at Michigan State in 1929.

CRISLER STILL SILENT

Herbert O. [Fritz] Crisler, University of Minnesota athletic director, mentioned as Princeton's next head football coach, last night said he had nothing to say about negotiations with representatives of the eastern institution.

Crisler would not admit he had conferred with Princeton representatives in Chicago, and added he would make no announcement himself.

"If I decide to leave Minnesota, the announcement must come from whomever I sign with," he declared.

Crisler, according to reports from Minneapolis, has been offered the Princeton position at a salary of $12,500 a year. His salary at Minnesota is said to be $8,500 annually.

GOPHERS IN CONFERENCE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The attendance of Bernie Bierman, Minnesota's new head football coach, at a meeting of the board of regents today, at which plans were considered aiming toward the appointment of a successor to Fritz Crisler if he resigns his athletic directorship, led to belief that Bierman would be given the position.

After the meeting neither Bierman nor spokesmen for the board of regents was willing to divulge what went on. However, it was reported authorities have about given up hope of keeping Crisler here, although Crisler has not made known his plans.

Bierman is considered as the logical successor to Crisler should the latter leave, something that Fred B. Snyder, president of the board of regents, anticipated today. Snyder considered Princeton's proffered $4,000 increase in salary more than Minnesota could meet.

ST. VIATOR NOSES OUT DE PAUL ON 2 FREE THROWS

Bourbonnais, Ill., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—A pair of free throws by Romary a few seconds before the game ended gave the St. Viator college quintet an 18 to 17 victory over De Paul university here tonight. It was the two teams' third meeting of the year, De Paul having won the first two contests.

A personal foul by Weston gave Romary his chance to score the two deciding points. St. Viator led, 11 to 7 at the half. Lineup:

SHAMROCKS POKE AROUND HORNETS' NEST; STUNG, 5-2

Four Goals in 3d Period Beat Chicagoans.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Shamrocks, proud in their newly achieved position of second place in the American hockey league, bloomed all over the Chicago Stadium last night—for two periods. At the end of the game, however, they were fairly well withered, for a flock of Duluth Hornets swarmed on them to administer a stinging 5 to 2 defeat. It was the second time in ten games the Chicagoans had lost.

Both teams scored early, but Tip O'Neill and Donnie McFadyen returned in the second period and evolved a 2 to 1 lead which the Shamrocks held to the end of the period.

Then the Hornets began to buzz and in the final period flew all over the place, lighting occasionly to sting Goalie Mike Karakas no less than four times.

Both Score in Hurry.

The Shamrocks, minus the services of their belligerent captain, Gordie Brydson, whose third major penalty of the season in the Tulsa game last Saturday banished him from last night's game, opened play with a forward line composed of MacKenzie, Johnson, and Armand. This trio soon found itself outsped by the Duluth wings and in exactly two and one-half minutes the score was 1 to 0 in favor of the Hornets.

It took Scott and Forslund to deliver the Hornets' first sting, but Gus was on the assisting end this time, eluding the Shamrock defense and passing to Scott, who found little trouble in driving the disc past Karakas.

A new Shamrock line asserted itself within 29 seconds to tie the score with the assistance of Taylor, who had been partly guilty of the Duluth score. Immediately after the faceoff Johnson took charge of the puck, circled his own goal and eventually passed to Taylor. The Bouncer dashed up the right side of the ice, luring out the Hornet defense, and passed it over to Johnson, who was alone on the opposite shore of the rink. Johnson dashed in to score against the unprotected Turner in 2:59.

Shamrocks Take Lead.

The O'Neill-Clayton-McFadyen line hadn't been on for more than a few minutes before Donnie came through with the fanciest skating and stick handling of the evening for a pass to O'Neill, who pushed it in forthwith. This was accomplished in 9:08.

The first ten minutes of the last period found the Hornets abandoning their fancy business for tactics which included slamming into Karakas, which eventually produced many changes in the scoring.

First this hammering at Karakas brought about a 3 to 2 lead, attained on two goals scored in 34 seconds. Lessard took a pass from Davis for the first one in 11:18 and Forslund gave the Hornets their advantage with a boot from Stuart in 11:51.

The Shamrocks became so eager to tie the score at this point that Davis broke away from a group of them in the Hornets' territory, skated half the length of the rink and found Karakas the only obstacle to a 4 to 2 lead for Duluth. Mike didn't prove much of a hindrance and Davis scored in 13:34.

As if that weren't enough, Anderson repeated Davis' achievement a few minutes later, skating most of the way down, circling a Shamrock or two, and lifting the puck in to make it 5 to 2 in 16:38.

Prestige Held Sacred Even by Amateurs

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New York, Feb. 23. — Of all the young men in this country who go in for the sport of placing one foot in front of the other and vice versa with all possible rapidity, there are only two who were willing to race a mile against Gene Venzke in the National A. A. U. indoor championship meet. These two were Bill McNiff of the University of Pennsylvania and a party unknown, named as Arthur Pendleton of Greenwich, Conn.

Leo Lermond, Frank Crowley, and Carl Coan, who had been expected to run and at least make a race of the mile contest, made other plans at the last moment and used their energy in other events. The mile run, therefore, was not a race, and Venzke, who recently made a new record of 4 minutes 10 seconds, won the national indoor championship in 4 minutes 15 seconds. It was a close thing to a walkover in amateur athletics. And the crowd booed the absentees.

The A. A. U. has been in trouble many a time because the officials have tried to "save the show" by compelling this or that athlete to compete in a contest against his wishes. In this case no attempt was made to force any one to run against Venzke, although the mile race had been regarded as the main event of a big program which attracted a large crowd.

After much unhappiness the A. A. U. seems to have accepted the idea that an amateur athlete, being an amateur and a participant for fun only, has the right to play or withdraw according to his own inclination at the moment. The officials have been overofficious on past occasions, but this was once when they neatly dodged the blame for any misdoing and let the patrons draw their own conclusions as to why the other entrants declined to run against Venzke.

There was a somewhat similar situation in Lake Placid when Irving Jaffee, the American skater who won two of the four races in the Olympic winter games, skating the American style, withdrew from the post-Olympic races which were to have provided a showdown between the American and European systems. The Scandinavian skaters, or to be more exact, the officials who represented them in the arguments, claimed that it was not by skating, but by pocketing and jockeying, that the Americans were able to win all four of the speed contests on the ice.

During the latter days of the Olympic winter games it was generally understood that Jaffee would skate against the Europeans their own way after the big meet, but Jaffee returned to New York and the question was left unsettled.

It looks as though the spirit of the heavyweight championship had invaded some branches of amateur athletics. A conclusive defeat would diminish a star's prestige.

In the case of the heavyweight champion, his prestige is his fortune or, at any rate, his sole business asset. I do not know why amateurs think so much of their prestige and I believe an amateur who seeks to maintain his prestige by dodging a plain challenge in his own field, actually achieves the opposite result. Prestige in amateur athletics is maintained only by competition.

At any rate, the officials in charge, for once have shown a truer amateur spirit than some of the players. They have hard problems in organizing, publicizing and financing big meets and there is a temptation to flip over the pages of a fat amateur law book and lay down the law to some player who decides, for reasons of his own, to withdraw from some event and spoil the contest.

But as often as the officials compelled some player to go on against his wishes or suspended him for persisting in his refusal they found themselves flagrantly opposing the very spirit which they thought they were defending, which is the spirit of sport for fun.

This time the shoes are on some other feet and they seem to pinch.

WANTED—SHARP KNIFE FOR CUBS' FIRST PRUNING

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Catalina Island, Feb. 23.—Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Cubs, gradually is beginning to realize that he'll be called on for some hair line decisions when it comes time to prune the 1932 crop. There are fourteen more men who cannot be retained after June 15 and so many of the newcomers appear to be big league possibilities that it is going to be no easy matter to avoid erring in the process of weeding out.

There are only 23 places available for full season employment and the manager already has decided on how many he will allow to each department. There'll be eight pitchers, seven infielders, five outfielders and three catchers.

No Jobs are Safe.

Not one of these departments, as made up last season, is invulnerable to attack by some of the new talent. Of course none of the freshmen, barring Infielders Stanley Hack and Billy Herman, can be expected to be retained for anything more exciting than a utility rôle.

Just now it is hoped that Grimm, Herman, English and Hack will make up the regular inner defense. Hornsby naturally will retain himself for what other playing help might be needed from him. That makes five of the seven and the two other places will for the next few weeks continue to be a matter of competition.

Somebody will have to be kept to fill a possible emergency at first base and this is a matter between Clarence Blair, who has been around several years, and Harry Taylor, the Seattle purchase. That leaves one place for Lester Bell, Bill Jurges and Del Young to fight about. The latter is just a kid who needs a year or more of minor league experience. Jurges, a wonderful fielder, is a light hitter. The veteran Bell can hit and the Cubs are going to need hitting. Jurges might go to the Braves.

Will Drop 3 Outfielders.

Three fly chasers will have to be banished, but Cuyler, Stephenson, Richbourg and Barton have nothing to worry about. The others are Mike Kreevich, the ex-Illinois coal miner, who was taken from a Western league club; Mike Gudat, drafted from Columbus, O., and Johnny Moore and Dan Taylor, both of whom have been Cubs long enough to be well known to the north side clientele. Just now Hornsby is interested in Gudat. The Cardinals wanted him in the Hack Wilson-Burleigh Grimes swap, but if he hits when the exhibition series starts against the Giants he might stick. There also is a chance that he, too, will be turned over to the Braves.

There are three wide open spots on the pitching staff of eight men. Root, Malone, Grimes, Bush, and Smith naturally are fixtures and if all should happen to have a big year the Cubs wouldn't need any more. At the present time there are fifteen throwers present, not counting Newsom, who has a broken leg. Of the strangers Lyle Tinning, purchased from the Western league, seems to hold the spotlight, although a season at the Los Angeles farm might do him good.

Other Hurlers Seek Places.

Others clamoring for recognition are Johnny Welch, Lon Warneke, Les Sweetland, Archie Miller, from Shreveport; Jackie May, Leroy Herrimann, and Dutch Henry. Sweetland, Henry, and May are southpaws and one of them, possibly May, must be held, if for nothing else than batting practice.

The catching department is a dispute between Bill Campbell, recalled from Los Angeles, and the veteran, Zack Taylor. In front of this pair are Hartnett and Hemsley. Campbell may go back to the Angels for more seasoning.

Today's drill, conducted under a hot sun, was another session of hitting, fielding and sliding for the youngsters. The older fellows were permitted to go about as they pleased.

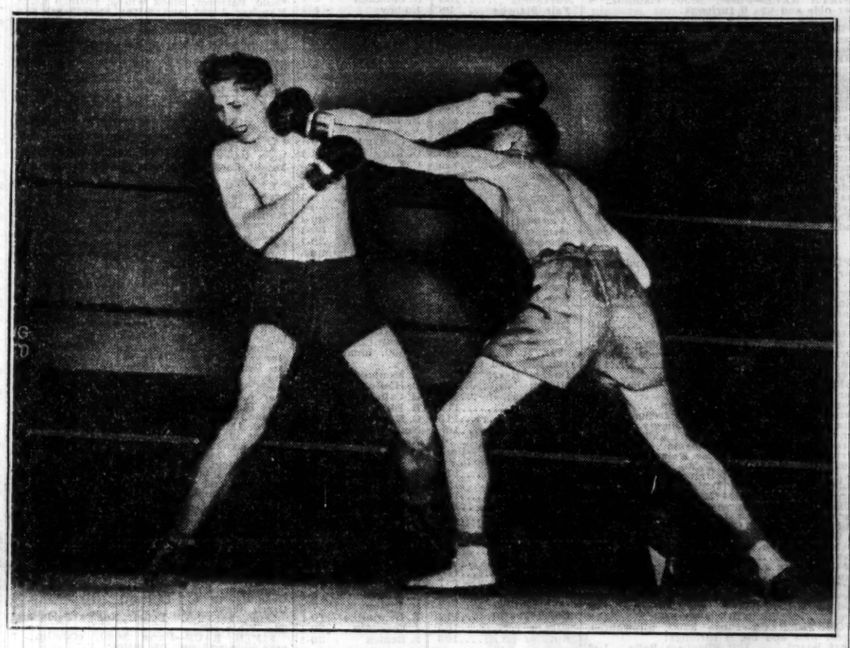
PITCHING AND CATCHING IN THE RING



George Markowski of the St. John Baptist C. Y. O. (right) lands too high as he tries to put over a knockout wallop on Joseph Jancauskas of Morton High last night in the south side Golden Gloves trials. Markowski won by a technical knockout in the third round, but lost a decision in his second welterweight bout of the evening.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

This is a piece about a champion who had the courage to defend his honors in the stiffest test amateur boxing provides. I refer to Leo Rodak, the novice of 1931, who came along so fast that he not only won his golden gloves, but carried on to win intercity and international championships.

Rodak a year ago weighed in under 112 pounds. He has filled out since then, however, and is now wielding his gloves among the 118 pounders in the south side trials at White City. The path to another Golden Gloves championship is not strewn with roses, but judging from the way Rodak performed in his bout Monday night it will take the best bantamweight in the tournament to stop him. He whipped a boy in the first round who might have won easily against any one else.

It is a compliment to the caliber of competition for Golden Gloves that two or three of last year's winners who were eligible for 1932 honors preferred to remain out of the meet. They realized that the chances of surviving another tournament were not very bright, so they are coasting along at the smaller clubs.

The next time you see Rodak step into the ring give him a hand. We need fellows with a heart like his if Chicago is to give New York its third straight trimming. If he loses you'll know Chicago has a bantamweight who can hold his own in any competition.

Fans at Marseilles, Ill., a town of 4,000, are enthusiastic about the chances of placing two boys on the Chicago team that will battle New York. Both have qualified for the Tournament of Champions which opens at the Chicago Stadium on Monday night. The following is from Dr. J. O. Flood of Marseilles:

"The little town of Marseilles, down in the Illinois valley on route 7, will have the distinction of following two home town battlers fighting in the same class in THE TRIBUNE'S Tournament of Champions. They are Laddie Tonelli and Preston Le Rette. Tonelli was a winner in the north side trials at Loyola and Le Rette whipped every lightweight he met in the Streator or Golden Gloves meet.

"These boys came together in the first round of the Streator meet a year ago and fans agree it was one of the greatest scraps they have seen. Le Rette won and later was crowned champion of the sectional qualifying round.

"That defeat didn't convince Tonelli that Golden Gloves were out of his reach. He cast his lot among Chicago's north side lightweights this year and you know the result. He scored three successive knockouts, two of them in the first round.

"So Marseilles, with 4,000 population, has 4,000 boxing fans because everybody is interested in these boys. They are hopeful that the luck of the draw will not match the Marseilles candidates until the final round. If both win a place on the team that fights New York you can mark up two points for Chicago right now."

DEMPSEY WHIPS FRANKIE WINE IN 4 ROUND BOUT

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, easily outpointed Frankie Wine, blacksmith from Butte, Mont., tonight to win a four round newspaper decision. Dempsey weighed 194; Wine 191.

Apparently taking it easy after losing to King Levinsky at Chicago last week, the former champion battered Wine almost at will, and except in the second round clearly had the advantage over his opponent.

In the second round Wine landed a few short jabs to Dempsey's body, but at other times he was on the receiving end of many body and head blows. The blacksmith swung and clinched on numerous occasions, and his legs buckled under him once in the fourth and final round.

Woody English Sued; Girl Claims He Agreed to Wed

Newark, O., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Emily Evans Haag, 21, today sued Woody English, shortstop of the Chicago Cubs, alleging breach of promise. According to Miss Haag's counsel, she was engaged to English for three years before the baseball player married a Chicago girl last summer.

English, the plaintiff said, offered her $1,500 to settle the case on Dec. 24, 1930. Miss Haag says she has a ring and letters sent by English during his first two years with the Cubs.

State Normal Defeats Illinois Wesleyan, 28-17

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—State Normal basketball team defeated Illinois Wesleyan here tonight, 28 to 17. Normal took the lead at the start and was never headed.

Packer Paddy Packs a Punch, 2 Foes Learn

BY FRENCH LANE.

Strange fellows are these boys who fight for THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves. And they come from the four corners of America.

Paddy Carroll of Butte, Mont., was one of the lads who caused nearly every spectator at White City to stand up on his chair and cheer last night.

Paddy isn't voting out in Butte right now. He is working, and glad to be working, for a meat packing concern out at the yards. He had to polish off his Golden Gloves opponents and be back on the job 12 o'clock last night to start tossing sides of steers, hams from nice fat porkers and big slabs of sidemeat from the packing house into a meat car for eight hours.

Back for More Tonight.

After Paddy gets the car loaded with pork and beef, some lard and some sausage along about the time the breakfast bell rings for everybody except Carroll and folks who work on morning newspapers, Paddy will check in at his room out back o' the yards and get some sleep before he again takes up the fight in the south side Golden Gloves sectional finals tonight.

This isn't Paddy's first gesture at winning a Golden Glove. He left the packing house long enough last year to knock over a couple of boys. But he fell by the wayside at the hands of his third opponent.

Paddy began his struggle for a Golden Glove all over again last night when he whipped Jule Sandraco of the Pullman A. A. in three rounds of hard fighting.

Trained in Copper Mines.

Out in Butte this morning the folks will be waiting to hear what Paddy did. Paddy's dad is the janitor at the courthouse and everybody there who has time to stop and pass the time of day lingers long enough to swap the town gossip with Paddy Carroll Sr.

Paddy's dad isn't an easy taskmaster. He had Paddy doing heavy work in the copper mines for a few years. Then Paddy Jr. decided he would go to a big city and get a soft job, so he came to Chicago and got a job in a packing house.

But wait just a minute. It is nearly midnight and almost time for Paddy to go to work over in the packing house. He is back for his second bout and is fighting a red headed kid by the name of R. Ayotte from Ishpeming, Mich.

Paddy wins once more and the crowd stands and cheers.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The rumble on the south side last night was not a faint echo of the Sino-Japanese trouble. It was the second night of the campaign by Chicago's amateur boxers to win places on the south side team which will compete in the Tournament of Champions next Monday at the Chicago Stadium.

If you had been within the firing zone at White City that rumble would have been a roar. Three thousand, who came early and stayed until the conclusion of hostilities after midnight, provided the sound effects. During the brief lull between cheers the steady pummeling of fists could be heard.

Pick Team Tonight.

Tonight at White City the south side's team will be chosen. Sixteen boys, two in each weight, will be eligible to continue the struggle for diamond studded Golden Gloves, emblematic of the amateur boxing championships of the central west.

Sixty-four boys will start tonight. There will be eight in each weight division and all weights, from the 112 pounders to the heavyweights, will be in action.

The south side finals, last of the seven day campaign before the Tournament of Champions, will start at the usual time, 7 o'clock. The doors at White City will open at 6 o'clock. Admission is 75 cents.

All boxers eligible to compete in the finals tonight must report for physical examinations this afternoon before 6 o'clock. They do not need to weigh in a second time.

48 to Represent Chicago.

With the conclusion of the south side tournament, Chicago will have 48 boys eligible for the Tournament of Champions. Then on Monday will come the championship teams from five states to meet Chicago's best and to fight as the luck of the draw directs. Two weeks from tonight eight champions will receive their awards. They and the eight runners-up and eight alternates will represent Chicago and the west in the fifth annual intercity contests with New York in Madison Square Garden.

Last night's army of amateurs came from far and near. There were boys from Coulon's and Jones' gymnasiums, from the Catholic Youth organization and from a score or more other clubs. Some came from nearby county towns while others reported from across Indiana line and from northern Illinois.

Golden Gloves holds an attraction which only a hand to hand conflict can offer. Boxing pays off on courage and skill, and last night's winners proved once again that the ring is not the place for a timid young man.

There were a score or more bouts which, for slugging, for refusal to quit no matter what the odds, had the crowd standing and cheering. Any

MAROON SEXTET INVADES HAWK RINK TONIGHT

Montreal Team Fighting to Leave Cellar.

The rugged Montreal Maroons, who are leading the National Hockey league in scores, will oppose the Black Hawks on the Chicago Stadium ice tonight. Tonight the Canadians may not have the services of their star center, Nels Stewart, who suffered a broken right hand in a free for all fight Feb. 14 in a game with Toronto, but even without him they appear strong enough to put up one of the rough contests for which they are noted.

On their last appearance in Chicago, Jan. 17, Dave Trottier rammed Stew Adams into the boards and put the Hawks' left winger out of the game with a broken arm for the balance of the season. Trottier has been the league's leading "bad man" to date, having spent over 80 minutes in the penalty box this season.

Smith Leads Pointmakers.

The playing of Hooley Smith, the league's best pointmaker, has been a factor in the fight which the Maroons have waged for the last month to get out of the cellar position, a spot which they held for the better part of the first two and a half months of the present schedule.

If they maintain their present winning stride with their terrific scoring punch, nothing can keep them from being favorites to capture the Stanley cup in hockey's world series finals, which are but a month away.

The injury to Stewart brought Paul Haynes back from the minors and he is being used on a line with Jimmy Ward and Baldy Northcott alongside of him.

Hawks to Use Same Lines.

The same revamped lineups that carried the Hawks to a 2-1 victory Sunday night over the Boston Bruins will be Maj. McLaughlin's selections for tonight's battle. Johnny Gottselig will play center with Vic Ripley at left and Lolo Couture at right on one line, while a second will have Tommy Cook working in the middle with Paul Thompson and Mush March taking care of the wings. The third line will again see the veteran Cyclone Wentworth step out of his old defense position and play at center to steady the rookies, Louis Holmes and Art Coulter.

The lineups:

BLACKHAWKS.		MAROONS.
Gardiner	Goal	Walsh
Abel	L. D.	Conacher
Graham	R. D.	Wilcox
Cook	C	Haynes
Thompson	L. W.	Northcott
March	R. W.	Ward

Wanted—Keen Knife for 1st Cub Pruning

Red Mackenzie, the southpaw, who has a sweeping delivery and almost as much speed as Bob Grove, again drew Hornsby's attention during the batting practice. In picking runners off first base he showed a move that made him look like anything but a novice. Mackenzie belongs to Los Angeles, but the Cubs can have him whenever they hand over a few dollars.

SECOND SQUAD LEADS

Jakie May, Lester Bell, Dutch Henry, and Les Sweetland were other members of the Cubs who boarded the Los Angeles Limited for the Pacific coast. Guy Bush, who deserted his Mississippi home this winter to operate an oil station on the west side, also was in the party.

Burleigh Grimes, who was acquired from the St. Louis Cardinals in the Hack Wilson deal, Capt. Charley Grimm, and Clarence Blair will join the party at Omaha, Neb.

Comiskey Leads Sox.

Leading the White Sox at 11:30 o'clock this morning to Mineral Wells, where they will train for one week, will be President J. Louis Comiskey and Harry Grabiner, vice president. Manager Lew Fonseca and Coaches Bill Cunningham and Johnny Butler, who arrived in Chicago from the coast last Monday, were met by twelve players. There will be 18 in the party, several being expected to arrive in Chicago early this morning.

Among the players in the group will be Urban Faber, Bob Fothergill, Hal McKain, Tommy Thomas, Frank Grube, Irving Hadley, Sam Jones, Bruce Campbell, and Joe Bartulis, star of the University of Illinois team.

Catcher Benny Tate and Hal Anderson, the latter obtained from the St. Paul club of the American association, will meet the party at St. Louis. Anderson, Manager Fonseca believes, will be one of the outstanding members of the club this season.

"I think Anderson will come through and he's going to hit above his American association average this year. He's fast and we need a good man in the outfield."

of these might have graced the professional ring. But for valor and determination we'd like to tell you about young Charles Caron, a welterweight on the team from SS. Peter and Paul parish of the C. Y. O.

It may be that Caron learned something in this respect from Leo Rodak, who captains this team. But we suspect that courage and determination are naturally his. You would think so, also, had you seen his fight with Georgie Trapp of Postl's Health club last night.

Caron lost the fight on a decision at the end of three rounds. But he might have quit in the first round and no one would have blamed him. Trapp knocked Caron down several times in the first round, but each time Caron bounded right back and started slugging.

In the second round Caron came back to fight on even terms with Trapp and again, just before the bell at the end of the last round, Caron showed his mettle. But his efforts were not quite enough to overcome Trapp's advantage. A tumultuous roar swept the arena as he left the ring.

Last night's results:

Roosevelt High school's lightweight basketball team will meet Austin in the opening game of the Chicago Public High School league semi-finals at Roosevelt's gymnasium Friday afternoon. The schedule for the 16 lightweight and heavyweight teams which qualified for the series was arranged yesterday by coaches in the league offices.

Three other lightweight games and four heavyweight contests will be played next Tuesday. The winners will meet the following week. The series this season will not be conducted under a round robin arrangement as in the past.

The White City basketball court at 63d street and South Park avenue will be the scene of all the central and south section games. Phillips and Calumet, both of which qualified lightweight and heavyweight teams, will meet in a double header Tuesday, the lights playing at 4 o'clock and the heavies at 5.

On the same court that night another double header will be staged. Parker, winner of the south section lightweight championship, will face Tilden at 7:30 o'clock and immediately after that game Bowen heavyweights will meet Hyde Park.

Lane Tech and Crane Tech heavies and lights wil meet at Marshall gymnasium Tuesday evening in north and west section contests. On Tuesday afternoon Lake View heavyweights will play Marshall at Marshall.

CATHOLIC LEAGUE

St. Patrick heavies maintained their lead in the north section of the Catholic league by defeating St. George, 31 to 13, last night at Evanston for their eighth victory of the season. St. Patrick led, 17 to 4, at the half, Busscher and Joyce collecting the losers' only points.

A basket by Ray Rush in the final minute gave the St. George light weights a 25 to 24 victory over the St. Patrick ponies. It was the St. Patrick lights' third defeat of the season.

In the south section, Leo heavyweights again went into a tie for second place with Joliet by defeating St. Rita, 27 to 12. The Mount Carmel lightweights triumphed, 41 to 18, over St. Ignatius. The lineups:

In the WAKE of the NEWS

SWIMMING IN THE DARKNESS.

Wading out into the pitchy waters far,
I felt their slowly rising cool embrace
Until their circling folds had reached my face,
Then glanced aloft, but found no single star
Dimly peering through the summer cloud,
But emptiness lay there on every hand,
And seemed within itself to cry aloud.
My toes alone now touched the yielding sand;
Then silence broke with gurgling sound
As I kicked free and headed for the deep
Where air felt keen and chilly darkness frowned
Upon a watery realm that lay asleep.
On, on, I stroked into an expanding zone
Where every conjured thought was free to play——
Jeweled thoughts of a world of yesterday
Studding this darkened world, all my own.

Ere long the inky cloud mass split
And a moon shone through the narrow rift,
Casting its silvery beams adrift
Where they danced for my sole benefit.
As suddenly the gap was closed
When blacker blackness then prevailed,
And on its spear my thoughts impaled
For all I was opposed.

John Francis Chetlain.

Stribling and Schaaf.

Will Stribling and Ernie Schaaf will provide the antithesis of answers to sports questions when they meet Friday night at the Stadium.

Stribling will be defending his right to remain in the first flight of heavyweight pugilists, a right questioned by some critics following his defeat by Max Schmeling for the heavyweight crown in Cleveland last summer. Schaaf will be seeking to prove his right to enter that classification.

Stribling's showing against Schmeling was disappointing to his followers. It was not so much what Schmeling, now conceded a rugged opponent of determination and especially stamina, did to Stribling but what Stribling did not do to Herr Max. Even granted that Schmeling was greatly improved despite his long ring layoff, the Georgian's blows lacked their former steam to such an extent that some experts expressed the opinion that he was "burned out" from an arena career which began in boyhood.

Against this contention, the Stribling party now thinks its favorite was overtrained on that occasion and had an attack of "nerves" not realized at the time. Stribling, still young, always an Apollo physically, has the personality outside the ring to become one of the most popular of champions if he had the fighting tools. Whether his bouts are major attractions or whether he passes into the second flight now is the question.

Schaaf has been called one of the most promising of the newer crop. Victory over Stribling would be a distinct accomplishment and enhance his future prospects as a box office attraction.

Lindblom Back in Prep Line for Baseball

Lindblom High school of the central section, which withdrew from the Chicago Public High School league when it was rumored that the league would disband, will enter a team in the coming baseball race. The announcement was made by J. R. Burke, athletic director, yesterday. All other extra curricular activities, which were abolished, will be resumed.

The return of Lindblom to the league will necessitate the rearrangement of the baseball schedule, which was drawn last Saturday when Lindblom officials did not appear at the baseball committee meeting. Five other schools—Medill, Tuley, Waller, Phillips, and Austin—also were not represented at the conference and will not enter a team in the coming season.

While Lindblom announced that it had rescinded its action, another school, McKinley of the west section, said it probably would not participate in the baseball race because of its financial condition. A canvass revealed that several other schools contemplate the abandonment of baseball.

"Our present financial condition probably will prevent McKinley from entering a baseball team in the league," declared Principal Riley.

TRUNKS PLAY NORTHBROOK.

In addition the following former coaches will deliver supplementary lectures: Jess Hawley, Dartmouth; Arnold Horween, Harvard; Duke Dunne, former Harvard line coach, and Judge Walter Steffen, Carnegie Tech.

Notre Dame Wins No. 13 in Row, 28 to 20

Notre Dame, Ind., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Joe Voegele, sophomore forward, was the spark needed to give Notre Dame its 13th consecutive basketball victory tonight when it defeated Michigan State, 28 to 20.

Voegele entered the game after a listless first half which ended with Notre Dame leading, 12 to 7. His presence not only bolstered the Irish passing attack, but resulted in seven points, which gave the Peoria star a tie with big Ed Krause, center, for high scoring honors.

State Stages Rally.

After taking a 10 to 3 lead in the first seven minutes of the game, Notre Dame relaxed, missed shots and muffed passes for 12 minutes until State was within three points. Krause's follow-up shot just before the period ended gave the Irish their half time lead.

Norb Crowe's two shots from quarter court and Voegele's free throw on Kircher's foul put Notre Dame ahead comfortably, 17 to 10 early in the second half. State again took control of the game, however, and brought the score to 17 to 15.

Voegele Gets Under Way.

Here Voegele made three successive shots and Krause added another to enable Notre Dame to coast to victory.

Thurnblad, 2 Others Tied for Cue Lead

Arthur Thurnblad of Chicago, the 1931 world's champion, gained a triple tie for first place by defeating Willie Hoppe, 40 to 37 in 29 innings in the five-handed three-cushion billiard tournament at the Kieckhefer Recreation last night. In the first night game Jay N. Bozeman of Vallejo, Cal., defeated Welker Cochran, 40 to 39 in 40 innings.

Augie Kieckhefer, the world's titleholder, kept in the race by defeating Thurnblad yesterday afternoon, 40 to 34 in 41 innings after Cochran had beaten Hoppe, 40 to 31 in 28 innings.

Kieckhefer, Thurnblad and Bozeman are the leaders with two games won and one lost, Cochran is fourth with two won and two lost and Hoppe is last with three defeats and no victories.

The two setbacks handed Hoppe were the surprises of the day. The standings:

	W.	L.	High run.	Best game.	Pts.	Innings.

LEAVE PINCKERT OFF ELEVEN FOR OLYMPIC GAMES

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 23.—(AP)—The name of Erny Pinckert, star halfback of the University of Southern California, is missing from the list of western players announced late today for a demonstration football game here Aug. 9 in connection with the Olympic games.

Considered one of the greatest potential threats of the west in the exhibition contest against the eastern team, Pinckert jeopardized his amateur standing by appearing at a local theater following the conclusion of his last season.

The selections for the team, made by the Western Coaching association, included nine University of California players, ten Stanford stars and eight members of the graduating Trojans.

Training will start July 18.

SINGLE FALL TO DECIDE WINNERS ON FRONTON MAT

The one fall to a finish plan in feature wrestling matches will be introduced in Chicago by Promoter Joe Coffey in tomorrow night's double windup show at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. The idea has proved popular in other wrestling centers, according to the promoter.

Hans Steinke will meet George Zaharias and Frank Bronowicz will grapple Hans Kamfer in the two feature matches. All four are engaged in an unofficial elimination tournament to select an opponent for Jim Londos. Steinke and Zaharias are two of the biggest men in the sport, the latter weighing 235 pounds, while the German is ten pounds heavier.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfaction in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

HENRY BLAIR'S ESTATE IS LESS THAN $1,000,000

Will Leaves Property to Family.

The estate of the late Henry A. Blair, president of the Chicago Surface Lines, is "less than $1,000,000." This was the estimate of attorneys from the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, who filed Mr. Blair's will with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court, yesterday afternoon.

The will was filed immediately after it was found in Mr. Blair's safety deposit vault at the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company. No petitions for admission to probate or for letters of administration accompanied it, and attorneys said that no competent valuation of his property had yet been made. The petition for admission to probate will be filed on Friday after a preliminary inventory of the property.

Will Share the Estate.

The estate is divided equally between the widow, Mrs. Grace Pearce Blair, who lives at 209 Lake Shore drive, and her daughters, Anita Carolyn Blair, who lives with her mother, and Mrs. Natalie B. Bradley, 1205 Ridge avenue, Evanston. Mrs. Bradley's one-third portion is put into a trust from which she will receive the income for life.

Her children, Cameron Blair, 11 years old, and Priscilla and Blair Higinbotham by her first marriage to Harry M. Higinbotham, who died in 1920, will receive the income at her death. The trust will terminate and be divided equally among the children when the youngest reaches his majority. Mrs. Bradley divorced her second husband, Neil Bradley, in 1930.

To Frank L. Hupp, personal secretary to Mr. Blair for 23 years, Mr. Blair bequeathed $10,000. The gift was "a token of the deep esteem in which I always held him," he will said.

Executors Are Named.

In the will, which was made on Feb. 6, 1929, Mr. Blair designated the Union Bank and Trust company as trustee, and Mr. Hupp and Frederick R. Rawson, formerly president of the bank and now chairman of the board of the First National, as executors. In a codicil drawn on Feb. 20, 1931, Mr. Blair bequeathed to Mrs. Bradley the home in which she is now living and designated the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company as trustee.

Mr. Blair died on Feb. 15 following a 10 days' illness of pneumonia. He was 79 years old. For the last quarter century he had managed Chicago transit properties and engaged in banking. He had taken an important part in the efforts to unify all the local transportation facilities in Chicago.

LEGGE EXPECTS FARMS TO GIVE U.S. PROSPERITY

Harvester Company Reports for 1931.

BY O. A. MATHER.

It was inevitable that the lowest prices in a generation for American agricultural products and consequent impaired purchasing power of a large section of the country's population should seriously affect the agricultural implement industry last year. Therefore, the International Harvester company, largest factor in the industry, had one of the leanest years in its history. There was no profit from its domestic business and only a meager profit from its foreign trade.

However, the belief is expressed by President Alexander Legge in his annual report, issued last night, that prices for farm products will improve and that agriculture will be the motivating agency to stem the tide of depression and inspire a return to prosperity.

Shares General Distress.

"This industry is now sharing in the distress of American agriculture," Mr. Legge says. "In fact, many or all industries are now sharing in that distress. There is a growing recognition of this fact and a growing belief that the originating impulse for relief of the depression will come with improvement in the prices of farm products.

"In such a vicious circle as now exists one group cannot buy the products of another for lack of means. But agriculture, which supplies the basic needs of food and clothing for all groups, seems the logical place to break the circle. An improvement in the buying power of the farm population would quickly start the wheels of industry turning and the benefits would spread to all.

There are good grounds for believing that the present ruinous prices for farm products will not long prevail."

Reserve Used for Dividends.

Net profits of International Harvester for 1931 were $1,346,537, which was equivalent to $1.63 a share on the $82,124,300 preferred stock. This profit was after usual charges and also a charge off of $5,451,813 for losses on receivables. Reserves, which had been set aside in prior years, stood the company in good stead, as $11,000,000 of such funds were transferred to income. Dividends totaled $16,758,909, but as the result of use of reserves it was necessary to resort to surplus for only $4,412,273. Total surplus at the end of 1931 still was $54,695,735. Total reserves now stand at $33,545,946, compared with $35,680,865 at the end of 1930.

In 1930 the company had net earnings of $25,703,191, which was equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $4.54 a share on 4,409,185 common shares. After paying dividends, $9,034,024 was added to surplus.

PALMOLIVE REPORT

While dollar sales of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company, makers of soaps and cosmetics, were less in 1931 than in the preceding year, the tonnage volume of business was well maintained. Net profits for last year were $7,598,223, equivalent after preferred dividends to $3.12 a share on 1,999,970 common shares. Dividends totaling $2.50 a share were paid on the common stock. Net profits for 1930 were $8,550,056, or $3.76 a share on the common stock.

"The volume of foreign sales and earnings has been good under existing circumstances, the exchange situation in certain foreign countries presenting the most difficult problem," President Charles S. Pearce says in his annual report. "Foreign profits and excess working capital have been safeguarded against declines in foreign exchange insofar as possible by their withdrawal in United States funds. Funds thus transferred to this country during the year have exceeded the total foreign earnings for 1931. Exchange losses on the withdrawals of these profits and on operating transactions for the year have been charged against earnings. As in past years, the amount required to convert the net working capital of foreign subsidiaries and branches to dollars has been charged to surplus."

This latter amount appears in the surplus account as a deduction of $943,155. The earned surplus of the company stood at $15,820,469 on Dec. 31, 1931, compared with $15,768,575 on Dec. 31, 1930.

Drop in Franc Halts Export of U.S. Gold

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 23.—Exports of gold to France virtually were impossible today as the exchange value of the franc was more than 1 cent below the point at which the metal could be shipped at a profit. The franc was quoted today at 3.93⅝. A decline of ¾ of a cent from last week.

At the same time the gold shipping point was advanced about one-quarter of a cent on the franc, owing to the increase in gold freight rates across the ocean, which was put into effect by the steamship lines today. The new freight rate is $2,500 for $1,000,000 of the metal transferred, against a former charge of $1,750.

This brings the gold point up to about 3.945, figuring interest charge at 3½ per cent, while the metal is in transit and employing only fast steamers.

Exchange dealers estimate that gold cannot now be shipped to Paris at a profit unless the exchange rate is 3.94¾. This is a high point for gold shipments. Part of it is due to the fact that the Bank of France imposed last week a charge of 20 cents per kilogram [2.20] pounds of gold against its purchases of gold bars. This is equivalent to the cost of minting the gold into coins. This is considered a friendly move.

These rates, except the freight charge, do not apply to the earmarked gold held here by the Bank of France.

Another reason against gold shipments at present is that no fast steamships will sail before Friday.

The cause of the fall in the franc exchange rate today is difficult to define here. Some dealers are inclined to the belief that the Bank of France had been influencing the rate upward, but had started so large a flow of the gold that it realized the scare against the dollar was being overdone and was drawing so much gold to Paris that it would be likely to cause a rise in prices in France that would put that country at a disadvantage in marketing her products abroad.

Withdrawal Plan Unchanged.

A Paris dispatch today stated that the Bank of France, nevertheless, had not changed its plan to withdraw all its holdings of earmarked gold from New York and liquidate most of its dollar balances here. However, the withdrawals are to be slowed down and will go forward henceforth only on French liners and will be spread over a period of several months.

The rise of the dollar against the franc is attributed in part to the Bank of France ceasing to sell sterling, partly owing to improved opinion in France concerning the British situation and partly, probably, to large sales of Indian gold in London to Paris which is offsetting the French balance in London.

Gold transactions today were confined to an import of $134,100 from Mexico, the New York Federal Reserve bank statement disclosed. Gold earmarked for foreign account showed no net change.

France Gets More Gold.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—The federal reserve board in its monthly review called attention to substantial additions made to the gold reserves of France and Switzerland in the last month. On Jan. 22 the French gold reserves totaled $2,771,000,000, an increase of $87,000,000 in the month and an increase of $613,000,000 in a year. Switzerland's gold reserve on Jan. 23 amounted to $468,000,000, an increase of $24,000,000 in a month and of $342,000,000 in a year.

At the end of January the United States held $4,415,000,000 in gold, a decline of $45,300,000 for the month.

Republic Steel Corp. Loss in 1931 Is $9,034,153

The report showed an operating profit of $4,574,745, or nearly $1,000,000 more than the interest on the company's bonded debt, the net loss being established by a write-off for depreciation of $7,636,406 and by other allowances.

Guy A. Richardson, vice president and general manager, was elected president of the Chicago Surface Lines at a meeting of the operating board late yesterday. He succeeds the late Henry A. Blair. Mr. Richardson also succeeds Mr. Blair as president of the Chicago Railways company, the underlying corporation owning the north and west side surface lines.

Albert W. Harris, chairman of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, was made a member of the operating board of the surface lines in place of Mr. Blair.

Mr. Richardson has been in Chicago since 1923. He is president of the Union League club and is a director of the First National bank.

The position of vice president and general manager, which Mr. Richardson held with the surface lines for nine years, is being discontinued. The board yesterday also ordered that a suitable memorial be sent the Blair family.

GUARANTY TRUST AID IS ELECTED TO I. C. BOARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 23.—The election today of Eugene W. Stetson, vice president of the Guaranty Trust company, as director of the Illinois Central railroad to succeed J. P. Warburg, raised the question in railroad circles today whether some shift in the banking alignment of the road was reflected in this action.

Controlled by Union Pacific, which owns more than 31 per cent of the Illinois Central stock, either directly or through wholly owned subsidiaries, the road has for some time been identified with the Kuhn, Loeb banking interests, whereas, in today's election, one directorship representative of these bankers was filled in a manner which might be construed as indicating Morgan interest in the road.

Inquiry failed to disclose, however, any change in the banking affiliation of the Illinois Central.

The earnings reported are considerably in excess of earlier estimates, which indicated profit of 50 cents a share.

Opens Office to Sell Bonds of Shut Banks

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—John W. Pole, controller of currency, announced today that a centralized office to market bonds of suspended national banks had been established in the New York Federal Reserve Bank building to aid in getting the greatest return for the assets of the closed banks.

The plan, he said, contemplated bringing into New York the assets of closed banks which have a market there and selling them from a central office to secure the maximum amount for disbursement to depositors and creditors and to prevent the promiscuous dumping of securities in various parts of the country. It is impossible to make an estimate of the amount of securities which would thus be sold in New York.

Reserve Bank Will Aid.

The New York office will be under the immediate control of the controller and will be aided by the federal reserve bank of New York. Pole said that securities not having a New York market would not be handled by the New York central office.

During the last year 409 national banks suspended which had deposits of $439,171,000, while in January of the present year 74 national banks suspended which had deposits of $83,376,000.

Sees Aid for Closed Banks.

The federal reserve board today hailed the formation of the Reconstruction Finance corporation as the outstanding event of interest to banks during the last month. While it made no predictions as to results expected from the corporation it pointed out that it had funds up to $200,000,000 which could be loaned on the assets of the suspended banks, thereby making money more readily available to the depositors.

The board reported that in January 334 banks with deposits of $275,441,000 suspended. The number was 24 less than in December, when 358 banks with deposits of $277,051,000 closed. During January 14 banks with deposits of $7,495,000 were reopened.

The board also reported that liquidation of member bank credit, which began in 1929, continued through January of this year with a decline of $550,000,000 at banks in leading cities. Since September, 1929, the reduction of member bank credit has been $5,800,000,000.

NET INCOME OF ILL. CENTRAL UP IN JANUARY

Despite lower gross operating revenues the Illinois Ceneral railroad had a larger net operating income in January than in the same month of 1931, according to the monthy statement issued yesterday. Net operating income last month was $659,504, an increase of $254,709 over January, 1931. Gross operating revenue in January was $7,805,829, a decline of $2,473,640 from a year ago. After interest and other fixed charges the road had a deficit for the month of $706,926.

	1932	1931
Union Pacific	$596,940	$1,427,713
Nickel Plate	59,715	181,334
Pere Marquette	*30,866	*126,269

*Deficit.

New York, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The first seven railroads to report January net operating income showed a continuance of the recent decline. Total net operating income for these carriers was $3,401,000, against $4,753,000 in January of last year, and $6,376,000 in December of 1931. Gross revenues in January were $31,796,000, as reduced from $41,956,000 in the like month of 1931.

OFFERS LIMITED BI-METALISM PLAN FOR U. S.

Smelter Head Makes Plea for Silver.

New York, Feb. 23.—(AP)—A plan for limited bimetalism at no fixed ratio was suggested today by Francis H. Brownell, chairman of American Smelting and Refining company, as a means of restoring equilibrium in world currency systems.

Mr. Brownell, in a new study of the silver problem, advocated a modified restoration of that metal on the theory that the quantity of gold was insufficient to provide an adequate basis. Bimetalism on a fixed ratio, especially the historic 16 to 1 proportion, would be impractical, he asserted.

The plan suggested, he said, avoided the principal objections to unlimited fixed ratio bimetalism, especially that of "too great and too sudden an inflation because of too great an expansion in the metal base."

principle that gold should continue to

The proposal is based on the general principle that gold should continue to be the primary metal, "to be used to the full extent of its availability," but that it should be supplemented by silver at market value to the extent necessary to correct or prevent an appreciation in gold, that is, a fall in commodity prices.

Wants Stable Money.

"The fundamental object is to secure a money more stable and less fluctuating when measured in commodity prices, avoiding on the one hand injury to the creditor class because of too great inflation of the commodity price level.

"Assume that reserves of precious metal, upon which a currency is based, should include both gold and silver to an adequate extent, say 50 per cent of the total paper issue. Of this metal base, a fixed proportion—say one-half—must be gold, always of the same value, $20.67 per ounce. The remaining half should contain a fixed small amount of silver—say one-sixteenth—and the other seven-sixteenths should be optionally in gold or silver—the silver always not on a fixed ratio of value to gold, but at its market value averaged over some period, say the last six months, as established by some designated authority, for example the secretary of the treasury.

Amount of Silver.

"If the price of silver were 25 cents an ounce, twice the amount of silver would be necessary as compared with that necessary if the price were 50 cents an ounce. The higher the price of silver, the lesser the ounceage that would be required, and the lower the price of silver, the greater the ounceage required. To protect against with-

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 23.—They took Auburn Auto for another ride on the stock exchange today. Word that the pool headed by Frank A. Vanderlip, former head of the National City bank, had at last withdrawn entirely from the much bufeted issue, coming on top of some unfavorable gossip regarding the company's affairs, put in circulation recently, proved too much of a temptation for the bears. They bore down on the defenceless volatile of the early trading and carried it down more than 15 points in less than no time.

The fury and success of the attack unnerved the bull contingent and served to unleash a volume of sales for the decline, which evidently had been held in leash in fear of a resumption of last week's recovery movement. Renewed liquidation made its appearance here and there also. The upshot was a general reaction with losses of from 1 to 5 points or more the rule. The selling gained momentum during the afternoon and the closing gong found most shares around their worst of the day.

Turnover Is Light.

About the only cheering feature of the day's business was the comparative light volume of transactions, the total being barely 1,300,000 shares. Most of the activity was professional in its origin, interest generally being at a low ebb.

New York traction stocks showed the best resistance group to the renewed wave of pessimism, Brooklyn Manhattan Transit running counter to the current for a gain of more than a point and Interborough going ahead for a half or so. Revived talk of impending unification of the lines was the secret of the conspicuous strength in this corner of the market.

At its low of 93 today, Auburn was

THEIR USUAL INCOME

■ Not since the early 90's have many sound bonds sold at such low price levels as now prevail. In some classifications, and in many individual issues, prices are lower than in 1920-1921.

We have prepared a diversified list of twelve bonds—all well secured—all earning their interest requirements by an ample margin—all selling, on the average, for about half their par values.

These twelve bonds, in $1000 denominations ($12,000 in par value), could be bought at today's market for about $6500. The average yield, to maturity, would be 11.8 per cent—as compared with the average coupon rate of 5.4 per cent. Some of the issues are available in denominations of $500 and $100.

We do not advise the purchase of these bonds for speculative purposes. But we do recommend them to investors who wish to take advantage of present bond prices—to secure a rate of income ordinarily unheard of in conservative investments.

Write for this list now. It describes the issues, gives essential information as to security and recent earnings.

W. D. COOLIDGE TO BE AWARDED SCIENCE HONOR

Won by President Hoover in 1919.

BY AL CHASE.

William David Coolidge, who since 1905 has been on the staff of the General Electric research laboratory, of which he is now associate director, will be given the Washington award for 1932 at a dinner to be held at the Hotel Sherman this evening. This award, founded in 1916 by John Watson Alvord, is "in recognition of devoted, unselfish and preëminent service in advancing human progress," and is administered by the Western Society of Engineers.

WILLIAM DAVID COOLIDGE.

President Hoover won this award in 1919; Orville Wright in 1927; Bion J. Arnold was recipient in 1929, and Ralph Modjeski was awarded this honor in 1931.

Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, president of the University of Illinois, will deliver the principal address of the evening. This will be his first appearance before Chicago engineers. The presentation of the Washington award will be made by Frank D. Chase, president of the Western Society of Engineers. The introduction will be by Elmer T. Howson, chairman of the Washington award commission.

Among Dr. Coolidge's achievements are ductile tungsten used for lamp filaments, wrought tungsten for contacts and X-ray targets, the hot Cathode X-ray tube, various types of X-ray generating equipment, the C tube for submarine detection and signaling, and the Cathode ray tube. Without drawn tungsten filaments the incandescent lamp was costly and unreliable. Without his improvements the X-ray tube was feeble and dangerous to operate. His Cathode-ray tube has unknown possibilities in science and medicine, for its beam has the power of a ton of radium.

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES EASE ON LIGHT TRADING

Total transactions amounted to only 40,000 shares, which represented the smallest turnover for a full trading period in several weeks.

January Realty Mortgage Sales Show Advance

A substantial upward trend in the dollar volume of real estate mortgages is recorded in January for the first time in recent months, according to a monthly compilation of official reports by Nelson, Hunt & Co. of Chicago, specialists in real estate financing. Analysis of official figures from selected representative metropolitan districts showed that the volume of real estate mortgages filed in January was about 39 per cent larger than in December. This increase, however, failed to bring the January total near that of the same month in 1930, the decrease below January a year ago being about 41 per cent.

The Chicago Real Estate board will hold a smoker and card party, the first such event in the history of the organization, tomorrow evening at 7:30. It will be a stag and will be at the board rooms. Alben T. Myren is chairman of the committee in charge. There'll be other entertainment in addition to cards.

AUBURN STOCK DECLINES UNDER BEAR POUNDING

General List Retreats 1 to 5 Points.

within two points of its 1932 bottom. The figure compares with the year's high of 151¾. Four houses were reported to have been responsible for the sale of some 25,000 shares of the stock during the period of heaviest trading this morning. The ruthlessness of selling in the earlier hours of trading today was reported to have moved several governors of the exchange to take charge of trading at the Auburn post as they did last Saturday. Whether such a "curb" was clamped on the trading or not the price steadied abruptly shortly before noon and the close found some three points of the earlier loss recovered. The final sale was at 95¾, giving the stock of a net loss of 12¼ points on the day.

Other outstanding losers of the session included Union Pacific, which was fleeced for 6¾ points after being off about 8 at one time; Atchison, off 4⅝; American Can, off 3½; Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, 3¼; Coca-Cola, Norfolk and Western and Peoples Gas, 3 points each; American Telephone, 4⅝, and Westinghouse, 2¾ points.

Preferreds Are Active.

American Woolen preferred was again active and worked forward about 2 points on its recapitalization program, but was unable to hold all its advance in the face of later selling. Certainteed Products, Gillette and National Biscuit preferred stocks also bucked up in the early trading, only to give way with the rest of the list later.

The market's action today was looked upon as confirmation of a widely held view that the aggressive bull operations of last week had substantially reduced the outstanding short interest without reviving public interest in any marked degree. Close observers say that the majority of professional traders are still strongly bearish and that they take little stock in the alarm manifested in some quarters over possible further restrictions to curb short trading.

As usual there was little in the day's news to influence sentiment either way. The dry-up in bank failures and the reputed growth of confidence in banks probably helped to relieve the market of some pressure it might otherwise have experienced, but it provided little incentive for buying either for investment or speculative purposes.

PROFIT TAKING CHECKS RISE IN WHEAT MARKET

Chicago Trader Called Seller of Big Line.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat made a firm start and a tame finish yesterday. A strong array of bullish reports from abroad, including an advance of nearly 2c in futures in Liverpool and reports of an aggressive export demand combined to lift prices in the local market ⅞@1c over Saturday's finish in the face of a decline in securities in New York.

The early advance exhausted the local buying power, and heavy profit taking made its appearance at 62¼c and over for the May. Foreigners were credited with having been good buyers at the start.

Continued weakness in stocks finally resulted on considerable scattered liquidation, and a local professional also was credited with having gone out of a line of long wheat. This, with the overbought pit condition, carried prices off 1⅝@2c from the top and the finish was within a fraction of the bottom with net losses of ⅛@1¼c with March leading. The latter closed at 57c, while May was 60⅝c, July 62⅛@62¼c, and September 63⅝@63⅞c.

Winnipeg Market Strong.

Almost without exception news developments during the day were favorable to holders. Liverpool wheat was strong early on buying induced by reports of large flour sales; a keen continental demand, an increase in the Italian quota on foreign wheat and bad crop reports from Russia. At one time May wheat in the English market was a fraction above the same delivery in Chicago, but toward the last there was free selling and the close was ½@¾c higher as compared with Saturday with May at 61⅜c, or ⅞c under Chicago.

The better character of the news from abroad was reflected in an active foreign demand for North American cash wheat with sales in all positions, including some done on Monday estimated at 1,250,000 to 1,500,000 bu. Unlike the condition which has prevailed of late there was a fair amount of American hard winter understood to have been sold, Greece taking a cargo at the gulf and there was also scattered lots sold.

Removal of hedges against export sales had considerable influence on Winnipeg, which gained on Chicago rather sharply, closing ⅝@1⅛c higher than on Saturday with May at 67⅛c in Canadian funds. The latter were quoted at 11⅞@12 per cent discount. Buenos Aires closed ⅞c higher as compared with Saturday.

An interesting development in the world's situation was a report Greece had chartered room for 1,750,000 to 2,000,000 bu Russian wheat, which is now in store in the United Kingdom. Unfavorable crop comments were received during the day from India and Poland, and a semi-official report from the latter country indicated appreciable damage had resulted from the recent cold wave.

Liquidation in Corn.

A heavy movement of cash corn in the west, especially to the local market, started a selling movement in corn that uncovered stop loss orders and carried prices ¾@1c from Saturday's finish with scattered liquidation developing on the way down. Closing trades were at the bottom with March finishing at 35¼c; May, 39¼@39⅝c, and July, 41⅝@41¾c. Buying against bids checked the break.

Sentiment in corn was bearish and the trade made much of the receipts of 368 cars, while the basis in the sample market was ¼@⅜c lower, and the widest of the season. No. 2 yellow being 3@3½c under May. The March delivery closed only ⅜c above the inside figure on the crop. The country sold 86,000 bu to arrive. An increase of 844,000 bu was shown in the visible supply with the total now 16,680,000 bu against 18,230,000 bu last year.

New Low on March Oats.

March oats broke 1¼c at the extreme yesterday to 21¾c, the lowest at which that future has sold so far during the current crop year. Deferred deliveries eased with the March and with corn. Closing trades were ⅜@1c lower with March finishing at 22c; May 24⅜c, and July 25⅛@25¼c. There were intimations of export business at the seaboard.

Rotterdam was credited with having bought a moderate amount of North American rye yesterday, but the quantity was not given. Futures were little affected and closed ½@1c lower in sympathy with wheat. May was 45¼c and July 47⅜c at the last.

HIDE FUTURES

A firmer undertone was shown in the hide market. A leading tanner and shoe manufacturing concern was reported to have bought 50,000 to 60,000 light cow hides on the basis of 6c at Chicago over the holiday cleaning up the market. Futures on the New York hide exchange closed unchanged to 20 points higher with sales of 1,560,000 lbs. Prices follow:

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 9,000; hogs, 21,000; sheep, 12,000.

The course of the hog market was altered abruptly yesterday. Prices retreated fully 10@15c before the session ended, with the close near the low point of the day.

Obviously Monday's upturn was more than the trade could stand, in view of the generally unchanged outlet for pork products, and buyers took advantage of the first opportunity to rub out the gain. Opening sales were in line with Monday's high spot, but prices commenced to drift irregularly lower soon after the start. The top for the day at $4.35, paid early, equaled the previous day's top, while the general average for the whole day showed a loss of 5c at $4.00. The market accumulated weakness on the way down. An advance estimate of 61,000 head at five markets for today against 50,300 last Wednesday showed an unexpected increase in supplies. Yesterday's arrivals, however, were below normal at most points. Chicago handled 27,000 head. Only two Tuesday totals have been smaller since middle of last October. Buyers were more aggressive after the 10@15c lower basis had been established late, but enough to change the trend of the market.

Offers for July hogs were lowered to $6.10 on yesterday's futures market, but no bids were posted over $5.00. May mediums were bid $5.00 and offered at $5.35. March mediums were offered at $5.00 and bid $4.25, while light weights for that month carried $4.50 bids.

Cattle Trade Is Dull.

Cattle buyers showed a disposition to loaf again yesterday, resulting in one of the dreariest trades in several days. Only a dribble of trading was reported during the first few hours and it was well toward noon before a reliable list of quotations had been established. A few eastern representatives took the top kinds at steady prices, but the rank and file of steers ruled weak to lower. A big share of last week's gains have been erased and prevailing quotations are only 25@50c above the lowest spot last year. The probability of a good sized holdover last night made today's estimate of 9,000 all the more impressive to the weakened selling side. Choice long yearlings and medium weight steers averaging 1,060@1,299 lbs sold at $8.25, the day's top. The bulk of beef steers sold at $5.00@7.40. The proportion of cattle selling below the $5.00 is smaller, although several carloads of common off colored stock had to go as low as $4.00. Butcher stock sagged again and closing sales appeared 25@50c lower than at the close of last week. Most cows sold at $3.00@3.50, only prime offerings reaching $4.00, while choice 644 lb yearling heifers sold up to $6.25. Calves sold mostly steady.

Lambs Bring $7.00.

The lamb market broke loose again yesterday when less than 11,000 head arrived, and despite buyers' efforts to hold the top from skyrocketing again city butchers and eastern interests were paying $7.00 at the close. Advances of 25c were general in midsession and later, when bulk of good grades were sold, and packers were forced to follow on the rank and file. There was nothing in the wholesale trade to justify the advance which was attributed solely to abnormally light supplies. Yesterday's arrivals were equal to the smallest for Tuesday since last July. Packers were paying $6.75@6.90 for best grades of slaughter lambs as the market closed. Aged sheep and yearlings were scarce and unchanged.

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.03 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Household loans, $50 to $300 to families at reasonable rates. Rate on loans above $100 are one-fifth lower than maximum permitted by small loan law.

For example, average monthly cost of $200 repaid in 20 equal monthly payments is $2.63—the lowest in Chicago.
